

THEORY OF CONTRACTS

BY JOHN HENRY HOUGHTON, LL.M.

- 1. Explain the right to personal security. What remedies are available for the tortious or contractual invasion of personal liberty?
- 2. Illustrate, by example, a contract which is voidable at the option of one party.
- 3. Land is given by a deed to A and his assigns forever. What is the effect of a subsequent conveyance to B?
- 4. What is the distinction between a contract which is void and one which is voidable?
- 5. Give a statement of the doctrine of assent; the reasons which justify its application.
- 6. In what cases is the assent of a party not required for the validity of a contract?
- 7. Point out some advantages arising from the legal incidence of a contract.
- 8. Mention some of the more important capacities and incapacities of persons in relation both to civil and criminal matters.
- 9. Define a contract, and give the elements of a contract. Give an example of a contract which is voidable at the option of one party.
- 10. Explain a contract, and state what is involved in its formation.
- 11. Explain the doctrine of promissory estoppel.
- 12. What are the elements of a contract?
- 13. Explain the doctrine of promissory estoppel.
- 14. Explain the doctrine of promissory estoppel.