

GERMANY AND POWER

Frederick William, The Crown Prince

This is No. 9 of a Series of Ten Articles Written For The Times
By W. FRANK HATHEWAY.

The emperor's son Frederick, whose army reached the Marne in June, is in many ways a chip of the old block. He was born at Potsdam in 1892 and has gradually become a thorough militarist. His career was rapid from colonel of the Death's Head Hussars in 1911 to commander of an army in 1914. An ardent sportsman, he was not in his youth a fighter in the military sense. His note book says: "This pleasure in the struggle itself, alone, is really not what attracts us sportsmen out into the woods. The great book of beautiful nature opens willingly before the real huntsman. Nature speaks with ever varying, ever powerful voice to us lonely stalking hunters and sings to us the song of songs of the Creator."

He speaks about "being nearer to God in the golden morning of the mountain heights." What a pity that this young, affectionate, responsive heart could be so changed by the war spirit and "Will to Power!"

His evident affection for and pride in English people and customs endeared him to many. One cannot doubt his sincerity in that earlier period. When traveling in India in 1910 he is reported to have said: "The spirit of the German people is not hellish, but peaceful, and war is the last thing we want. Why should we fight with England allied to us by blood and sentiment, the only country with which we form friendship on a footing of equality? Personally, I like England, and follow the policy of my father, who always thinks that the peace of the world can only be maintained by a close understanding between England and Germany."

All this sounds well, but later, in 1911, we hear him from the royal box in the Reichstag leading the applause when Dr. Heydebrand attacks England on the Morocco and Agadir questions. This politician said: "This has revealed to the whole German nation where here comes the sun which has been assigned to it by its rights and by its vocation, it now knows where stands the one who will speak the word of command, whether it is to be allowed or not. We Germans are not accustomed to have to put up with this kind of thing, and the German nation will know what reply to give. The German nation when the hour strikes knows what this reply has to be. For it is a question of its final existence and no nation will allow itself to be deprived of that."

The Morocco question had been settled as between England, France and Germany, yet this doctor, leader of the Prussian militarists tried to inflame the people against Britain. Why? Because

LEMON JUICE TAKES OFF TAN

Girls! Make bleaching lotion if skin is sunburned, tanned or freckled

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle, sunburn and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost. Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles, sunburn, windburn and tan disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

Price at 39 had developed into a strong upholder of militarism, a denouncer of peace, and a hater of Great Britain.

W. FRANK HATHEWAY.

DEMONSTRATION AND TALK ON CONSERVATION

The first of a series of demonstrations and talks on food conservation and kindred subjects, which had been arranged by the Housewives' League under the supervision of Mrs. Richard Hooper, was held in the Y. W. C. A. rooms in Union street, yesterday afternoon. If it can be taken as a sample of what the series will be, the available seats for the demonstration were eagerly sought after. Miss Mary Thomson Hart, who is assisting the league with its work, this summer, gave a thoroughly practical and delightful talk on what the housewife could do with the by-products of beef; Miss Gladys Baxter demonstrated skillfully the best methods of making some seasonal salads, and Mrs. Hooper gave an interesting talk on general aspects of food conservation.

The amount of space available in the Y. W. C. A. rooms limits the number who can attend the demonstrations to about twenty-five. There was no unoccupied seat there yesterday afternoon, and all present were grateful for having the privilege of attending.

Young Man: How can you serve your country? Fight, if you may—but if that privilege be denied you, you can still serve effectively and honorably in that great army of skilled workers without which Canadian industry would be helpless. You need technical training. Ask or write for information—The International Correspondence Schools, No. 8 Sydney Street, St. John, N. B.

CONTROL OF THE WIRES

Washington, July 5.—The joint resolution authorizing the president to take over and operate until the end of the war all telegraph, telephone, cable and radio systems in the United States was passed tonight by the house. It now goes to the senate, but indications were that action on it there would be deferred until after the mid-summer recess, planned to begin the end of this week. The vote was 221 to 4. The four members voting in the negative are all Republicans.
