Mr. Morley's reply is a very long and synipathetic justincation of Harcourt's action, and a eulogy of his financial work, public spirit and zeal for the welfare of his party.

It is understood that Harcourt will retain his seat in the House of Commons.

Rosebery the Probable Successor.

Lord Rosebery will inevitably be indicated as the leader of the entire Liberal party. His brilliant speech on the Fashoda incident has settled that. As for the Liberal leadership in the House of Commons everything points to Mr. Herbert Henry Asquith, member for East Fife, and Secretary of State for the Home Department in the Gladstone-Rosebery Government, which began with Mr. Gladstone's Premiership in 1892, and ended under Lord Rosebery in 1893.

The affair lends unusual interest to the conference of the National Liberal Federation at Birmingham next Friday. A final decision as to the future leaders will be taken at a meeting of the Liberal members prior to the reassembling of Parliament. Sketch of Sir William.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt, whose wife—his second—is a daughter of the late John Lothrop Motley, the historian, and at one time United States Minister in London, has for 25 years held a commanding position in the Liberal party. Mr. Gladstone long regarded him as his ablest leutenant in the House of Commons. Second son of the Rev. William Harcourt and grandson of a former Archbishop of York, he was born Oct. 14, 1827.

former Archbishop of York, he was born Oct. 14, 1827.

In 1851 he left Cambridge University with high honors, and three years later he was called to the bar at the Inner Temple. In 1858, he unsuccessivily concested the Kirkcaldy Burghs, and 10 years after was returned to the House of Commens for the City of Oxford in the Liberal interests.

He was elected purfessor of international Christmas hampers, containing the following selection according to choice, two bottles brandy. Scotch, Irish or Canadian whiskey, gin or rum, and four bottles port sherry Madeira, claret, Sauterne, Burgundy or Tokay, Mara's, 79 Yonge-street, Phone 1708. City of Oxford in the Liberal interests.

He was elected professor of international law in Cambridge University in 1869, and in 1873 was appointed Solicitor-General, on which occasion he was knighted. This office he held until the resignation of Mr. Gladstone's Administration in February, 1874. When Mr. Gladstone returned to power in 1880, Sir William Harcourt was nominated Secretary of State for the Home Department.

on going down to Oxford for re-election, he was defeated by his Conservative opponent, but at this juncture Mr. Plimsoll, member for Derby, then a sure Liberal seat, resigned by accepting the Chiltern hundreds, whereupon Mr. Harcourt was chosen one of the representatives of that borough. He went out of office with his party in June, 1885, but on the return of the Liberals to power in January of the following year, he was made Chanzellor of the Exchequer. He was re-elected for Derby at the general elections of 1885 and 1886.

Mr. Harcourt went out of office again on the downfall of the Gladstone Government in July, 1886, but returned to it as Chancellor of the Exchequer in August, 1892, when Mr. Gladstone reassumed power and held this portfolio throughout the life of the Gladstone-Rosebery Government, which fell in June, 1895.
