

upon her vision, she may joyously respond, "Amen. Even so, come, Lord Jesus."

In the following pages their author has grouped a magnificent array of facts which, as he believes, are indications that "the end of the age" is almost upon us, and that the Lord Jesus, the heavenly Bridegroom, will soon appear to take the weary, waiting, longing, ready bride into eternal union with himself, and to begin His long-predicted and glorious millennial reign. Whether or not the reader accepts all the conclusions of the author, he can not fail to be interested, instructed, and otherwise profited by a careful perusal of what he has written. There is much in every chapter to stimulate thought, produce serious concern, awaken zeal, beget vigilance, and urge to personal holiness and earnest activity in the service of God. We commend the work to the candid perusal of the Christian public.

WILSON T. HOGG.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS,
January 15, 1900.