AMONG NOW IN HANDS OF REVOLUTIONARIES Change Brings Feeling of Relief—Thirteen Vessels of China Fleet go Over to Rebels—Belief That Crisis Has Arrived

AMONG NOW IN HANDS OF REVOLUTIONARIES

(Canadian Press) Amoy, China, Nov. 14.—The republican tricolor waves over the city today. There is no disorder, the shops remain open and there is a general feeling of relief. The British torpedo boat destroyers Janus and Virago and the arrival of three American warships this morning helped to restore confidence.

The Crisis Reached? Shanghai, Nov. 14.—Thirteen vessels of the imperial fleet went over to the revolutionaries this morning. One of the largest cruisers steamed up the river past the settlement and dipped the white ensign in salute to the foreign warships. "None of them responded."

It would appear as though the situation in China has about reached a climax. The thoughtful and well informed men of both sides are anxious for a settlement. The extremists and the ignorant masses are willing and anxious to continue the struggle for supremacy, even though it spells ruin, disruption and wholesale slaughter, which appears inevitable unless considerable concessions are made by both parties.

Amoy, Nov. 14.—A report from Chang Chow-Fu says that the city was taken by the revolutionaries on Sunday night. Security per cent of the population fled. There was little violence, but much mischief. Foo-Chow reports an improvement in the situation there.

Peking, Nov. 14.—The November Boxer indemnity has not been paid, and the December indemnity will likewise be defaulted. Even should the government be able to recover the five provinces immediately surrounding the capital the financial administration cannot be reorganized, before default of other debts besides the indemnities occur, and it is feared that intervention for the collection of the pledged revenues cannot be avoided.

On Sunday representatives of the conservative element who favored the establishment of temporary independence of the city, made a futile attempt to compromise with the radicals. Before they could hand the surrender of the city to the revolutionaries. Last night it was plain that the radicals were in control, and proclaimed at the possibility of mob rule. Tso Tai Chang fled to Hong Kong.

Permit us to sincerely thank the Federation officials, and through them the affiliated organizations and departments for their untiring efforts in our behalf.

MISSIONARY CONVENTION IS ON IN OTTAWA

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 14.—With more than 600 delegates present, the great missionary convention is in full swing here today. Speer, secretary of the foreign mission board of the Presbyterian church in the United States, who took as his subject the unevangelized lands.

At one time, said Canon Tucker, Britain would have been willing to give Canada to the United States to settle a small trade dispute. "What British statesman would now give Canada in trade for any other?" he asked. He referred to the great foresight of Sir John A. Macdonald in purchasing the great west for Canada. This country now produces five hundred millions of bushels of wheat.

"What statesman would dare appear before E. L. Borden with any sum of money for the purchase of the prairie and mountains of the west?" he asked, amid applause. The convention will continue in two days.

CARNEGIE TO CANADIANS IN NEW YORK Sees Some Things, Uncle Sam Might Copy; a Word For The Scotch HIS TALK ON PEACE Hon. Geo. E. Foster Opens on Same Subject and Drifts Into Some Expressions on Trade and Tariff—What He Says on Reciprocity (Canadian Press)

New York, Nov. 14.—At last night's Canadian Club dinner, Andrew Carnegie dwelt on his favorite topic, "Peace." He recalled that on his visit to Canada, some years ago, there was much rejoicing over the building of the first dreadnought "King Edward" had just pronounced the dreadnought, the most powerful in his navy," said the Laird of Skibo. "I ventured to suggest that he had made a mistake, the most powerful vessel in the British navy was a tiny craft flying the Union Jack with the maple leaf; the made of a similar vessel flying the stars and stripes. The only shots fired by these two were in exchanging courtesies with each other, but they had maintained peace for nearly a century. They are the true dreadnoughts."

"People in the future would look back to navies as aberrations," said Mr. Carnegie, "just as people nowadays look back on ancient instruments of torture." He declared that Canada had sent 40,000 of her young men to the aid of the American nation, and added that should Canada ever be invaded 400,000 English speaking brothers would cross the border to repel the invaders from her shores.

"Relieve me, gentlemen," he exclaimed, "your neighbors of the race, would be with you and neither rest while an invader desecrated the sacred ground of freedom and of peace."

Mr. Carnegie commented on the settlement difficulties as to boundaries and other matters, as the finest example that the world had ever seen. There is no gun, sword and take, too," he added, "for while Eastern Canada sends many of her sons to the United States, the United States sends many of her sons to Eastern Canada. The two nations are one country, and to the other, hardly know that they have changed their homes. "We, in America," he added, "could afford to follow Canada's example in regard to the control and management of labor. I could well adopt her system of mounted police in the far west. It is an admirable corps that has won our admiration. We have reason to be proud of our race and in the north. I hesitate to intimate to you, with great modesty, that it may be that the strain of Scotch blood which is so strong in our neighbors may have evolved and deserves to be credited with the perfection attained."

Hon. Mr. Foster Hon. George E. Foster, who was suffering from a severe cold, spoke briefly. Expressing strongest sympathy for peace, said he knew it would always exist between the two countries. He agreed, ever, with President Taft that it was to have a power strong enough to peace in countries that do not solve.

Canada has always wanted to trade with the United States," said Mr. Foster, "and under one treaty she has done so. American abrogated that treaty. It is just a question of how trade is to be carried on. We are your third best customers. We give you a bigger market than you give us. We meet you with an average tariff of 22, and you meet us with 44. "We did not reject reciprocity because we did not want to trade with you. We have for the United States two distinct feelings, admiration for your great progress and anxiety to avoid our mistakes. We in Canada, are British, and we intend to remain British to the last crack of doom, and we could not remain so, under a reciprocity pact. We could not break down our barriers of protection. We want the United States to remain our friend and some day we will reach a solution of all questions between us."

Other addresses were delivered by Principal Peterson of McGill, President Falconer of Toronto University, Dean Galbraith of the Engineering department of Toronto, E. Faltre, surveyor of Montreal; J. E. McLean, Dr. E. R. Gould, former city chamberlain of New York; and State Senator Barton of Brooklyn, all Canadians.
