ARENA GARDENS, Jan. 18 .- (Staff today resulted as follows: orrespondence.)-Varsity and Fronteand geldings, purse $300, 3 furlongs: nacs met here this afternoon in a Senior O.H.A. game. Both teams have been defeated by St. Michaels, and the tussle developed into a fight for second place.

The college boys brought out their O.H. A. team, who have had very little practice, and were minus Knight and Aird, who had accompanied the Intercollegiate team to Boston, and their skates had not returned in time. Leikle of the Frontenacs was suffering with a gashed eye and was unable to play. A crowd of about 2000 fans were on hand when the game started at 3.40 p.m. Owing to the fact that both teams had blue Jerseys, Varsity were ordered to change theirs, and they produced some red ones, which made them look rather sloppy. The lineup: acs met here this afternoon in a Senior Benedict, Paw and Kora Page also ran.

HOW THEY STAND

Sharp Blades Still.

It would seem as it there is to be no stopping of Sheffield Wednesday in the race for the English League championship. They easily won on Saturday again, and hold a commanding lead. Bolton Wanderers, however, do not look so well, and were heavily defeated at Bradford. Derby were, however, in a "ramming" mood, and Tottenham were the sufferers to the extent of a nap hand. Once more Newcastle had to acknowledge defeat, and it is now quite apparent that the "Geordies" are not the team of old. Everton are now doing much better as Manchester united know to their cost. It was a tit between the cities of Manchester and Liverpool on Saturday, and, curlous to state, the City made up for Uniteds' defeat at Everton by defeating Liverpool by the same score, 4 to 1 oldham did well to tie at Sundenland, and by finishing level with West Bromwich the Aston Villa will look upon their forthcoming cup engagement with that club with more confidence. Poor Woolwich cannot get out of the rut, and had to submit to another defeat from Sheffield United.

The Ibrox team played Clyde Saturday, but as the game was not finished, the points go to neither club. All the other results were as expected, with the exception of Hamilton's draw at Klimarnock. This was a clever performance.

dent of the U. S. Golf Association, states that such a postponement would undoubtedly bring to this country Edward Ray, the present British champion, as well as Harry Vardon and George Duncan. The arrangement would also enable several of the American professionals to play in the British championship, which will be held late in June.

But for the fact that "King" Cole, one of the Cubs, had an equally fine record, Russell Ford would have proven himself the greatest recruit that ever jimmied his way into fast company. As it was, his performance was better than that of Cole, for his team did not win nearly the same percentage of games, while Ford worked far oftener that did Frank Chance's flashy southpaw.

At the close of 1910, despite the fact that he was unable to cope with the great Mathewson in a city series between the rival major league clubs, Ford was generally accredited one of the most startling phenoms of all times. The following year, however, he began to show slight evidences of mortality. In 1911 Ford had a fine year—a wonderful year, and with a team that finished sixth, was still able to win two-thirds of his games. He finished the year with 22 wins and his

and had to submit to another defeat from Sheffield United.

Burnley and Preston North End keep changing places in the second division, and it is again Burnley's turn to take the leading position. This they were enabled to do yesterday, not so much on account of winning over Lincoln City as from the fact that Preston had no game, and, therefore, had not the chance to hold their position. Birmingham and Bristol City put up large scores against Lelcester and Stockport, respectively, whilst Bury had credit by beating Fuiham. At Clapton, the Tigers of Hull met with a reverse they hardly expected.

two previous years had displayed such phenomenal class. In 1912 Ford scored but 13 triumphs as against 21 defeats. He was knocked out of the box repeatedly, very seldom went to the rescue of a pal and was hammered harder than any other pitcher on the Hill. Off Ford's delivery ten home runs were rung up, more than allowed by any other tosser in the two major leagues.

Ford's work last season was disappointing to his most enthusiastic admirers. He did not look anything like the pitcher of the previous two years. But there is not a club in either league that would let this fellow drift back to the minors without further trial. He is still regarded as one of the very best hurlers in the country. He was one of the most marvelous tossers that ever broke into the game as a first-year man. This was in 1910, when his club finished second. That year he won 26 victories and met defeat but six times, his average being .813. The following year it dropped to .667. In 1912 he won 13 games and lost 21, yet the experts think he will come back under Chance.
