

“It is clear to us that the program has contributed to our success. While the results set forth below have been modest, they have provided a stable foundation for our expansion in Europe.

“In our opinion, the Program is an excellent and equitable one. It requires potential beneficiaries to put forth an effort at analysis and marketing and to make a financial contribution that will prove just how serious they are. The applications are analyzed carefully, and a rigorous follow-up is conducted, as it should be with public funds.”
