Skeeters Once More Prove a Hoodoo to Leafs—Grays, Newark and Rochester Win.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., June 25.—(Special).—The Skeeters, always a hoodoo for the Maple Leafs, had little difficulty in defeating Toronto to-day, the score being 7 to 2.

The visitors presented a battered-up lineup, Wiedy taking third owing to Cockman's injury in Newark, while Mertes played second, Caffyn going to left and Gettman to centre, while Manager Kelley held down first base.

Southpaw Neuer pitched good ball for the Leafs, but the locals bunched hits in the seventh, five runs resulting, and this was the beginning of the end. Score:

The Wise Man Talks Baseball

A hit in the pinch is worth two of the other kind.

The man who always runs 'em out will make good in any game he tackles.

A home run is a fine thing but the diminutive bunt in a tight place is not to be despised.

The sacrifice has won more games than the home run and the 10-cent flead lost fewer than the 10-cent arm.

The man who never makes an error or a mistake never makes a play that is really worth while.

Speed without control hasn't a show to win against control without speed. But speed with control has the field sewed up.

Luck is always a winning factor—until it runs into pluck. Then the stuff is off.

The matto of the coach lines is this: "Open your eyes and keep on your toes."

To outguess the other fellow makes your game easy and success a pipe.

You've got to hit the dirt to get there in a pinch.

The man who stretches a single into an extra base is of more value than the man who hits for three bases and stops at second.

All you've got to do is stop and figure there never was a knocker yet who could do as well as you are doing, altho you are booting 'em all over the yard. And so figure from this what his opinion is worth.

The game is never lost until it's over; and it's never over until the last man is out. —Exchange.

Stake Money Reduced.

The all or the stake races scheduled to be run at the Brighton Beach meeting next month will be declared off, the meeting will be held, and all races will be overnight handicaps or selling events, with perhaps $400 in added money. C. J. Fitzgerald, president of the Brighton Beach Racing Association, said that the best racing possible under the present conditions would be held, and that all moneys, after legitimate expenses had been paid, would be turned over to the horsemen. Whether the rates of admission will be reduced or not remains to be seen, but many experienced race track men believe that with a popular scale of prices large crowds would turn out and that the meeting could be made to pay, or at least afford an even break financially. It is an assured fact that there will be a race meeting at Empire City, while a two weeks' session will doubtless be held at Saratoga. It is said that the Coney Island Jockey Club will probably lose all of $100,000, if not more, on the present meeting at the Bay. There were more than 6000 persons at the track Tuesday, but of this number probably 1500 were deadheads. The rich stakes to be decided at Sheepshead Bay are a heavy burden, but the owners of the track decided some time ago to keep faith with the horsemen and breeders at any cost.

Minoru, the colt that won the great Surrey foal stakes at Epsom, is raced by the King, and was acquired by His Majesty from his breeder, W. Hall Walker. A sporting paper says of Minoru's victory: "At Epsom, when His Majesty's colt Minoru won the great Surrey foal stakes, the outburst of rapturous cheering lasted quite five minutes. Such a scene has not been witnessed on a race course since Persimmon, carrying the same colors, won the Derby in 1896. The King made no effort to hide his feelings, his face was radiantly happy as he stood in the royal box, and by raising his hat acknowledged the roars of cheering. The cheers grew louder than ever and His Majesty stood there bareheaded, facing the crowd for some three minutes. 'What would have happened if the King had won the Derby?' somebody asked, and it took one's breath away to so much as think of what would have happened then."

ATHLETIC NEWS AND GOSSIP

The real meaning of the suspension of C.A.A.U. men by the Canadian Federation is best explained by this week's announcement in connection with the Brockville road race next Wednesday, that has a Montreal sanction which says:

The race will be open to all amateur runners, whether C.A.A.U. or Federation, provided they are not on the black list of the latter.

Those blacklisted are the runners who took part in an unsanctioned race held in Montreal last November, known as the King's Birthday road race.

Competitors who took part in that race and who are desirous of running in the Brockville race should apply to C. A. Sprigings, the secretary of the A.A.F.C., to have their names removed from the suspended list.

Alfred Shrubb will attempt to break the world's five-mile record in his race against relays of the fastest professional runners in the east at the first championship athletic meet of the Protective Association at Ulmer Park, Brooklyn, tomorrow.

A Calgary despatch says that the Alberta Provincial Government is willing to make a grant of $200 towards the expenses of Art Burn to the Olympic games in England, on condition that he is one of the starters in the Marathon race. This assurance was given by Premier Rutherford and Hon. C. W. Cross in a recent interview with Mr. D. L. Darroch of this city, the former O.H.A. president.

Yesterday morning's work of the Canadian athletic team in the Stadium at London consisted of starting practice. The Marathoners did five miles. Macdonald practised the high jump. Owing to the sprints taking place the second week of the Olympic, Manager Crocker is sending Tait, Lukeman, Barber and MacDonald to Birmingham July 11 to run there. On Saturday the Marathoners will do ten miles over the Marathon course. All are in fine trim, the weather suiting them splendidly.

Messrs. Starn, Crocker and Leslie Boyd have been appointed an Olympic advisory committee. All questions in connection with the team will be settled by them. The Canadian Olympic contingent called on Lord Strathcona yesterday.

The Canadian bicyclists were out in the Stadium yesterday and were paced by a motor-cyclist.

J. Howard Crocker, in introducing the Canadian Olympians to Lord Strathcona, remarked that when they were his lordship's age they would not think of sprinting. "Oh," remarked his lordship, "I can sprint even now." Strathcona welcomed the Canadians and wished them every success, and hoped to be present at some of the games.

The first official act upon his arrival in London of James E. Sullivan, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of America, was to visit the Stadium, says the Associated Press cable, where the Olympic games will be held, with President Lord Desborough.

Mr. Sullivan gave an official verbal certification that all was correct. He was enthusiastic over everything connected with the Stadium. He said:

"This will be the most important athletic meeting in the history of the world. The Stadium is in every way perfect for the Olympic meeting. It is not quite as ornate as the one at Athens, but it is undoubtedly the most perfect I have ever seen, and I have seen them all. I noticed one or two points that are interesting to Americans. The high hurdles, instead of being driven into the ground, will be individual hurdles. Each man will have his own lane and hurdles, which, of course, are 3 feet 6 inches high. They are a bit more substantial and much larger than ours. This event will be run on the turf, not on cinders.

"The 200-metre race will also be in separate lanes and around a turn. The tank in the inner field is an innovation. It is 100 metres long and is used for no purpose. The cycling path is one of the best ever built. The dressing-rooms on the grand stand are designed so that each nationality will have its own room. I have complimented Lord Desborough on all the arrangements."

The British consul at San Francisco cabled the entry of Andrew Glarner. The Olympic committee replied that they could not accept it because Glarner was not entered by the American committee.

Exhibition Speed Program.

The arrangement agreed to by the executive of the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, for the trials of speed at the forthcoming exhibition has met with general satisfaction among the horsemen. In former years, owing to the fact that only one race was decided a day, they were compelled to stay in town during the whole of the exhibition. Now they will be thru the first week, all the events having to be decided as follows: Monday, Aug. 31—2.30 trot, purse $400; road trot and road pace, each for a silver cup. Tuesday, Sept. 1—2.30 pace, purse $400; stallion trot, purse $300; road drivers' parade pace, purse $100. Wednesday, Sept. 2—2.20 trot, purse $400; 2.20 pace, purse $400; road drivers' parade trotters, purse $100. Thursday, Sept. 3—2.15 trot, purse $400; 2.15 pace, purse $400; free-for-all trot and pace, purse $500.

Entries close Aug. 15, and the terms call for 5 per cent. to enter and 5 per cent. from winnings, three heats in five. Applications for prize lists and entry blanks must be made to J. O. Orr, city hall, Toronto, with whom entries have also to be made.

Exhibition Bench Show Judges.

The following gentlemen have consented to act as judges at the International Bench Show of Dogs to be held in connection with the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, Sept. 7 to 11:

Chase, Philadelphia, Pa., English and Gordon setters; Henry Watson, Toronto, Irish setters; Tyler Morse, New York, English and French bull dogs; Dr. Henry Jarrett, Chestnut Hill, Pa., sporting spaniels, foxhounds, beagles and old English sheep dogs; Geo. S. Thomas, Hamilton, Mass., all other classes and miscellaneous specials.

Port Hope Races.

Port Hope's annual races take place July 1 and 2, when $1100 in purses will be distributed. The program:

First day—2.50 trot or pace, purse $200; 2.22 trot or pace, purse $200; half-mile run, open (best two in three), purse $100.

Second day—2.30 trot or pace, purse $175; free-for-all, trot or pace, purse $200; one mile dash, running (open), purse divided, 50, 25 and 15—$125.

Named race—Trot or pace, half-mile heats, $100, for following horses: Livery Maid, Brighton; Sleepy Nell, Brighton; Guy M., Port Hope; Frank Spragge, Brighton; Prince Medium, Brighton; Teddy Keswick, Millbrook; Annette, Lulu Chimes and Lady Black, Peterboro; King Sable, Baby Miller, Black Prince and Billy C., Port Hope; Sam Watson and Mollie K., Colborne; Harry Lee, Toronto.

Dominion Day Dog Show.

Entries are now closed with very satisfactory results for the Dog Show next Wednesday in the technical school grounds. The popular breeds, viz., fox terriers, bull terriers, Irish terriers, Bostons and Airedales, cocker spaniels and collies, are exceptionally numerous, and everything points to a most successful show. A remarkable feature is the large number of champion dogs that will compete. The Bulldog Club of Canada has donated two valuable pieces of silver for the best bull dog and bitch in the show. Exhibitors are certainly well provided for in the matter of special prizes.

It's Natural Walking

the Wooden Walk.

When you afflict your feet with an ill-fitting pair of shoes you will soon be the owner of a wooden walk—and a heavy, toilsome tread which tires the body.

Nature intended that you should walk easily and freely without growing weary—that you should be light on your feet, and easy and free in your stride.

The Napoleon Shoes have the 20 improvements which Nature says you must have in shoes. They give toe-freedom. They have a hurtless instep, an artistic-shaped steel arch, and a plumb-line heel and sole.

There is ease and comfort in every pair of them.

The Goodyear-sewn welt is reinforced by the artistic genius of an orthopædic understanding — "Napoleons" are sold at the same price in every country.

METROPOLITAN SCHOOL MUSIC

Hon. Thos. Crawford Presents the Certificates and Scholarship.

The most prosperous year in the history of the Metropolitan School of Music came to a close last night, at Guild Hall. The auditorium was filled with appreciative listeners and the program of piano, voice and violin pieces showed brilliantly that the Metropolitan School is strong and progressive in every department.

The pupils' piano work was especially excellent; but, as always in cases where a school must "show off," musicianship proper was sacrificed to technical display. In every instance, however, the pupils' work was satisfactory, and in the instance of Miss Angela Tone Breen, a pupil of Peter C. Kennedy, the technical accomplishment easily promised virtuosoship. Mr. Kennedy has already an established reputation for turning out splendid concert pianists; and Miss Breen's performance last night in rendering Moszkowski's difficult "Caprice Espangnol" easily showed, by her brilliant playing, how just is the opinion the public has formed of Mr Kennedy's teaching. I hope soon to hear Miss Breen established in Toronto as a virtuoso concert planiste.

Mr. Howard Russell, pupil of Mr. Francis H. Coombs, is a youth with a mellifluous tenor voice. He sang two songs which displayed the best qualities of good vocalism. I should advise him at once to begin the study of dramatics and prepare to go on the operatic stage. He will make good.

The intermission was occupied by the Hon. Thomas Crawford in making a speech of congratulation and in awarding the certificates, scholarships and honor prizes. He was very felicitous in his speech and evidently voiced the confidence the public had in the worth of the Metropolitan School of Music. Several pupils won first-class certificates, and well deserved was the senior harmony certificate, with first-class honors, presented by Mr. Crawford to Miss Isabel Laidlaw. The directors of the Metropolitan School of Music are planning to build a commodious new building within a year or so; and without doubt good music teaching has its proper reward in Toronto. J. D. Logan.

THE CONVICT IN GEORGIA.

Horrors of Place Where He Must Work His Way to Freedom

The State of Georgia, having no penitentiary nor prison nor other means of caring for its offenders, practices upon them a very strange device. It sells them for the terms of their sentences into the hands of private and irresponsible persons, and it was for these persons that the man was now going up and down the line, selecting the likeliest and choicest. Fifty years before, on another spot near at hand, another man had gone similarly up and down another line, making similar selections for service. But the service of 50 years ago had been called slavery, and the service of this day was called contract labor, and with this difference of names a great and splendid state had managed in some way to salve its conscience.

Some are taken to a convicts' camp at a place that I shall call Gehenna. That is not its name on the map, but it will do well enough for our purposes. It is one of many convict camps; some better, some worse. The company that had bought of the State of Georgia this particular batch of slaves is engaged in making brick. Its camp is remote from the cities and ordinary ways of men; nobody knew what went on there, and nobody cared.

With the first glance at the camp, a chill strikes to the heart; there is something most forbidding about the wild and desolate spot, made more hideous with the ragged, dirty structure and the black chimneys of the brickyard. In one corner is a high stockade with guard pens about it and men with rifles on guard; within the stockade are wretched, dark, dilapidated, and most filthy huts, in which men are doomed to sleep and eat. About the factory yard are men at work, in the broad stripes of the convict, some preparing the clay, some wheeling the yellow, damp, new bricks to the furnaces to be baked. One notices that all these men are badly clad, and some go almost naked. Beyond the brick-kiln the land slopes into a swamp, a promising breeding-place for disease.

The new gang are led to one of the filthy sheds, where they receive a breakfast of one slice of boiled salt pork and one piece of greasy corn bread. There are no knives nor forks, and one convict takes the pork into his fingers. He feels something move under his fingers. He looks sharply at the pork. He sees what it is that has moved. It is worms.—Charles Edward Russell in Everybody's Magazine.
