

in the United States, the American Medical Association has been the leading organization in the world in the promotion of the health of the people. It has been the champion of the cause of the patient, the defender of the public interest, and the guardian of the honor of the profession. It has been the voice of the people, the conscience of the nation, and the light of the world. It has been the leader in the fight against disease, the enemy of ignorance, and the friend of progress. It has been the champion of the cause of the patient, the defender of the public interest, and the guardian of the honor of the profession. It has been the voice of the people, the conscience of the nation, and the light of the world. It has been the leader in the fight against disease, the enemy of ignorance, and the friend of progress.

It has been the champion of the cause of the patient, the defender of the public interest, and the guardian of the honor of the profession. It has been the voice of the people, the conscience of the nation, and the light of the world. It has been the leader in the fight against disease, the enemy of ignorance, and the friend of progress. It has been the champion of the cause of the patient, the defender of the public interest, and the guardian of the honor of the profession. It has been the voice of the people, the conscience of the nation, and the light of the world. It has been the leader in the fight against disease, the enemy of ignorance, and the friend of progress.

It has been the champion of the cause of the patient, the defender of the public interest, and the guardian of the honor of the profession. It has been the voice of the people, the conscience of the nation, and the light of the world. It has been the leader in the fight against disease, the enemy of ignorance, and the friend of progress. It has been the champion of the cause of the patient, the defender of the public interest, and the guardian of the honor of the profession. It has been the voice of the people, the conscience of the nation, and the light of the world. It has been the leader in the fight against disease, the enemy of ignorance, and the friend of progress.

It has been the champion of the cause of the patient, the defender of the public interest, and the guardian of the honor of the profession. It has been the voice of the people, the conscience of the nation, and the light of the world. It has been the leader in the fight against disease, the enemy of ignorance, and the friend of progress.