

where the deceased received his training before going to the university. It was done with appropriate ceremony in the presence of the parents, a few friends, the staff and pupils of the institution. The tablet bears the inscription: "In memory of Lieut.-Col. John McCrae, M.D., born at Guelph, Nov. 30, 1872, a pupil of this school 1883-8, honor graduate of Toronto University, member of the Royal College of Physicians of London, member of the Cadet Corps of this school, lieutenant of artillery South Africa, 1900; major of the 16th Battery, C.S.A., Guelph; surgeon First Brigade Field Artillery, C.E.F., 1914-15; in charge of Medical Division No. 3, Canadian General Hospital, 1915-18. Died on active service in France, January 28, 1918."

Remain the well wrought deed in honor done,
The dole for Christ's dear sake, the words that fall
In kindness upon some outcast one;
They received no little, now they are my all.

Suitable addresses were delivered by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, M.P., Solicitor-General, Principal Davison, Wm. Tytler, P.S.I., Mr. N. J. B. Leadley, J. W. Charlesworth, Lt.-Col. F. Coghlan, Col. W. Harlan, Mrs. C. R. Crowe. All had been friends of the doctor-soldier-poet and bore testimony to his splendid virtues.

BOYLSTON MEDICAL PRIZES.

These prizes, which are open to public competition, are offered for the best dissertation on questions in medical science proposed by the Boylston Medical Committee.

At the annual meeting held in Boston in 1916 a prize of three hundred dollars was awarded to an essay entitled "Studies of the Streptococcus of Smith," by Wilson G. Smillie, M.D., of Cambridge, Mass.

For 1919 there is offered a prize of three hundred dollars and the Boylston Prize Medal, for the best dissertation on the results of original research in medicine, the subject to be chosen by the writer. The Boylston Prize Medal will be added to the money prize only in case the winning essay shows special originality in the investigations detailed.

Dissertations entered for this prize must be in the hands of the Secretary, H. C. Ernest, M.D., Harvard Medical School, Boston, Mass., on or before December 31, 1919.

In awarding these prizes, preference will be given to dissertations which exhibit original work, but if no dissertation is considered worthy of a prize, the award may be withheld.
