Newburyport, May 1, 1800.

WE the subscribers, having seen Mr. WALSH's New System of MERCANTILE ARITHMETIC, and being satisfied that it is better calculated than any yet published, to fit a youth for the business of the Compting-House, cannot but wish it an extensive circulation. The happy elucidation and extended application of the common rules, together with the many original improvements, while they accomplish the student for commerce, are also extremely well adapted to assist and inform the merchant, the mariner, and the trader, in their various occupations.

WE the subscribers, having examined Mr. WALSH's New System of MERCANTILE ARITHMETIC, and being persuaded that it is better calculated than any we have met with, to qualify young men for admission into compting-houses, we wish that it may have an extensive circulation. The clear exemplification and pertinent application of the common rules, together with the many useful additions and improvements which it contains, will render it extremely useful for the merchant, the mariner, and all the other trading classes of society.
