

NOTED FILM FOLK ARE SEEN AT UNIQUE

Doris Kenyon, Anna Q. Nilsson and Other Favorites in "If I Marry Again."

"If I Marry Again" which was screened for the first time last evening at the Unique theatre, deals with an age old question in a new interesting manner. In it is shown the contrast between the successful business man who is a failure in his domestic life and the failure who makes his home life a place of ideal happiness.

Doris Kenyon is seen in the leading role and others in the cast include Lloyd Hughes, Anna Q. Nilsson, Frank Mayo, Hobart Bosworth, Myrtle Steadman and Baby Dorothy Brock. Because his son married the daughter of a notorious woman in San Francisco's night life, old John Jordan, proud of his name and social prestige, exiled his son and his bride to the tropics, placing him in charge of rubber plantations in a land of terrific heat and terrible fever.

CHRISTINE FILM IS PALACE FEATURE

New Ince Photoplay Given Strong Presentation—Florence Vidor in Lead.

Thomas H. Ince's first National picture, "Christine of the Hungry Heart," is being shown at the Palace theatre. "Christine" is a lovely and cultured, widowed Stuart Knight, a young man-about-town. Her way with him was loyalty and affection, but he proved untrue. Dr. Alan Montague became her second husband. Montague was a specialist, wrapped up in his work. He left his wife for long periods, while away on professional duties. Christine's way with him was to plead for more attention—but her pleas were in vain.

Mae Murray Enchantress In Striking Picture at Imperial

Imperial Theatre opened the week yesterday with a bright, airy and fluffy production entitled "Circe, The Enchantress" from the pen of no less a literary notable than Vicente Blasco Ibanez, stars such as Mae Murray, James Kirkwood and William Haines. The author of the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and "Blood and Sand" has assuredly chosen a nice tale in this special cinema production, taking the ancient Grecian myth of the capricious lady who worked magical spells on her lovers, as the text of his most elaborately staged sermon.

Imperial offered besides this special Metro-Goldwyn feature a fine array of topical, scenic and comedy pictures with orchestral and singing novelties. Mae Murray believes in doing things differently. She designs her own clothes, creates all her dances and, with the aid of her director selects her own stories. Mae Murray's part is unusual. As Circe, she appears as the mythical goddess of Greece who transformed men into swine, and her modern prototype, a friend of New Orleans and New York. In the latter role, she is given an opportunity of wearing more than thirty complete changes of gowns and dresses. She performs two dances in the picture which are different from anything she has previously done before the camera.

The same programme is being shown today, but tomorrow Anne Douglas Sedgewick's popular story "The Little French Girl" will be the chief attraction.

SNARE DARKENS TOWN. EL RENO, Okla., July 14—Electric light service between Enid and El Reno recently was interrupted when a 6-foot snake climbed a 45-foot pole and wrapped itself around the transmission line.

"BUCK" JONES ON SCREEN AT GAIETY

It is the consensus of opinion that "The Arizona Romeo" which is concluding a successful engagement at the Gaiety Theatre, is one of the best Black Jones pictures that has been produced. The story, the cast and photography are excellent and mark a milestone in the birth of a new idea in Westerns. Lucy Fox, who plays the principal feminine role is a worthy foil for Buck Jones, and the balance of the cast consisting of Main Garry, Thomas R. Mills, Hardee Kirkland, Marcela Daly, Lydia Yeaman, Harvey Clark

"THE NIGHT CLUB" AT QUEEN SQUARE

Raymond Griffith Has Lead in Picture That Provides Fine Entertainment.

In "The Night Club" Raymond Griffith is back, silk hat shining, shoes glistening, razor-like creases in his trousers, his cut-away coat faultless, a white carnation in his lapel. He snuffed his way through the production and into the hearts of everyone in the Queen Square Theatre yesterday for a two-day run. "The Night Club" was adapted for the screen by Walter Woods from the William de Mille stage play, "After Five." Griffith is wistfully eager to be of assistance to everyone, and every effort ends in disaster. You laugh at him and feel sorry for him at the same time. Ray's sweetheart fits him. That's funny, too, but somehow Griffith manages to get sympathy again. The wild appearance—the audience hopes Griffith gives him just what he deserves. In the picture Griffith has the role of Robert White, whose lawyer announces that he has inherited a million dollars and a man-servant from his uncle, but to collect the money he must marry a girl selected by his uncle. Now Griffith has just gone through the painful experience of being left at the church and doesn't feel any too kindly toward women in general, and he tells the lawyer point blank that he won't have a thing to do with the money. He does take the bait, however, and the pair are soon tagging at his heels, and then one day he meets the "one girl" who proves to be the one in the will. Bob doesn't know this, however, and there is a misunderstanding with some real laughs before things are patched up.

AN OLD COIN

Charles Thompson, 16 Autumn street, caretaker of the Winter street school, has in his possession a curious copper coin. It is almost the size of the Canadian half-dollar. On one side of the coin is marked "Half Anna" and the date, 1835. On the reverse surface are the words "East India Company." Judging by the date and inscription, the coin was used by the East India Trading Company in its dealings with the natives. Mr. Thompson has had the coin for 17 years and does not remember from whom he received it.

Bathurst Mill Shipping Wood Pulp to Japan

BATHURST, July 13—Much has been said recently regarding the possibilities of export trade from the Maritimes and while this trade has been to a limited extent developed during recent years, there still remains a wide field of opportunity. Among the chief commodities of this province which may be exported our forest products rank first and it is interesting to know that this week an initial shipment of wood pulp is leaving Bathurst destined to Japan. This is the first time the Bathurst mill has sent its product to such a distance and it is stated that there is good prospect of considerable trade developing.

THIS IS USEFUL GOLF. MADISON, Wis., July 14—A court-house janitor in a small Wisconsin town developed a novel way to rid the courthouse lawn of dandelion blooms. He picked up a golf club and practiced his golf by nipping off the yellow flowers. Soon all his golfers in town had cut off all the blooms, in addition to digging up considerable turf. His raised on the high lands of Tibet are covered with thick, rusty colored hair.

WORKING GIRL'S EXPERIENCE

Read how She Found Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Amrior, Ontario.—"I must write and tell you my experience with your medicine. I was working at the factory for three years and became so run-down that I used to take weak pills and could be at home at least one day each week. I was treated by the doctors for anemia, but it didn't seem to do me any good. I was told to take a rest, but was unable to, and kept on getting worse. I was troubled mostly with my periods, I would sometimes pass three months, and when it came it would last around two weeks, and I would have such pains at times in my right side that I could hardly walk. I am only 19 years of age and weigh 118 pounds now, and before taking the Vegetable Compound I was only 108 pounds. I was sickly for two years and some of my friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I had taken a bottle of it I felt a change. My mother had been taking it for a different ailment and has found it very satisfactory. I am willing to tell friends about the medicine and to answer letters asking about it."—Miss HAZEL BEREND, Box 700, Amrior, Ontario. A day out each week shows in the pay envelope. If you are troubled with some weakness, indicated by a run-down condition, tired feelings, pains and irregularity, let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound help you.

HAPPY WHEN GIVING

British Millionaire's Ambition is to Die Comparatively Poor Man.

LONDON, July 13—"The more money I give away the happier I feel," said Bernhard Baron, a millionaire, at a reception given in his honor at the Hotel Metropole, Brighton, by the Zionist movement, when he handed over a check for $50,000 to Dr. Weizmann, head of the world Zionist movement, in aid of the fund for the building of the new Jewish university at Jerusalem, the foundation stone of which was recently laid by Lord Balfour. Mr. Baron, who lives at Here and is in his 75th year, said he hoped to go on giving away his money so that he might die a comparatively poor man. Since last October his distributions have totalled over a million dollars. Mr. Baron, managing director of Carreras, Ltd., a tobacco firm, is a self-made man. He is a personal friend of Ramsay MacDonald and the leaders of the Labor party. He gave $25,000 to the party funds at the last election.
