Baseball Income Taxable

It was ruled by the State Controller Travis New York the other day, that professional baseball players and umpires employed during the last season, although residents of other states, are liable to the state income tax law. His decision is made in answer to inquiries received from the controller's office from those interested. Baseball officials were advised at the state requires them, acting as withholding agents, to deduct and withhold a tax based upon the amount earned by their employees within the state.

To determine this sum, the controller said, where the services were performed partly within and partly without the state, it would be necessary for these officials to divide the amount paid them as annual salaries by the number of games played or umpired. This figure should, the controller said, be multiplied by the number of games played or umpired within the state, and if the amount so ascertained equals or exceeds $1,000 a tax must be deducted and withheld.

In making public this decision, the controller pointed out that the work done, rather than the person, or place where payment is made, is to be considered the source of income. It follows from this, he explained, that payments for services performed within the state are taxable against nonresidents. Where services are performed partly within and partly without, the income therefrom should be divided pro rata as income from sources within and without.

In the concluding paragraph of his opinion, the controller said that the officials of the several clubs as well as the clubs themselves were not subject to the payment of a state income tax excepting as individuals. They are, however, required to file a return with the state controller, concerning all gains or profits paid by them to their employees. Should any of these fail to file a certificate of residence, the club officials are obliged under the statute to deduct and withhold the tax.

TURF

"Pop" Geers Injured.

Syracuse, N.Y., Sept. 8.—Edward "Pop" Geers, veteran Grand Circuit driver, is in a hospital here tonight suffering from serious internal injuries as a result of a collision in the 216 trot at the opening of the Grand Circuit races programme this afternoon. Physicians said tonight said they were unable to report the exact extent of his injuries, but they stated that Geers would not be able to drive again for some time.
The day was marred by another accident in which Patrick Cherrier, pilot of Armada, had his left leg broken. It was in the 216 pace and one of the horses which "broke" reared and plunged into Cherrier's sulky. Driverless, Armada raced to the wire and finished third.
The festive event of the day, the Matron Stake, for three-year-old trotters, was won by Periscope in straight heats, the best time 2:04½, being the fastest time of the season for three-year-olds. Baron Cegantle won the 2:09 trot in straight heats, best time 2:06½.

The Chamber of Commerce stake for 2:06 paces developed a lively battle between Edward P. and Little Batiste, the former taking the first and third heats turning the stiles in each instance in 2:04½.

round bout here tonight. Leonard led and right uppercut with deadly effect.

and tenth rounds, but hung on to the finish of the tenth round.

COULDN'T WORK FOR 8 MONTHS

Dan McLean Spent Four Hundred Dollars Seeking Health — Is Restored By Tanlac

"I consider my first bottle of Tanlac has been worth all of one hundred dollars to me," declared Dan McLean, of 385 Esplanade street, Sydney, Nova Scotia, while in Turnbull's Drug store for more of the medicine, recently. Mr.
McLean has been following the carpen-ter's trade for the past forty years. He has lived in Sydney for twenty years and is well known.

"On the 15th of last September," he continued, "I was taken down with the 'flu' and was never able to get anything to put me on my feet until I found Tanlac. I was left so weak that I could not hit a lick of work for more than eight months and this meant a loss of from $120 to $180 a month to me, for that is what I was making before getting down. I also paid out $400 for treatment and medicine trying to get my health back, so you can see what that spell of 'flu' cost me. I could not walk from town to my room without stopping several times on the way to rest and after the trip I would puff like a steam engine.

"Seeing by the papers that Tanlac was helping so many others who were in a run-down condition, and thinking it might help me to get on my feet, I bought a bottle. Well, it may sound exaggerated but it's the truth, after taking my fourth dose of Tanlac I could tell it was what I needed and was going to do the work, and I have been gaining ground ever since. Why, I never ate more than fifty cents worth of food a week before I got Tanlac, but now I want to eat all the time and no matter what kind of food is set before me, I enjoy it. I have just finished my first bottle of Tanlac and I am feeling well enough already to go back to work.
Tanlac beats anything I have ever seen or heard about; it is no more like other medicines, I have used since day is like night. Before taking it my nerves were so shattered that I could never get a good night's sleep, but now I sleep like a log. I also had the kind of headaches, but they have been broken up entirely. Tanlac is simply making a new man of me and I honestly believe it's the best medicine in the world, and anyone who gives it a trial will be convinced."

Tanlac is sold in St. John by Ross Drug Company and F. W. Munro, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative. (Adv.)

NEW TRAIN SERVICE THROUGH EUROPE

Orient Express From Paris to Bucharest; Athens is on Line.

Paris, Sept. 9.—International train representatives of the British, French, Belgian and Central European railways have been in conference in Paris for the past three weeks, with the object of establishing a new service of international trains.
Subject to confirmation of all the delegates, it has been decided to run the Orient Express, which has been decided to run the Orient Express via the Simpson Tunnel, with through carriages between Paris and Bucharest and between Paris and Belgrade; a portion will go on to Athens.

In connection with this express there will be a train from Ostend to Milan and vice versa, via Brussels.
Another international express is to run between Paris, Prague and Warsaw by way of Strasbourg and Nuremberg, in place of the former Nord Express.
The time-table for this train through the German countries concerned remains to be settled, and this is to be done at Strasbourg in time for the final meeting in Paris, which is fixed for Saturday.
It is expected that this train will begin on September 15.

HIGHER PHONE RATES.

The application of the N. B. Telephone Company for permission to increase the rates will not be presented to the public utilities commission for a month or six weeks yet, partly owing to the absence of the company's solicitor, J. E. M. Ben-ter, and partly to the time required to of their case. The company is increasing its facilities by laying new underground cables in St. John and Moncton and will do so also in Fredericton. A new long distance circuit has been completed between St. John and Moncton and circuits between St. John and Hampton and Sussex and Moncton also are being installed.

Stewart Gordon and William Drake, who are leaving the city shortly, were guests at a farewell dance given by a number of friends in the studio last evening. Mrs. O. S. Trentowsky and Mrs. Earle were chaperones.

SEES BOLSHIEVISM DYING NATURALLY Hun Atrocities Nothing Compared to Insane Russians, Says Lieut. J. Light.

New York, Sept. 9.—"An anarchist is a gentleman compared to a Bolshevik," according to Lieut. John Light, Toronto newspaperman, who, during the war was associated with Hugo Walpole, British novelist in disseminating British propaganda in Russia and the Scandinavian countries. Lieut. Light was among the 373 military and civilian passengers arriving today from Liverpool aboard the White Star liner Celtic.

"There is undoubtedly a tendency to Bolshevism in Great Britain and in this country too," he heard, the lieutenant said.
"But if the people only knew the real facts as we learned of them in the propaganda bureau, Bolshevism would be farther from their thoughts."
"The horrors of German outrages, unspeakable as they are, pale before those of the insane Russians. A German would have to be disbeliever in humanity to exceed some Russians we know of, who in the frenzy of revolution pulled their own officers to pieces alive. And that Bolshevik free love bureau—it is indescribable."

"The only salvation for Russia is to leave her to find her own salvation. Bolshevism there is dying a natural death.
Admiral Kolchak is a great man, but Denikin is now the biggest man in Russia. Through him something may be hoped for."

The Celtic brought a total of 373 passengers, nowhere near her capacity. Coming up the harbor she passed the American transport Liberator, loaded to the gunwales with cheering doughboys. The sight caused a wave of comment among the 186 Canadian troops on board regarding the Canadian demobilization and the speedy American system. They complained that twice as many could have been brought on board the Celtic. Seven thousand Canadians were waiting in one camp alone, they said, and about sixteen thousand all over England, while British ships were coming this way half empty.
