Just Folks.

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE ABSENTEE.

The record shows I stole a day from duty.
Results are all the record cares about;
You cannot find in it one touch of beauty.
The time-sheet merely marks me in or out.

The cashier when he turns the written pages
Shall find no mark to note my presence there;
He spends his time computing tollers' wages,
Cashiers have little sentiment to spare.

A year from now who turns the record over
Shall see my name and say I lost a day;
But nothing there shall help him to discover
Just what it was that lured me far away.

He cannot see the swallows swiftly winging
Above me as I fished a laughing stream;
Nor catch one note of all that merry singing
The chorus to the opera of a dream.

Nothing will show my soul rejuvenated
By the clean breeze of summer riding by;
There but the grim result is coldly stated
That only counts, and not the reason why.

Yet I shall smile to count my lessened wages
And brave the censure which such failure brings;
Let the bleak record stand throughout the ages—
Results are, after all, such sordid things.

The cars of all categories imported during April last numbered 857, according to figures received by the Bankers Trust Company of New York from its French Information Service. Out of this total 700 came from the United States.

On the other hand, France's exports of motor cars have also increased very considerably totalling 4111 vehicles for April this year as against 2526 during the same month in 1923.

Mountains as Memorials

A war memorial tablet was unveiled recently on the summit of Great Gable, Cumberland, 3,000 feet above sea-level.

Twelve tablets will be erected to the memory of the members of the Fell and Rock Climbing Club who fell during the war, and each will be placed on a mountain peak.

When the club started its war memorial scheme in 1915, it was suggested that a mountain crag or cliff be bought. Then a hill or small mountain was suggested. Finally twelve peaks, and nearly all the land in their vicinity above 1,500 feet, was purchased, and handed over to the National Trust.

Other peaks purchased by the club are Kirkfall, Green Gable, Brandreth, Grey Knotts, Base Brown, Seatwaite Fell, Glaramara, Allen Crag, Great End, Broad Crag, and Lingmell.

There was a very marked expansion in new issues of securities on the London market during the month of May. According to figures received by the Bankers Trust Company of New York from its English Information Service, the total rose to an amount at par of exchange of over $194,640,000, the highest since October last. It compares with only $32,116,000 in April and is not far short of double the monthly average in 1923, $115,811,000.

The total of new issues in the first five months of the current year, $523,582,000, is still below that for the corresponding period of 1923, $780,500,000. Fluctuations on behalf of foreign borrowers, however, show an increase over these periods from $101,699,000 to $168,850,000.

"Who Dared to Love Their Country And be Poor"

London Daily Telegraph: (There London Daily Telegraphistaintain) are 2,500 unemployed ex-officers who are still waiting for their first chance of employment since they ceased to fight their country's battles.) Many of them and their families, the Minister of Labor testifies, are suffering the hardships of sheer penury. These are men, be it remembered, who, if they had not fought for their country, would now be comfortably off. Some of them gave up assured positions in business or professional life to take up arms. Some of them were at the beginning of their careers, and but for the interruption of the war would now have established their prosperity. Some of them came back from which they had been engaged destroyed by war conditions and impossible to recover. To begin the world after the first vigor of youth is gone, and burdened with the responsibilities of a family, is hard enough, even if friends and circumstances are kind. These thousands of men have found no kindness in circumstances, and their friends have not been able to help them.
