TORE HIS LEG.

W. H. Butler, York Street, Meets With a Painful Accident.

The dangerous position of the telephone pole at the northwest corner of Adelaide and Dundas streets caused a tions at Government House. peculiar and painful accident to Mr. Walter H. Butler, of York street, Satwas waiting for a belt line car. At the corner mentioned the car makes a sharp turn close to the telegraph pole. Near this pole Mr. Butler stood waiting, and talking with a friend Mr. Chas. Moorehead, but did not notice the approach of the car, which jammed him against the pole, tearing the calf of his leg fearfully. It took the piece right out and made an indentation of the bone. Postmaster Lang, of East London, cared for the injured man until Dr. McDonald dressed the wound and had him removed to his home.

The Annual Queen's Birthday Parade to Divine Service.

Ven. Archdeacon Davis Delivers Patriotic Sermon at St. James' Church.

The Seventh Battalion, headed by the bugle and brass bands, paraded to St. James' Church, South London, yesterday morning, to attend divine service. The battalion was in charge of Lieut.-Col. Lindsay and Lieut.-Col. Smith, D.A.G. The turnout was a large and imposing one, and was viewed by a large number of citizens. Ven. Archdeavon Davis preached an appropriate sermon for the occasion-the celebration of her Majesty's birthday. There was a large congregation, the edifice being filled. The volunteers occupied the front rows in a body. The choir rendered a number of pleasing selections, and Miss Dora Taylor sang a solo in excellent voice. The subject of Mr. Davis's discourse was found in Ephesians vi., 9: "Put on the whole armor of God." "We are practically united today," said the speaker, "to celebrate the birthday of our beloved sovereign. The whole of the nations of the earth have learned to love and respect her, because of her beautiful character. She recognizes God as her ruler, and is beloved by all. There is not a true heart that does not rejoice at her long and marvelous reign. She is faithful to her own soul and to her subjects, and we may indeed thank God for such a ruler. When she was 12 years of age she solemnly vowed to be good, and we challenge the world's nations to find a vow more faithfully kept. Her first request when informed that she was Queen of England was for prayer. Prayer ends in praise. These incidents will give you some idea of the beautiful life and character of our sovereign, whom we have the great privilege of being subjects under. When in battle the wounded soldier has the cooling balm of knowing that he is fighting for his beloved Queen. She well deserves the admiration of every soldier. You soldiers of the Seventh Battalion, never let it be said that one of your number was disloyal to the Queen or God. If there is such a one among you, let him take off the red coat and no longer disgrace the colors. Life is a hard battle; put on the whole armor of God and fight it for his cause. This battle demands constant watchfulness and care. Discipline is one of the traits of the British army, and must also be the same with the army of God. In this license commissioners was held on battle God never provided for any re treat, his soldiers being expected to face the enemy until victory is com-plete. God's soldiers are provided with armor; put this armor on, and fight for his cause. Do what is right and fear nothing. May London ever be proud of her battalion as part of the great British army. Men, be loyal to God and your country. The safety o our country is in the hands of our volunteers. Soldiers of Canada, follow the example of your brothers, the brave British soldiers. Volunteers of Queen's Birthday.
