He Knew.—"The object of the average explorer seems to be to acquire enough material for a lecture."

"Yes; that is my wife's aim when she explores my pockets."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Puzzled.—Laura (a bit of a new woman)—"Er—George."

George—"Well, Laura!"
Laura—"I—I think we understand each other, George; but—is it my place or yours to put the question? And ought I to speak to your father about it, or ought you to go and ask papa?"

The Limit.—Alleged Humourist—"Can you imagine anything worse than a giraffe with a sore throat?"

Proven One—"Sure! A centipede with corns."—Texas Coyote.

Imitators.—The poor imitate the rich and get poorer; the rich imitate the poor and get richer.—New York Press.

Appropriate?—Just as the minister was about to begin his sermon the woman remembered that she had left the gas burning in the range oven. Visions of a ruined dinner and a smoky kitchen stared her in the face. She borrowed a pencil from the young man in the next pew and scribbled a note. With a murmured "Hurry," she thrust it into the hand of her husband, an usher, who came up the aisle at that moment. He, with an understanding nod, turned, passed up the aisle, and handed the note to the minister. The woman saw the act in speechless horror and shuddered as she saw the minister smilingly open the note and begin to read. But her expression of dismay was fully equalled by the look of amazement and wrath on the good man's face as he read the words: "Go home and turn off the gas!"

Growlers.—"Don't you miss your husband very much, Mrs. Jones?"
"No, indeed. You see, I have a bull terrier who is growling all the time, too."—Baltimore American.

Neatly Rebuked.—"If I were so unlucky," said an officer, "as to have a stupid son, I would certainly, by all means, make him a parson."

A clergyman who was in the company calmly replied: "You think differently, sir, from your father."

The Come-Back.—"You had better ask for manners than money," said a finely dressed gentleman to a beggar who asked for alms.

"I asked for what I thought you had the most of," was the cutting reply.

"Is an Ill Wind," etc.—"What an awful cold your husband has. He coughs and sneezes all the time."
"He does, but it amuses the baby splendidly."—Sourire.

Appropriate.—He—"I told your father I could not live without you."
She—"And what did he say?"
He—"Oh, he offered to pay my funeral expenses."—Boston Transcript.

Might Lose a Patient.—Old Doctor—(who has been gossiping for three-quarters of an hour)—"Well, well, I must be going. I've got to visit an old lady in a fit."—Punch.

As She Saw It.—Diffident Lover (trying to feel his ground nervously): "Do you know, I—er—actually dreamt that I proposed to you last night. Now—er—what can that mean?"
Practical Girl (promptly): "Mean?"
Well, it means that you are a lot more sensible asleep than you are awake, Freddy."

OXO Cubes are not only foods in themselves—they add enormously to the value of other foods.

OXO Cubes tone up the digestive processes and enable the system to obtain the greatest possible value out of food partaken.

OXO Cubes are the greatest advance in food invention since men began to eat and women learnt to cook.
