NIGHT CABLE SUMMARY OF WAR

London, June 21, 10:54 p.m.—Rawls-Ruska, according to a Berlin official report, is the latest Russian position in Galicia to fall into the hands of the Austro-Germans, and as the Tenthos also are reported to be fighting east of this town the investment of Lemberg must be so nearly complete that the Russian army must withdraw from the Galician capital or leave a portion of their forces there to be besieged.

DOVER HARBOR IN TIME OF WAR

From There Incessant Warfare is Waged Against the Submarines—Destroyers and Trawlers All Engaged

(Correspondence to Toronto Evening Telegram by Douglas S. Robertson)

Dover, June 2.—Towering chalk cliffs gleaming white in the sunshine of a June day, a walled stronghold crowning the heights above a quaint town, a harbor swarming with war craft, and you have Dover, Queen of the ancient Cinque Ports, and today, in many ways, the most important naval base in the British Empire.

is a dash of white paint—an imitation bow wave, now prolonged, now short and stumpy of the writer. "When there is a sea running, what with our speed, we just plough right through it, and the whole deck is practically awash. Then when we come around, under speed, be it rough or fair, it is a case of bang on or you will get bucked overboard or thrown down just as surely as if you sat loose on one of your Canadian launchmen when they came about in a brisk breeze on Toronto Bay."

Race-Horse of Navy

"And rely on me, it is much more comfortable standing still," remarked a naval man to the writer. "When there is a sea running, what with our speed, we just plough right through it, and the whole deck is practically awash. Then when we come around, under speed, be it rough or fair, it is a case of bang on or you will get bucked overboard or thrown down just as surely as if you sat loose on one of your Canadian launchmen when they came about in a brisk breeze on Toronto Bay."

Savages Sixty Miles Off

Close by, painted neutral-grey, the several cruisers and battleships, hiding such time as the Boatswain shall venture to show it's nose outside the Kiel Canal. Through the castle is now unimportant strategically, variously-located masked batteries of great strength guard the harbor. Soldiers and sailors swam in the town, and even as the writer is scribbling these lines a gold-braded lieutenant is looking over his shoulder across the street calls to round up his men. Hereabouts of late the authorities have been very busy explaining and explaining that they were not to be taken out had been cured his curiosity and not ask too many questions concerning what he sees at Dover. And as for the former end, all yawns for him, nor will the prison doors open again until he has given a very good explanation.

HEART WOULD PALPITATE

Had Weak and Dizzy Spells.

Palpitation of the heart is one of the most common of all heart troubles. The heart will beat fast for several seconds, then slow, then start to flutter, and a feeling of utter depression will come over the system accompanied by weak and dizzy spells, making you feel that you are surely going to die. When you feel this way what you require is a real good heart and never tonic; one that will strengthen the weak heart and boost up the nerve system. For this purpose we know of nothing that can equal Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER HAS SEVEN BROTHERS IN THE BRITISH ARMY

Bangor Man Gets From One a Graphic Letter Describing Fighting

Charles E. Amos of Bangor, who has no fewer than seven brothers, in the British Army, has received the following letter from one of his brothers, W. J. Amos, describing the battle of Neuve Chapelle, at which he was wounded.

Dear Brother:

Your letter, undated, at hand, many thanks for same. Pleased to hear you are fit and well as I am at present, except my wounds, which are not yet healed up. I was in the trenches in France all through the winter, and you have no doubt heard of the hardships we had to endure. During the winter months the weather was simply awful, rain, hail and snow, and standing above our knees in mud and water for four days and nights. It seemed impossible for me to stick it, but we all stuck it well, and with a good heart. I don't think there was anything the British Army was in need of. I have good reasons to believe that we are absolutely the best equipped army in the world.

SEA WOLVES FOOLED; TOO EAGER FOR PREY

Bombed Steamer's Crew Return to Ship and Get Her Back to Port

Milford Haven, Wales, June 22.—With a big list to port and all her pumps working at full pressure, the steamer Turwell steamed into port after having surrendered to a German submarine, the crew of which had exploded bombs in her hold.

The escape of the steamer was due to the fact that the submarine, eager to sink another steamer, did not remain long enough by the Turwell to make sure of the effectiveness of the bombs.

The Turwell, which is a vessel of 4,500 tons, left Liverpool June 16 for New York. She was overhauled by the submarine thirty miles off the Pembroke-shire coast Wednesday morning and her crew ordered to take to their boats.

The Germans boarded the Turwell, exploded the bombs and then hurriedly put off from her, having sighted the British coasting steamer Trafford, a vessel of 284 tons, which they pursued and sank. The Turwell's crew then returned to their ship and plugged the holes made by the bombs as best they could, started the pumps nearest port. On the way the Turwell picked up the crew of the Trafford.

MORNING NEWS OF THE WAR

Since the opening of the war the British casualty lists have shown 1,672 officers' names, 8,272 killed, and 6,651 wounded.

The Germans are reported to be mounting seventeen inch guns on new battleships, which they are reported to be rushing to completion.

P. Fletcher, of New York, a saloon passenger aboard the Anchor Line steamer Cameronia, in London yesterday said that when the steamer was going through the Irish Sea on her way to Liverpool, she charged at a submarine, and though not sinking her, managed in this way to make her escape.

BONUSES TO OFFICERS OF MERCHANT SERVICE

The Imperial Merchant Service Guild has received information to the effect that a large and well-known steamship firm in Glasgow, in addition to paying special war bonuses to the present time to their captains, officers and engineers, has just set apart the sum of 25,000 for distribution amongst them when the appropriate time arrives. This is in special recognition of their services and the loyalty and self-sacrifice by them, apart altogether from the enhanced personal risks which they have faced without demerit.

The guild has recently urged upon all the representative ship-owners' organizations in the United States and Italy—especially in view of the great profits now earned by merchant ships—of substantially increasing the war bonuses of those chiefly responsible for the safety and efficiency of their vessels. Already there have been many responses and the guild feels that similar additional provision to that referred to has already been decided upon by several firms.

In normal times some 600,000 persons are employed on the railways of the United Kingdom.
