At Il o'clock a.m., the stock of proceedings of the Collingwood trotting as the pennitentiary. In spite of this, she talked so plausibly that Hale believed PETLEYS'. the pennitentiary. In spite of this, she talked so plausibly that Hale believed her the victim of circumstances, settled with the jeweler to avoid trouble, and married the woman. Then disaster came. The bankers were not so easily imposed upon, and refused to trust their funds with a man so nearly connected with a whole family of penitentiary boarders. Hale lost the management of the clearing house, and things went from bad to worse. Still he was devoted to his wife, and would allow no one to speak ill of her. Dire poverty came, but still he remained bound by his strange infatuation. The couple drifted to Milwaukee. One day Mrs. Hale was arrested for larceny from a number of stores. Hale was likewise arrested and lodged in jail. She confessed. He easily proved his innocence. She told a pitfinl tale of suffering, and said she had stolen to keep the ex-banker's children from starv-ing. This did not prevent her from being sentenced to the Milwaukee house of cor-rection. Still Hale refused to give her up. proceedings of the Collingwood trotting as-sociation took place to-day on the ice. The first race was the three-minute, for which five started, namely, J. Lambert, Capt. Ellis, Keen Rothschild, Indicator and Grey Dean. Rothschild took first money, Capt. Ellis 2d and Grey Dan 3d. The 2,35 trot followed, namely, Lady Collins, Little Jennie, Idaho and Goldfinder. Little Jen-nie took the first heat, Idaho the 2d, and Lady Collins the three next in straight heats.
