"Whether the Boers stands south of the Vaal, on the Vaal, at Pretoria, or at Lydenburg, they must be crushed, for they have only between 20,000 and 30,-000 men, and Lord Roberts has, counting his own column and those of Gens. Rundle, Buller, Hunter and Methuen, not less than 90,000, all of whom shortly will be ready to invade the Transvaal positions "At the dates of the last telegrams received Lord Roberts was at Kroonstad with his mounted troops spread out some forty of fifty miles on either flank, Gen. Rundle was at Clocolan ready to move on Ficksburg and drive back the Free Staters, who in diminished numbers still hold the field; Hunter was at Fourteen Streams with his advance guard at Christiana, and Buller's advance guard was at Laing's Nek, with his | leading infantry division at Ingogo, a march in the rear. "General Buller's advance to Laing's Nek unopposed is important, for it shows that the Boers are demoralized, and possibly it means that Gen. Buller will get through the mountains into the Transvaal without serious opposition.
