

INDEX

- 80; during 1914 and 1916, 230; recent government policy concerning, 237-240.
- See also* Arbitration; Strikes
- Trades Disputes Act, 1906, 8-10
- Trades unions: legalized, 9; provisions, Trades Disputes Act, 10; labor and industrial organizations, 27-29; increase in female membership, 28; trade union movement, 27-29; strength at outbreak of war, 28; formation of Triple Alliance, 1914, 28-29; relations with organizations of employers, 29; relation to industrial disputes, 30-31; government emergency grants, 49-52; applications for, 51; table, 51; government and the trade unions, 88-89; disagreement in engineering trades, 08-71; speech of H. J. Tennant in House of Commons urging relaxation of rules, 89; recommendations of Productions Committee, 71-74; restrictive rules affecting production, 71-72; stoppage of work, 72; contractor's undertaking in behalf of, 72; demarcation of work, 73; utilization of semi-skilled and unskilled labor, 73-74; Treasury conference to consider output of munitions, 75; proposed agreement submitted to, 78; endorsed by unions, 77; Treasury agreement, 78, 84, 86, 91, 92, 140, 141, 142, 182, 180, 181; administration of agreement, 79-81; membership not cause for discharge, 112; skilled craftsmen exempted from military service, 129; resistance to industrial conscription, 139; attitude toward dilution of labor, 141-142, 158, 157, 183, 180-181; oppose dilution, 141-142, 180-181; oppose women for skilled work, 158, 157; allow the substitution of women for men, 183; wage rates, 180, 198; affecting women, 191, 192, 103, 194, 105; agreements, 198; oppose systems of payments by results, 200; Sunday labor, 208, 209, 210; small percentage of unemployed, 224; disabled soldiers and sailors, 229; attitude toward labor participation in industrial management, 278-279; relation of works committees to, 301-302; restoration of prewar conditions, 311. See also Arbitration; Strikes; Trades disputes
- Trades Unions Congress, 141, 308-309
- Treasury Conference: formation and purpose, 75; proposals for submission, 78; endorsed by trades unions, 77; text of amended agreement, 78; press and public favorable to, 78; agreement, 84, 92, 140, 141-142, 182, 180; administration of, 79-81; supplemental agreement, 91
- Triple Alliance of Trade Unions, 28-29
- Unemployed Workmen's Act, 1915, 225
- Unemployment: statistics, 22-23; work of distress committees, 28; table, 27; growth, 32; war office memorandum to contractors, 33; recovery of employment conditions, 38-41; percentage table, insured trades, 38; trades working on war material, 39; effect of military service, 40; recovery in women's trades, 41-42; percentage table, 42; work of Road Board, 43-44; efforts to find work for Belgian refugees, 44-48; criticism of government plans, 48-49; emergency grants, 49-52; disappearance of, 54; numbers on registers, employment exchanges, 1914-1917, 145-146; among women, 154; unemployment and its relief, 38-39, 42-44, 65, 221, 224-227; extension of state insurance, 225-226; means of guarding against, 311-312; report of Committee on Adult Education, 318. See also Employment
- Unskilled labor, 98-100.
- Wages: low contributory cause of pauperism, 7; Trade Boards Act, 1000, 7; trades unions disputes over, 30; changes in, 24-25, 58-59; relation to cost of living, 31; decrease in earnings, 34-35; adjustment of, 70; "war wages," 80; women and unskilled labor, 08-100; wages of men affect supply of female labor, 53; changes in rate, 58-59; war bonus, 68-80, 83, 64, 198, 108, 200, 200; regulation by Minister of Munitions, 100; skilled workmen released from army, 118; war work volunteers, 138; extent of increases, 185-188; fluctuation, 186, 187; attract women to industry, 172; regulation, 188-190; of women's, 100-107; of men's, 197-200; overtime, 191; Sunday, 191, 208, 200, 210; holiday, 191; standardization, 199; payment by results, 200; agriculture, 280; low, a cause of industrial unrest, 283
- War Aims of the British Labour Party, 310
- War bonus—see Wages
- War munitions volunteers, 94-98, 104, 124, 128
- War Office memorandum to contractors on unemployment, 38
- War Pensions Statutory Committee, 1915, 227
- War work—see National service
- Welfare work, 216-229
- Whitley, J. H., 279
- Whitley report: 243; 1st report on industrial councils and works committees, 279-282; discussions by Northeast area, 283-284; Northwest area, 284-285; Yorkshire and East Midlands area, 285-288; West Midlands area, 286; London and Southeastern areas, 288; Southwest area, 287; Wales and Monmouthshire, 287-288; Scotland, 288; approval of Federation of British Industries, 289; extract from The Economist, 291; recommendations adopted by government, 292-293; 2d report on industrial councils, 295-297; works committees, 297-298; conciliation and arbitration, 302-303
- Women: increased membership in trades unions, 28; women's trades, 41-42; Central Committee on Women's Employment constituted, 43; improved conditions, industrial transfers, 52-54; employment and remuneration, 08-100; arbitration tribunal for, 100; munitions tribunals, 109; appeal to register for war service, 124, 125; number enrolled, 133; protected occupations, 134, 135; in clerical and commercial occupations, 147-151; labor available early in war, 144-147; substitution for men, 54, 72, 140, 141, 144-158, 178-180; increased employment in ordinary lines, 151-152; in munitions trades, 72, 152-154; industrial training, 164-165; substituted for skilled labor,