TRACEY TOOK THE JACK-POT

Why Phis Spohn Struck the Barber With a Pifeher—The Defendant Spohn Committed For Trial.

[Hamilton Spectator.]

If Justice Jelfs happened previously to be ignorant of the rules of draw-poker, he was introduced into the mysteries of the game at the police court this morning, when the case against Phip Spohn for committing an aggravated assault on Thomas Tracey was tried.

Lawyer Nesbitt, for the defendant, asked for another adjournment to secure the attendance of a material witness, but Justice Jelfs did not think there was any need of it, as he did not intend to try the case, but would likely send it up to a jury.

Barber Tracey had the bandage on his head and looked as if he had been struck by a trolley car. To Crown Attorney Crerar he said that on May 19 he and Spohn and several others sat in on a game of draw. Everything went well until there was a dispute about a pot. Spohn objected because he (Tracey) put the money in his pocket and picked up a chair and struck him, and afterwards banged him over the head with a water-pitcher. His wounds were dressed by Drs. Mackelcan and McCabe, the former being the first physician called in.

When Lawyer Nesbitt took hold of Tracey he asked him a number of questions.

When Lawyer Neshitt took hold of Tracev he asked him a number of questions

"Yes."
"You left there rather hurriedly?"
"Not very hurriedly."
"You left under a financial cloud?"
"It was not very cloudy."
"I'm told that you defrauded your crediors and had some trouble with your landord"

Were you the worse of liquor?"

"How many drinks did you have?"

"How many drinks the 3"
"Three or four, perhaps."
"What did you drink?"
"Small Collinses."
"Pm told that you are quarrelsome and to pick a quarrel?'
No, I did not." Tracey said they had played cards all the night before and started that morning at 8 o'clock. The trouble occurred about 11.30. He denied that he slapped Spohu, but admitted that he took up a jackpot and put it in his pocket.

"But you had no right to do that," remarked the lawyer.

"This man played crooked."

"You never played crooked?"

Tracey was quarrelsome and picked up the jackpot and put it in his pocket. That was what annoyed Spohn. Tracey was quarrelsome and picked up the jackpot and put it in his pocket. That was what annoyed Spohn. Tracey was entitled to the pot, but he had a dispute about the change.

about the change.

The magistrate decided to commit Spohn for trial, releasing him on bail. To Be Tried at the Next Assizes. Nearly a year ago Magistrate Denison acquitted Mary Harvey of the charge of the larceny of a bottle of gin preferred against her by Terence Courtney of the National Hotel, corner of King and Sherbourne-streets. A $2000 suit for malicious prosecution followed, which at the trial was dismissed. Mary Harvey thereupon appealed and the Chancery Divisional Court at its last sittings ordered a new trial in the action. Justice Armour having at the last assizes had the case stricken off the list, it not having been ready at the moment, the

The Island Park Is Open.

The pavilion at the Island Park having been so successful in former seasons under the management of Messrs. Hughes & Co. they have found it necessary to enlarge the stand to double its former size. Their catering can always be relied upon; the refreshments are all made on the premises and are sold at city prices. Picnic parties will find every accemmodation and civility. Ask for what you want and you will not be overcharged. The park is to be the favorite this season.

Gossip From Chicago.

John J. Dixon & Co. received the following despatch over their private wire from Walker & Co. to-day:
Chicago. June 5.—Wheat bulls suffered again to-day. The run on a couple of sayings banks here has created a very uneasy feeling all along the line. Then the visible supply, showed an increase. The cables were lower, weather clearing, and everything has favored lower prices, but the financial situation is the all-absorbing topic. The longs sold out at any price they could get. There was some short covering, but it. only had the effect of steadying the market. The receipts are fairly light, but in the face of money market can't advise anyone to go long at the prices.
