NEED FOR CHANGE

Sees Necessity For Co-operation of Aims of Four Great Divisions of Country

By Canadian Press MONTREAL, March 16-Observa-MONTREAL, March 16—Observations and inquiries made in a transponding of the Saint John Times-Star that a true national spirit does not exist in Canada, and he suggests that business men of the four great divisions convene to frame a suitable economic policy without regard to political exigencies.

Mr. Belding will address the council of the Montreal Board of Trade on Wednesday.

the country.

"Real national spirit does not exist," Mr. Belding said. "The economic interests of the four great divisions are not the same and often clash. There is discontent in the west just as there is in the Maritime Provinces, and a common feeling that the Central Provinces have been a little selfish.

Protocol Dropped Because Labor Created it.

The proposal that commends itself most strongly to Mr. Belding is, first of all, a small group conference of business men in which he subscribes to the proposals made by the Toronto and Winnipeg Boards of Trades. He does not think, however, that the delegates should represent provinces so much as the four great economic divisions of the country.

Labor Created it.

LONDON, March 16—Addressing a Labor meeting in London last night, Ramsay MacDonald strongly criticized Austen Chamberlain's Geneva policy. He declared that the tory party had rejected the protocol cimple heavy the Labor party crea Labor meeting in London last move toward a settlement on either
