PRINCESS ZARA
BY ROSS BEECKMAN.

(To be Continued.)

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Power of the Fraternity.

The princess did not start—she did not even look surprised when I uttered the strange sentence, but her great round eyes walled up in tears, and she caught her breath in a half-sobbing cry. Then, without uttering a word, she extended her hand and placed it in mine, and we remained thus for a moment silent. Presently, in a low whisper, I heard her repeat after me, the words, "Love, honor, and obey," and she added: "As long as we both shall live."

With a quick gesture that was purely feminine, she withdrew her hand from mine and thrust it into her bosom, as if to hide it from my eyes. Then she went to the window and gazed upon the snow clad city, and thus she remained for several minutes.

Presently she returned and came back to where I was standing.

"It is strange, it is not, Mr. Derrington," she asked in a low voice. "It is not that I am myself truly, it is hard to realize that this is Zara, de Echeveria who speaks to you now. I am like another person; it is as though another spirit had entered my body, and I seem to act without a will of my own. It began last night when you first entered my presence. It was as though I had no right to act without your sanction. Can you explain it?"

"No," I replied, "nobody can explain it. It is a secret that is known only to God, and His ways are unsearchable. But we have recognized it from the first."

We said nothing of love then. The subject seemed out of place at that moment. We both knew all that the other would have said, or could say, but we were too busy to say it. There was no need to do what would seem like repeating it.

"When will you hear from that note you have sent?" she asked presently.

"Very soon, now," I replied. "If your servant has delivered the message, there should be a reply within a few minutes. Let us go to the window and watch."

So we stood there by the window, silently communing with each other without speaking. Her left hand was clasped within my right one, and the minutes came and went until I raised my hand and pointed silently toward a large, double break, that was approaching. It had recognized the huge proportions of Tom Coyne, holding the reins, and I knew that underneath the covering were trusty followers of mine who would make short work of the waiting assassins.

"There comes the answer to my note," I said. "Watch that break!"

"I see it," she replied.

It dashed up on a run straight for the point where the other one was waiting, and came to a stop with a suddenness that threw the horses back upon their haunches. At that same instant there dashed from beneath the covering a half dozen men, and while some seized the horses of the waiting break, the others pulled the man from the driver's seat, still others jerked open the curtains and sprang inside. From our post of observation we could see that a severe struggle was taking place, and twice we heard the reports of pistols; and then the smaller carriage drove away, while the larger one, that which Tom Coyne had been driving, dashed straight for the door of the princess's house.

"The other contained the prisoners," I said to my companion.

"This one is coming here. Remember now, Zara, that you promised to trust me implicitly. No matter what happens, remember that."

"I will remember," she replied.

Then there came the summons at the door, and the voice of Tom Coyne requesting an audience with the Princess Zara de Echeveria. She looked at me inquiringly, and I nodded. At a moment more, Tom, followed by two men, entered the room where we were waiting them.

"Your name is Dubravnik?" said one of the men, addressing me.

"Yes," I replied.

"Are you indeed assured of this is the Princess d'Echeveria?"

"That is my name," replied Zara.

"I am very sorry to disturb you, but I must request you both to go with me, in the name of the Czar."

THE PRINCESS'S

Fashion Hint for Times Readers

BLouse OF EYELET EMBROIDERY.

Eyelet embroidery flouncing in rather a wide width was used for this charming blouse, which is dainty in character, albeit very simply fashioned. Strips of the flouncing, running up and down, form the fronts of the blouse, the overlapping front being finished with a pleated trail of lace under the edge of the scallops. The long sleeves are also formed of the flouncing used up and down, the edge of scallops running down the outer side of the arm. The blouse is finished with a little turn-down collar edged with the pleated lace and a small jabot tie of embroidery.

NEW YORK WOMAN DELEGATE MAKES ATTACK ON THEATRES

Tells the Women's Council That Plays of Doubtful Moral Calibre Always Draw Big Houses—A Plea for the Blind—Marriage of Cousins Scored

Toronto, June 29.—Before the section of the Women's Congress on social work and moral reform today, Miss Sadie American, of New York, made a clever attack upon the theatres, which received considerable applause from her audience.

"Do you think that 'alert' theatrical managers do not know their business? Don't they know that the sure guarantee of success for a play is to get it damned in the public print? Then you go to see the play for yourself, and come home and tell your neighbor that it is not fit for her to see. Then she immediately distrusts your judgment and goes to see it for herself. It's all wrong. You cannot rule people by saying 'don't' to them."

"Unless you are willing to provide well-regulated, proper places for your boys and girls to dance in, they will go to improper places. It is human nature to want amusement."

"When the author of 'Three Weeks' came to the United States and was lectured from one end of the country to the other, it is true that she might have written the most elaborate treatise on the white slave traffic, and remained undisputedly notorious in writing a book that no one can mention in decent society without seeing that sort of smile raised which should make every decent woman blush to her finger tips."

Before the industrial sections an address was given by F. Gardner, principal of the School for the Blind, Beaufort. There are 2,000 blind in the province of whom 200 are of or under school age. The blind want work, something to make the long, dreary day more livable, and there are many kinds of work which they can do, as well, though not so fast, as those having sight. "It is inadvisable," he went on, "for a blind person to marry one who is sighted, not because there is risk of blind offspring, but because every house needs at least one pair of eyes. The influence of the council should be used to prevent the intermarriage of couples, which is a prevalent cause of blindness, deafness, and other physical and mental defects."

Fredrick Helga Schested, of Denmark, told a section of the delegates to the International Congress of Women how to farm this morning. "Farming affords an interesting and excellent occupation, and the physical work is not beyond woman's strength," she said, "and the women in Denmark are steadily taking it up as a profession. I myself, am one of the women who earn their living as an agriculturist, after having gone through a special training on this head. Of the 724,000 people who live in the rural districts of Denmark, 150,000 or 20 per cent are women who earn their living by agricultural work."

ONE DEAD, TWO HURT IN MONTREAL AUTO SMASH

Montreal, June 29.—One man instantly killed, another seriously injured internally with two others bruised and badly shaken was the result of an automobile accident near Dixie at 9 o'clock last night. The dead man is William C. McIntyre, a prominent and wealthy Montrealer, and the injured are Percy Coward, manager of the Windsor Hotel.

The chauffeur escaped with a few scratches, the car was travelling at a high rate of speed, bound for Montreal. Suddenly it swerved into a telegraph pole and overturned, the pole snapping off and crushing the life out of McIntyre, who was in the rear seat with Coward.

The injured men were taken to the city by train. Coward and Weldon are at the General Hospital severely, but not seriously injured.

A ST. JOHN PASTOR WEDS IN FORT KENT

Additional Details of the Marriage of Rev. J. J. McCaskill Yesterday.

Choir, N. B., June 29.—The marriage of Miss Frances Dickey Cunliffe to Rev. John James McCaskill occurred at Christ church, Fort Kent (Maine), today. As the Lohengrin wedding march was played by Bernard Anselmi, of Houlton, the bride leaning on the arm of her father, and preceded by Miss Laura Mallett, as flower girl, was met at the altar by the groom, accompanied by the groomsmen, W. H. Cunliffe, Jr.

The bride was attended by the Misses Emma Putnam and Virginia Donnell, of Houlton, as bridesmaids. Miss Cunliffe looked exceedingly pretty in a wedding gown of diaphanous satin en traine with veil fastened with lilies of the valley and carried a shower bouquet of the same flowers, while the bridesmaids were faultless in pink chiffon over mesaline.

The ring service was performed by Rev. Kenneth McKay of Houlton. The church was filled with relatives and friends of the bride and groom and at the close of the service nearly all remained to the home of the bride, where an informal reception was held, and cake and punch served by the Misses Dora Brodbery and Mary Pinkham.

The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful pendant of aqua marine set pearls while the bridesmaid, groomsmen, flower girl and ushers were handsomely and appropriately remembered.

The groom, who is now pastor of St. Matthew's church, St. John, for seven years, occupied the pulpit in Christ church, Fort Kent, and during that time he endeavored himself to his whole congregation and friends which was met and loved by the entire community.

Miss Cunliffe, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cunliffe, is one of the most charming and dearly loved young ladies of her town, and her departure from Fort Kent leaves a vacancy in her circle of friends which will never be filled.

Mr. and Mrs. McCaskill left on the Temiscouata express for a two months tour of the provinces, including a few weeks fishing at Bras d'Or lakes, Nova Scotia. They were wished Godspeed by numerous friends amid showers of acs, confetti and old shoes.

Everything She Ate SEEMED A BURDEN TO CARRY. HAD STOMACH TROUBLE FOUR YEARS.

When your food has not been properly digested, your body has not received the benefit it should. The exertions of the gastric juice have been confined entirely to removing the undigested undigested portions of food which they cannot properly digest as possible from the body, thereby only giving the blood a small portion of nourishment with which to feed the tissues. Burdock Blood Bitters, makes pure blood, tones the stomach, and thus restores perfect health and strength to the debilitated system.

Mrs. D. A. Francisco, Roseland, B.C., writes: "I was suffering from stomach trouble of the worst kind for about four years. Everything I ate seemed a burden to carry. I always arose in the morning with a sickening and feverish taste in my mouth, and was also troubled with swellings in my hands and feet, which my physician said was due to the disordered state of my stomach. I tried everything that was purchasable, and also consulted two or three physicians, but could find no relief until one of my neighbors told me of a wonderful cure by Burdock Blood Bitters. I used altogether ten bottles and am now perfectly cured. I wish to recommend B.B.B. to anyone who may be so unfortunate as I was."

CANADA'S CREDIT IN ENGLISH MARKET

It Was Never so High as it is at the Present Time—Largest Colonial Loan Ever Flotated Goes for Good Price

Montreal, June 29.—A special London cable says: The government loan out tomorrow differs from the market expectations. It will not be for £10,000,000, but for £20,000,000, 3 1/2 per cent interest at 98 1/2, not 97, as the market conjectured. It will fall due from 1930 to 1950.

It is the largest loan any colony ever placed on this market. The price of the existing stock is 99, and the underwriting of such a large loan within half a point of the existing quotation is accepted as evidence of Canada's high credit here, especially seeing all the business is done through a Canadian bank, namely the Bank of Montreal.

Leading brokers comment on the fact that the market considers the price high, which shows that Canada got her money cheaply enough. She might have done even better had not premature and inaccurate press statements somewhat spoiled the impression. Four millions of the loan goes for redemption of bonds maturing.

DR. PUGSLEY TURNS FIRST SOD OF THE PORT ARTHUR DRYDOCK

In His Address the Minister of Public Works Predicts a Great Future for the Town Which Gave 100 Acres of Water Front and a Big Cash Bonus to Aid the Industry

Port Arthur, Ont., June 29.—The minister of public works, Mr. Pugsley, his two sons and Miss MacDonald, private secretary, arrived here this morning by Canadian Pacific. They were met by Mr. Connors, M.P., the mayor of the city, resident engineers of the department at Port Arthur and Fort William, and a number of aldermen and citizens, and first taken on an automobile tour around the city, after which the minister made a mention of the harbor and works now being prosecuted by his department.

After a trip of a few hours upon the harbor and bay, they were landed at the unique of the town where a large crowd had assembled to witness the turning of the first sod in connection with the drydock and shipbuilding industry, to the assistance of which the city is contributing a magnificent site, consisting of 100 acres on the water-front and a large cash bonus.

In a very happy speech Mayor Matthews requested the minister to perform the ceremony. Before doing so the minister spoke of the rapid development of Port Arthur in the last few years, its beautiful location and of the fact that it and Fort William, being at the head of one of the greatest inland water systems in the world and the point of connection with the railways traversing the illimitable and fertile prairies of the west, must still grow more rapidly in the future.

He referred to the encouragement which the policy, recently adopted by the government of charging duty upon repairs made outside Canada to vessels engaged in Canadian coasting trade, would have upon the shipbuilding and ship-repairing industry of the great lakes, and spoke of the great pleasure it gave him to be present on this important occasion. The minister was followed by Mr. Connors, M.P., and others.

This evening the minister will be banqueted by the Canadian Club, and tomorrow he will visit Fort-William for the purpose of inspecting the extensive harbor works being carried on at that port, leaving tomorrow evening for Winnipeg.

"PORRIDGE CRAZY" HE BROKE WINDOWS

London, Ont., June 29.—William Austin, an Englishman, arrested this morning for being disorderly and breaking the windows of his boarding house, gave a unique explanation: he did it because he had nothing to eat but porridge morning, noon and night at his meals for two weeks.

"I am simply porridge crazy," he said, "and can't sleep or work for thinking about it. I pay $4 a week, but they won't give me anything else."

He was remanded for a week.

FOUGHT TO DEATH ON THE RIVER BANKS

British Columbia Constable and a Suspected Robber in a Duel.

Ashcroft, B. C., June 29.—A boat containing three men, suspected of being train robbers was seen coming down Thompson river, passing Emile's station yesterday. The boat reached Ashcroft containing two men. They were ordered by Special Constable Her Decker to pull into shore and after a landing was made one of the men stepped out of the boat, then opened fire, killing Decker instantly. The murderer then escaped, heading eastward along the railway.

There is no trace of the escaped robber. Bloodhounds and an armed posse are scouring the hills south of Ashcroft in an effort to locate the bandit. His capture is imminent as he is on foot and has no means of a hasty retreat. It is expected he will fight to a finish and he is armed to the teeth.

It will be remembered that in the attempted train robbery over a week ago the hold-up men tackled the wrong train and missed their treasure. Over a dozen mounted police, besides special constables, provincial police and Tiel detectives, have been on the robbery trail ever since. A reward of $5,000 is offered for their capture.
