

dially welcome. They are glad the inauguration of this new hall should take place under such auspices. This hall had its origin in a general want felt of a place of meeting of that description. It had its inception in national love, and its name clearly indicates the source of that inspiration. But that love was two-fold—love that the man entertains for his aged sire and for his affianced bride—love for the birth place of many of us beyond the ocean, and love for the future homes of our posterity to many a remote generation. While love for the one is deeply engrained—not upon the palms of our hands, but on the inmost recesses of our hearts—love for the other—though more recent—is not less pure, holy and enduring. For we must feel that on this soil—the seat of a Dominion—whose history is doubtless still in the future—but whose destiny we need not doubt (for in our hands, under Providence it mainly lies)—whose destiny, I say, it will be to take a prominent part in extending the blessings of humanity and civilization over a large portion of this vast continent—over this land of our birth, or of our choice.

We are becoming—we have become—a nation. We may be English, or Irish, or Scotch, or French, or German, or Scandinavian, but above and beyond all we must have a nationality, and we have a nationality indigenous to the soil on which we live and move, and from which we derive our sustenance. This is clearly the duty of every one. The history of him whose effigy surmounts this building, St. Patrick, who went to Ireland when an old man from St. Omar, in France, yet his name is imperishably associated with the land he converted from Heathenism to Christianity.

In this common body of Canadian brotherhood we should be united heart and soul, and nothing that I can think of will more powerfully contribute to that good end—of smoothing off those angularities of character—than occasional meetings in this noble hall for common purposes, having no regard to those lesser peculiarities which in some respects, may still divide. For public assemblies of our fellow-citizens generally, whether for business, social or innocent pleasures, the doors of the hall now stand hospitably and permanently open, and as the want of such a convenient assembly room has been doubtless often felt, I cannot but anticipate that the general public will willingly avail themselves of it now that they have it. Let not the name deter any—it is itself it is a very respectable name. Indeed, it is the opinion of many, well-versed in these matters, that it is one of the most respectable in the calendar.

Be that as it may, and I am not disposed to enter into questions so subtle and abstruse—the hall is now become a common place. Every nationality and every shade of opinion is represented on the stock books. And now I think I may congratulate our citizens as well as those more immediately concerned on the erection of this stately edifice. The strides that have of late been made by Montreal in material prosperity, and in the erection of new and imposing buildings as a consequence of that prosperity, are very great. Amongst these no mean place will be assigned to that in which we are at present assembled. I say this to the honour of the men by whom this building was designed, and of the men by whom the design has been carried into effect. The architect of St. Paul, in London, has interred within the precincts of that vast cathedral and on his grave-stone is inscribed, "St. Paul's Cathedral, London, 1693."—If you seek his monument look around. I trust it will be a long time before we shall be called upon to write an epitaph on my friend Mr. Hopkins, or his partner Mr. Wiley, and I do not think there is any serious intention at present of placing either of them—as Sir Christopher Wren was placed—beneath the pile of their own fashioning. But, living or dead, it will not, I hope, take from its praise when it is mentioned that he was the architect of St. Patrick's Hall. I have to return thanks to Messrs. Howley and Sheridan, who gave shape and form to the architect's design, Mr. Dute and Mr. Gilbert, and to Mr. Chasteloup, who has constructed these beautiful lights above our heads.

And now that the building is complete—here near the spot where Jacques Cartier presented the emblem of man's salvation to the untutored savage—we here present to the inhabitants of this, our beautiful city, who have replaced the latter, and as Jacques Cartier presented and the Indians received it as a sign of peace and good will, may this be given and received as an additional bond of union among all classes in our community.

Dr. Hingston was frequently applauded during the delivery of his remarks.

The programme was then proceeded with. As our readers are no doubt aware, for the past few months Prof. Torrington has had in training some 250 amateur performers, both vocal and instrumental and the successful rendition of the several selections in which they took part, is an evidence of his efficiency as a musical conductor, and of the existence of a high degree of musical talent among our city amateurs, both ladies and gentlemen. The programme comprised selections both sacred and secular. In addition to the grand chorus of 200 voices, and a full orchestra of 50 performers, the band of the 100th Regiment and the following eminent artists took part: Madame Petipas, M. Lavoie, M. Lamotte, Mr. Hamall, the favorite ballad singer; Jules Hone, Mr. Walsh, and M. C. Laroche. The following is the programme:

PART I.—(SACRED.)

1. Quartette and chorus—"O God, when thou appearest"—Mozart.

QUARTETTE.

Soprano—Miss Thompson. Tenor—Mr. Robinson. Alto—Miss Fessenden. Bass—Mr. Miller.
2. Wedding March—Mendelssohn.—Orchestra.
3. Soprano Solo and Chorus—"Inflammatus"—(Stabat Mater).—Rossini.—Solo by Madame Petipas.

4. Chorus "Hallelujah" (Mount of Olives).—Beethoven.

PART II.

5. National Air—English, Irish, Scotch and Canadian.—Band of the 100th Regt., under the direction of their Bandmaster, Mr. Walsh.
6. Grand Liberty Duet—"Il Pustiano"—Bellini.—Messrs. Lavoie and Lamotte.
7. Piano Solo—"La Harpe Solenne"—Kruiger.—Madame Petipas.
8. Vocal Duet—"The Harp that once through Tara's Hall"—Moore.—Messrs. Fellen and McNulty.

PART III.

9. Overture—"Guillaume Tell"—Rossini.—Band of the 100th Regt., under the direction of their Bandmaster, Mr. Walsh.
10. Violin Solo—Fantasia on "St. Patrick's Day"—Vieuxtemps—Jules Hone.
11. Ballad—"Mother, O sing me to rest"—Mr. Hamall.
12. Clarinet Solo—"On Irish Airs"—Miller.—Mr. Walsh (Bandmaster 100th Regt.)
13. Chorus—"Chant du Bivouac"—Kuonen.
God Save the Queen.

Each part was performed in a manner which elicited the hearty applause of the large audience. Although specially requested not to call for encores they were so enraptured with Mr. Jules Hone's violin solo on "St. Patrick's Day," which was really grand—that he was obliged to repeat it, and again retired amidst loud applause. We may add that the means of egress from the Hall are so complete that in a few moments the large audience had dispersed.—Daily News.

We cannot but felicitate the first promoters of the St. Patrick's Hall, and the present Directors upon the happy—we may say brilliant success that has rewarded their labors. The St. Patrick's Hall will be not only an architectural ornament to the City of Montreal, but a monument of the warm patriotism, the good taste, and liberality of the Irish Catholics of Montreal.—We publish a list of the Directors for the current year, to whose management the public are indebted for the splendid ceremony of inauguration reported above: and we believe that we are but doing a bare act of justice when we add that though his name is no longer on the Board of Directors, there is no one who has taken from first to last a more active part in starting and bringing to a happy conclusion the enterprise of a St. Patrick's Hall, than B. Devlin, Esq., late President of the St. Patrick's Society. Here are the names of the present Directors—Dr. Hingston, M. P. Ryan, M. P. P., Edw. Murphy, L. Moore, J. W. McGavran, C. I. Cusack, and J. E. Mullins, Esquires.

A SISTER'S STORY. By Mrs. Augustus Craven. Translated from the French by Emily Bowles.

This is a very interesting piece of Catholic biography, of which it is sufficient for us to say, that it has created quite a sensation amongst English Protestants as well by the intrinsic interest of the story, as by the grace of its style, and the insight which it affords into the inner life of Continental Catholics. Blackwood for August devotes a long article to a notice of this remarkable work; and the Westminster Review, the leading Protestant periodical magazine, has also a brief but flattering critique of the same book, which it describes as "far better than any novel," with the advantage of being at the same time strictly true. We can therefore highly recommend this excellent book to the notice of a Catholic public. We may add that the Messrs. Sadlers have brought it out in a most elegant form in one volume for the very low figure of Two Dollars.

BLACKWOOD'S EDINBURGH MAGAZINE—August, 1868. Messrs. Dawson Bros., Montreal.

The current number opens with the first part of a labored eulogy of Mr. Disraeli, followed by a continuation of the Odes of Horace. Then come articles on the following subjects:—Recit d'Une Sœur, being a critique of a Catholic work lately translated into English; How Frank Thomlay was Cured, a story without much point; Letters from a Staff Officer with the Abyssinian Expedition, part iii; Historical Sketches of the Reign of George II., Part V.; The Poet; and lastly Cornelius O'Dowd, who seems to be getting uncommonly stupid.

THE WESTMINSTER REVIEW—July, 1868.—Messrs. Dawson Bros., Montreal.

For the leading Protestant Quarterly of the British Empire the current number is scarce up to the usual mark. The articles are a trifle heavy, but as a staunch consistent Protestant, the Westminster is still unrivalled. It contains articles on the following subjects:—1. The Character of British Rule in India. 2. Davidson's Introduction to the New Testament. 3. Co operation Applied to the Dwellings of the People. 4. Nitro Glycerine. The New Explosive. 5. Marriage Laws of the United Kingdom. 6. The Incas. 7. Church and State. 8. The Spanish Gipsy. Contemporary Literature.

THE NORTH BRITISH REVIEW—June, 1868. Messrs. Dawson Bros., Montreal.

The current number contains very excellent articles on the following subjects:—1. A Liberal Education: Schools and Universities. 2. Mistrals' Mireio. 3. Saint Louis. 4. Creeds and Churches. 5. Memoirs of Baron Bunsen. 6. The Greek Idyllic Poets. 7. On Sleep. 8. The History of Writing.

THE EDINBURGH REVIEW—July, 1868.—Messrs. Dawson Bros., Montreal.

This is a first-rate number. We give a list of the contents:—1. Salem Witchcraft. 2. English Dictionaries. 3. The Apocryphal Gospels. 4. Lytton's Chronicles and Characters. 5. Wellington's Correspondence 1819-25. 6. The Modern Russian Drama. 7. Letters and Speeches of Leon Faucher. 8. Prince Henry—the Navigator. 9. New Germany. 10. The National Church.

NELLIE NETTERVILLE, or One of the Transplants. A Tale by the Author of "Wild Times," "A Blind Agnese." New York: The Catholic Publication Society.

A very interesting historical novel, not indeed adhering literally to facts, but at the same time giving a fair view of the social condition of Ireland during the days of persecution, when to be a Catholic, was what it was to be a Christian in the first centuries of the Christian era.

THE CATHOLIC WORLD.—For the contents of this excellent monthly We are well pleased to learn that it is the design of the editor to bring out a translation of a French novel, "The Invasion," from the pen of the author of the "Conscript." This we hope will ensure to the World a large increase in the number of its subscribers.

A CARD.—The Sisters of the Congregation of Notre Dame, Williamstown, having considerably enlarged their establishment, beg to inform Parents and Guardians, that they can now accommodate a very large number of boarders. The convent is situated in one of the most healthy localities in Canada and but four miles from the Lancaster Station. Board and tuition in the English and French languages, with vocal and instrumental music and all kinds of needle work are placed at the very low rate of eight dollars per month.
