Mrs. L. W. Fiek, now a month in a New York hospital, is reported as still very unwell and doubts are entertained for any entire recovery from injuries received in a fall on the sidewalk in front of the Snider residence on Colborne Street.

John Lowrey and Elizabeth Jane England of Woodhouse were married last Wednesday. Rev. John Robertson of Port Dover, tied the silken knot.

The bride is a sister of Edmond England and a grandchild of the late Thomas England.

Francis Reid went to Brantford on Friday for an operation for appendicitis. Remember in your will, Norfolk's need of a hospital.

Electrician Robt. Shoemaker, of the Utilities Commission has tendered his resignation to take effect June 15th.

From Overseas. Capt. John Jaques is ill in Palestine. He left here with Capt. A. Burt in April, 1918, and shortly after reaching England was transferred to Egypt and has evidently accompanied the British forces up through Palestine.

John Winters, reported missing in yesterday's casualty list, was listed on August 13th, 1914 from Vittoria and went off with the first draft from Simcoe.

Letters from Capt. Selby indicate that there is anything but play and idle time in service where he is at present.

Robert Craig left yesterday for Grand Rapids, where he will inspect the putting up of pork and beans for overseas.

Robert Murphy, nonplussed a charivari party that paid a visit to his Walsingham home last week by having the party in and proving in material that he was prepared to entertain all callers right royally.

Wm. A. Ball, who is awaiting patients and anxiously, the return of his son from overseas, has taken charge of the Cocksbutt agency here formerly in charge of Robert Craig.

It is said that certain Municipal Councils in Norfolk may expect trouble about resolutions recently adopted for the payment of expenses of delegates to the Anti-Conscription convention at Ottawa.

These resolutions are so clearly contrary to law, that movements are already on foot for application to the Courts for an injunction to prevent payment. In any case the auditors are expressly told to allow unlawful payments (See Section 237, s. 2, of the Municipal Act.)

Councils would be wise to rescind all such resolutions and avoid legal expenses and trouble.—(Com.)

Old Ends of News. The old curling rink is being torn down, the removal of the roof and siding shows a splendid structure of excellent timbers. Its preservation removes a landmark to recall pleasant memories of many a joyous bonspiel in days that are no more, and sounds the death-knell of curling in Simcoe for years to come.

The stone in Lynnwood Park for the inscription of the Campbell bronze plate is in place and ready for the stone cutter's chisel. And with the leaves unfolding and the grass close cut the park has not presented a lovelier appearance since it was first opened to the public. Chairman Battlie has been on the job from the start.

Unless we err in our observations and deductions of yesterday evening there was some detective work done last evening by way of finding out who has been swiping tulips about town of late. The work has been done long after the curfew bell tolls and many interested citizens feel quite sure that the work has not been done by children of tender years. Perhaps, some young ladies have been testing out the character of their gentlemen escorts.

Obituary. Mr. W. C. Dutton died at his home here this morning. He was for years the capable and valued Department Superintendent in the canning factory of the Dominion Canners. He was taken suddenly ill about two months ago and went to Hamilton for an operation. Ten days ago there was a supplementary operation from which he did not rally. He came here from a hospital and was most highly respected. A wife, two daughters and one son are left to mourn his great loss.

U.S. FORCES TO BE USED IMMEDIATELY SAYS LORD REDDING

MISTAKE SOMEWHERE

By Charles Leased Wife. Washington, May 13.—Lord Redding, the British ambassador, in a statement here today declared that the announcement coming by way of Ottawa that the American army would not be fully utilized on the western front until developed to its full strength, was directly opposite to information he received from the British war cabinet and that he was in the dark as to its meaning. The ambassador's statement added to the puzzle in which American officers found themselves today by reading the announcement from Ottawa. The confidential information reaching here recently indicated that such a plan as outlined from Ottawa was under serious consideration. The ambassador authorized the following statement: "The statement attributed to the British war cabinet, to the effect that the Allies are confident that they have been given the choice of a small immediate American army for defence, or waiting till they are reinforced by a complete and self-supporting American army, they have chosen the latter; is, in my opinion, a complete misapprehension of the situation. I have been asked by them to make to the United States administration. 'I am quite in the dark as to the object of the statement. At present all I can say is that I am convinced that the document has not been issued with the knowledge of the Premier or the British war cabinet.'"

New York, May 13.—An Associated Press despatch from Washington today says: "The decision not to use the American army in France until it has been built up to proportions of a complete and mighty force, follows a long period of consideration between two schools of military strategists, which have been contending ever since the German drive began as to the most effective manner to use the American forces."

From the best information that can be gathered here, one school of strategy has contended for using the American forces in the battle line as fast as they arrive and for conducting a continuous counter-offensive with the hope of ending the war in 1918.

The other, it is said, has favored the use of the American force very little, holding it back until it could be used with all the necessary complements of heavy artillery, aircraft and other appliances and then striking a mighty blow in conjunction with the British and French, which would smash the German lines and bring a decision.

The confidence of the British military authorities that the men hold their line until American aid arrives in full force, or at least such a heavy toll of German life in falling back that the actual advance will be with the Allied armies, is very gratifying to military experts here. Some of them are not in full accord with the report that the British are practically no use of the American until it reaches its full strength."

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Brush this through faded, streaked locks as they become dark, glossy, youthful. Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by the simple application of two, or three small doses of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost. Don't stay gray. Try it. No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You can dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application of two, or three, becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

U. S. INTERNS COUNT MINOTTO Son-in-Law of Packing Magnate Taken in Custody as Alien Enemy

Chicago, May 14.—Count James Minotto, son-in-law of Louis F. Swift, the packer, was taken into custody here yesterday by Deputy United States Marshals on a Presidential warrant ordering his internment.

A habeas corpus action was immediately instituted in behalf of the Count, and he was taken before Federal Judge Carpenter and released on $50,000 bond. Hearing of arguments on the habeas corpus proceedings was set for May 20.

Attorney General Gregory has authorized the issuance of a Presidential warrant for the arrest of Count James Minotto under the President's proclamation relating to German alien enemies.

Count Minotto, a son-in-law of Louis F. Swift, the packer, is a man of such towering nationalities that he comes near to being a man without a country. His father was an Italian of avowed pro-German sympathies, and his mother was a noted German actress. He was born in Berlin and educated in the bank-

OPEN REVOLT FOR 8 DAYS Story of Great Mutiny in Austrian Fleet Early in February AT POLA AND SATTARO

Red Flag Was Hoisted at the Latter Port and Rebels Got Upper Hand

London, May 14.—The London Times correspondent with the Italian army says that news is trickling through to Italy from time to time about the great mutiny in the Austrian fleet early in February, and it is possible now to give a fairly accurate idea of what happened. The mutiny began at Pola, but, as it broke out almost simultaneously at Cattaro, it looks as if there had been collusion between the two ports, masters of the Adriatic. Workmen at the sailing began at Pola. They demanded the abolition of various disciplinary measures and punishments inflicted on shipboard and ashore. The movements of the Austrian fleet were stopped. The crews left their posts and thronged the decks, hurraing and acting as they pleased. Their officers were powerless, but there seems to have been no fighting between them and the mutineers.

Red Flag at Cattaro. The naval authorities parleyed with the men for a week and finally all the sailors and workmen's demands were granted. The mutiny took a more serious turn. Six cruisers and several destroyers hoisted the red flag. The German and Magyar elements in some crews held aloof and were watching a contest between them and the mutineers, the guns of one cruiser being turned on another, and some mutineers being killed. However, the mutineers got the upper hand after three days of the Austrian army in France.

The officers were seized, the Admiral commanding being taken by the sailors from his flagship to confinement in a vessel in the harbor, where he received apparently no very gentle treatment.

Demand for Peace. The mutineers gave all orders afloat or ashore. These were printed and signed. "The Committee of the Crews" was elected and the sailors' committee thus communicated to Vienna its demands, among which the request for the immediate conclusion of peace was prominent.

Alarm was given by these measures and conciliatory but non-committal replies were sent. After many prolonged discussions the authorities in Vienna decided to despatch to Cattaro a division of the fleet, under the command of the Austrian Admiral, upon which it was thought that reliance might be placed. When they appeared before Cattaro the position was critical, as mutinings had broken out in the new division.

The situation was saved by the Tonic element in one of the revolting cruisers in the harbor getting free and hauling down the red flag. Negotiations were opened on a new basis between the Admiral and the mutineers, and finally the latter consented to surrender the vessels on receiving written guarantees that no action would be taken against any man and that all the demands of the mutineers would be settled. The Cattaro fleet then returned to its allegiance, after having been in open revolt for eight days.

Captured Officers. In consequence of the mutiny, Emperor Charles cashiered a number of high officers on the ground that it was their slackness that had permitted the outbreak. About thirty officers are believed to have been retained. The fleet has been put under command of a notoriously severe and much-disliked Admiral. Efforts were made later to revoke the amnesty to the mutineers, and they have been severely punished, but nothing has been done publicly as most of Austria's sailors belong to the oppressed races.

There is no doubt that the mutiny continues in the fleet, as well as in the army.

APPALING STATE OF BELGIAN CHILDREN The state of the Belgian population in the conquered districts is appalling. Food cannot be obtained at any price and unless the efforts of the relief commissions on this side of the Atlantic be greatly accentuated actual starvation will levy a heavy death toll on the people, especially the children. One of the cables said: Provided all shipments now en route arrive, the Belgians will still be without bread for 20 days. Think of it! In this land of plenty it is hard to realize the awful fate that awaits these children through starvation. The Belgian relief has arranged to transfer all children under 13 years of age, who have become debilitated through lack of nourishment to France, Switzerland or Holland. In these countries food and medical care will be provided for them by the relief. This special work is known as the "Belgian Children's Health Fund," and every Canadian father and mother should support this worthy cause to free these children from that country of death and give them the opportunity to develop that all children deserve.
