The Rink Association will spare no pains to make skating popular this season, and have decided to have a centre entrance to the rink, so that ladies entering the building will turn to the right and gentlemen to the left. An admission fee will be charged every person going into the building during skating hovers. The regulations are now such that no more than two will be allowed to skate together. Smoking and chewing will also be strictly prohibited, and any profane language will be dealt with by a prompt expulsion of any person using such. The management are desirous of making the rink as popular as possible, and have set apart Saturday afternoon at reduced rates for ladies who desire to bring children.

The St. Marys Journal advises its readers to look out for the corn swindle. It is done this way:—A "farmer-looking" fellow calls with samples of corn, among which he carries a very large eared variety—ears several times larger than ordinary ears of corn, which he alleges he raised from seed sent him by his brother who is engaged in farming in a foreign land. He offers to sell 100 grains for 250, or the whole ear for $2. The victim buys, only to find later on that it is nothing but ordinary corn. A number of ears of corn are dexterously cut and the sections glued together to form one large ear. If the swindler comes, boot him off the premises.
