Public ownership was the real, and, elections in Ontario. The result cannot therefore be regarded save in the light of an emphatic victory for the principle which was so prominently identified with the present elections. Ontario declared in favor of public ownership. That is the real feature of the fight which closed at 5 o'clock yesteright.

The siege has indeed been a case of divided honors. The reckless and persistent courage of the Japanese has been met with equal bravery and stubbornness by the Russians. History in fact, the only issue in the federal

The rest of Canada where public ownership was not an issue, or where it was prejudiced by the delay in shoving it forward, the government has made a clean sweep. The result of the elections has a bearing on the elections which must soon take place in this province. The provincial elections are approaching and one of the signs of the elections which were held yesterday is that the coming elections in this province must turn on the principle of public ownership.
