CONSIDERABLE INTEREST IN CASE AGAINST LAURENT DEL'EGLE

Yesterday Afternoon Taken up in Police Court With Evidence—Man Charged With Having in His Possession Morphine and Opium for Other Than Medical or Scientific Purposes—Witnesses from Montreal and Ottawa Give Evidence—Case Resumed Next Tuesday.

The case in which Laurent Del'Eglise is charged with unlawfully having in his possession morphine and opium for other than medical or scientific purposes was resumed in the police court yesterday afternoon. Several witnesses from Montreal and Ottawa gave evidence, and F. R. Taylor, K. C., closed the case for the prosecution. In summing up the case for the defense, J. A. Barry held that the prosecution had not established proof that the defendant imported the goods without a license and held that that charge should be dropped. The magistrate allowed the prosecution to recall witness to prove the charge, although strongly objected to by the defense. Mr. Barry then asked for a postponement of case to secure additional evidence and the case was adjourned to Tuesday at two o'clock. Application for bail was again renewed and again refused by the magistrate.

An interesting portion of evidence was that of an expert witness from Ottawa who stated that profit on the drugs ranged from ten to ten thousand per cent. William Drysdale, customs appraiser, of Montreal, the first witness to be called stated that he received a shipment of goods from Customs official in St. John in January, and had re-shipped them to the Collector of Customs at Ottawa. George B. Fowler, special customs officer, Ottawa, said that on the arrival of the goods in Ottawa he checked out each lot, numbered them and had them analysed. He identified the samples offered in evidence as those sent to be analysed.

A. M. MacMillan, stated that while Customs and Inland Revenue analyst in January, 1920, he had received a number of samples from Officer Fowler. Those produced in court were identified as being the samples, some 29 in all. The witness found in his analysis that two of the packages contained quinidine sulphate, seven cocaine hydro chloride, twelve heroin chloride, one codine phosphate, and two morphine sulphate. Mr. Fowler was recalled to the stand and identified the four packages examined by the court, as those which contained the goods shipped by the Customs department in Ottawa to St. John.

Mr. Drysdale identified two of the cases as those shipped by him from Montreal to the department at Ottawa. William Cowan, officer in charge of the opium and drug branch of the Department of Health, Ottawa, stated that morphine could be bought in England today at from $5 to $6 per oz.; heroin from $16 to $25; cocaine from $8 to $10; codine at about $4. The total value of the shipment seized he estimated at in excess of $100,000.

The witness stated that in the administration of his branch of the department he issued licenses for the importation of drugs which necessitated his keeping in touch with the prices they commanded. The prices were subject to considerable fluctuation and the profits on the drugs ranged from 10 to 10,000 per cent. The witnesses evidence closed the case for the prosecution. Mr. Barry in summing up the case for the defense said that cocaine and morphine were the drugs mentioned as those which the defendant was charged with having in his possession for other than medical or scientific purposes and were therefore the only drugs for which the defendant had to answer. The evidence showed that on the arrival of the defendant in St. John his baggage had been taken in immediate possession of by the customs officials, and that when asked by the officials if he had dutiable goods, he admitted the fact, and asked that the goods be sent in bond to Montreal.

As there was no information as to the first charge, that of importing without a license, he contended that the second was the only one to be considered. If it had been established by the prosecution that the defendant had the goods in his possession the goods would have been placed on the defendant to show that he had them for medical or scientific purposes, but the goods were in the possession of the customs from the time of their landing in St. John on the Empress of France. He asked that the case be dismissed. Mr. Taylor said that the case was considered by the government of Canada as one of great importance. The illicit sale of drugs was doing untold damage in the Dominion, and the gangs who were conducting the sales were known to have their headquarters in Montreal. To check the growing evil the government had been given control of the trade by an act passed in 1919. In the present case the defendant had landed in St. John with three packages of goods in his possession and imported by him into Canada. They were marked as respectable goods and not deadly drugs. Unless the defendant had other evidence to give, he thought he had established his case, and asked that the maximum penalty of $1,000 and a year's imprisonment be imposed. Mr. Barry said that according to the act every person must have a license to import, and it had not been established by the prosecution that the defendant did not have a license. Mr. Taylor stated that he had not thought it necessary but would recall witness.

Mr. Barry held that if the prosecution had not considered it necessary to establish the proof, it should not be allowed to do so after the case had been closed. The magistrate over-ruled the objection and Mr. Cowan was recalled. He stated that the defendant did not have a license. Questioned by Mr. Barry, witness stated that the department of health had taken over the issuance of licenses in December, 1919, prior to that it had been under the control of the department of inland revenue. He was unable to say if the defendant had secured a license from that department. Mr. Barry stated that under the circumstances he would have to call additional witnesses and prepare a new defense. He thought the value of the goods as stated by a witness would be sufficient to keep any one interested in the country, and asked that the defendant be granted bail. The case had already been taken up in Ottawa where bail had not been refused the accused. Mr. Taylor asked that bail be refused, it was the wish of the department. The magistrate said he would grant an adjournment provided the defense intended calling necessary and material witnesses, but was not willing to grant bail. The case stands adjourned to two o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Church Tablet To Be Unveiled

Is in Memory of Canon Hanington and Has Been Prepared for the Church at Upper Norton—Will be Placed in Position Shortly.

A large brass tablet in memory of Canon Hanington has been prepared for the church at Upper Norton and will be placed on the walls in a short time. It was arranged for by Mr. George Raymond and other church members and Miss H. Hanington, a sister of the deceased clergyman. The engraved design is of a column on each side joined with a Gothic arch. In the corners at the top are crossed palm branches and in the centre of the arch a large raised Maltese cross filled with color. The inscription is as follows:

In Memory of The Reverend Clarence Peters Hanington Canon of Christ Church Cathedral and Rector of this Parish from 1885 to 1916 Died March 5th, 1916. Aged 58 years.

The lettering is old English capitals which are filled with red color, the text being all black. The tablet is mounted on a solid flamed-oak base. The work was done by C. H. Fiewelling of St. John.

EXTRA LEGGED CHICKENS. Among a brood of chickens hatched at 27 Murray street last Monday, and owned by Mrs. A. Ramsey, was one with four legs, it lived but three days. With the exception of the extra pedal extremities, the chicken was well developed and normal. The extra legs had two peculiarities, in that there were only three claws on one foot, and in that the legs and feet, which had grown from the body, immediately in the rear of the ordinary equipment, were turned in the opposite direction to the normal legs. The chicken had the appearance of being equipped to run in either direction from its legs alone, it could not be determined whether the chicken was going or coming.

The North End has nothing on the Southern Section of the city for a chicken with three legs was hatched a few days ago in Fred Kelley's stable, Lenster street. The freak is still alive and going strong.

The Canadian Parole System

Interesting Address Was Delivered by W. P. Archibald, Dominion Officer, Before a Prison Congress Recently Held in New York.

W. P. Archibald was in the city a few days ago after an inspection of Dorchester Penitentiary. In an address on the Canadian Parole System, delivered by this Dominion Parole Officer of Ottawa, before a Prison Congress recently held in New York, the speaker brought out some interesting facts in regard to the working out of the system during the war.

He stated that since the year 1914 and up to the close of the war some six hundred and ten men previously released on parole, volunteered for active service, and after being accepted by the military authorities served in various units at the front. In many cases they made the supreme sacrifice for their country, and falling with their faces to the foe lie buried in the sacred soil of France.

One man who was released on parole shortly before the outbreak of the war was given a commission in a Western battalion. Amongst the first of the Canadian army to arrive on the Western front, he conducted himself with such distinction that at the close of the war he returned in command of his battalion. Another man paroled from a Canadian penitentiary was the winner of the military medal and subsequently the bar to the military medal. He returned a non-commissioned officer and the pride of his unit.

In still another case the paroled man enlisted in an infantry battalion, was promoted to the rank of a non-com, and through his efforts was later awarded his commission. In the heavy fighting at Courcellette, he covered himself with great distinction. Another ex-prisoner after fighting most gallantly through the early stages of the war was killed in one of the final battles. His body was found forty yards in advance of any other member of his battalion. The speaker cited several other examples of paroled prisoners' conduct on the arrival of the defendant in St. John, while in training camp on their arrival in France exhibited such courage and resource as to win promotion in many cases to non-commissioned rank, while in several cases even to commissions.

Speaking of the record of the English prisoners he stated that statistics showed that seven thousand were enrolled in the Imperial Forces, five hundred and thirty were killed, forty-nine died of wounds, and thirty succumbed to sickness. Of the remainder one thousand five hundred and thirty were returned wounded. Twenty of the prisoners were mentioned in despatches, twenty-five received the D.C.M., while three of the men were awarded the most highly prized war medal in the British army, the Victoria Cross.

ONLY ONE ARREST. But one arrest was made last evening, that of Clarence VanWart, who is being held at the request of the detective department for investigation.

AT THE ART CLUB. As the Exhibition pictures are nearly all upon the walls yet, several interested persons have made opportunity to see them, and many kind remarks have been made about the excellent work done this season by the pupils and the evident care of the teachers. On the holiday a number of Sisters of Charity spent some time in the studio. Last evening two ladies from Nova Scotia and a minister from Montreal were present, and Mrs. H. H. McAvity of Bridgetown, N. S., who is intending to do some portraits there this summer, were all much pleased.

Miss Pauline Powell has sold one of the fine Boerboer of Paris French water colors, for a good price in Brooklyn, N. Y., where she is visiting.
