

C 55941

Capital and City to be kept distinct

It is important to realize that the planning of an ordinary city is one thing, the planning of the Capital of a Country another. The two must be kept separate and distinct. A municipality, while it may be expected to cooperate, cannot be expected to carry out the improvements essential to a Capital. The entire nation has an immediate interest in the present and future of the Capital, and should be expected to contribute towards both.

W.L. Mackenzie King Papers
Memoranda & Notes

PUBLIC ARCHIVES
ARCHIVES PUBLIQUES
CANADA