Asquithians, Women, Pacifists and Irish Nationalists All Routed at the Polls- All Coalition Ministers Are Returned.

LONDON, Dec. 29 .- (By the Associated Press) .- Complete returns for the election of the new parliament give the following results .

Coalition Unionists, 334; Coalition Liberals, 127; Coalition Laborites, 10; Unionists, 46; Asquithian Liberals, 37; Laborites, 65; National party, 2; Independents, 5; Socialists, 1; Sinn Feiners, 73; Irish Nationalists, 7.

All coalitions with the Unionists and National party may be regarded roughly as supporting Lloyd George. The only opposition will be formed by the Asquithian Liberals, Laborites and Independents.

A Sweeping Victory.

The broad features of the election results announced yesterday are the sweeping victory of the Lloyd George coalition, the complete rout of the Asquithians, the women candidates and pacifists, and the victory of the Sinn Feiners all along the line.

That the Coalition Government would be victorious had been a foregone conclusion, despite the rumblings of rumor between the polling and the counting of the votes, that labor would make an unexpected showing. But that David Lloyd George would command completely an overwhelming majority in the new house in the proportion of almost 5 to 1 had never been contemplated, even by the most sanguine coalitionists. And since coalition, as it now operates, is distinctly more Conservative than Liberal in its composition and tendencies, this result of the first election under the extended franchise and with the participation of millions of women voters, is most suggestive.

One Woman Elected.

Of fourteen women candidates only one will be entitled to sit in the House, namely, a Sinn Feiner, Countess Marklevicz, who was elected for St. Patrick's division of Dublin City. But as the Sinn Feiners refuse to sit at Westminster, the House of Commons will, as thereto, be composed entirely of males. males.

All the other women candidates, including many of the foremost in the cluding the

The Sinn Feiner Sweep.

The Sinn Feiners as expected, not only swept Ireland, but gained their seats with enormous majorities, leaving the Nationalist representation in the Nationalist representation in the new Parliament a bare seven members. John Dilion, the Nationalist leader, was defeated by E. Devalera, Sinn Feiner for East Mayo, by a majority of over 1,000. Joseph Devilin, however, defeated Devalera for the West Belfast seat. Devalera also was a candidate in the South Down district.

A prominent feature of the polling seveled by the count is the comparative of the most conspicuous contests:

The Asquithlan Slump.

It also is noted that the defeat of the Asquithlans, especially the former ministers, in most cases can be attributed in part to split votes in three-cornered contests.

The rejected candidates in this group included Philip Snowden, James Ramisay MacDonald, William C. Anderson (Labor), Arthur Henderson (Labor) eader), Robert L. Outhwaite (Liberal for Hanley), Frederick W. Jewett (Labor member for West Bradford), George Lansbury (former Socialist member for the Bow and Bromley division of Tower hamlets), and Charles P. Trevalyan (former parliamentary secretary for education).

Among the surprises of the election was the defeat of Herbert H. Asquith the former premier. He is rejected in company with most of his ablest lieutenants, including Sir John Simon, former home secretary; Reginald Mc-Kenna, former chancellor of the exchequer; Walter Runeiman, former president of the board of trade; Herbert Samuel, former postmaster-general; Charles Masterman, former chancellor Samuel, former postmaster-general; Charles Masterman, former chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, and others.
