His case is to come up again, however, as soon as he returns from the trip to Europe on which he was sent on his release from prison, and the question will be fought through all the courts of the country. Newspapers will never yield the right of any Court to go beyond the editors in reference to matters for which they assume entire responsibility, and we are sure that journalists will always be found ready to cheerfully submit to imprisonment rather than reveal the secrets of their business or acknowledge the right of any court to know them. The struggle between the press and the courts, should the right to turn newspaper offices inside out be claimed, may be long, but the final result must be the triumph of the press. The reformers have all along proceeded on the supposition that the negroes were eager to be admitted to the schools attended by white children, that they were aggrieved at being compelled to attend separate schools, and that they would for ever bless the names of those who abolished the educational distinction between the races. But this supposition has received a rather saveral distinction between the races. But this supposition has received a rather severe blow from the negroes of Marengo county, Alabama, the first who appear to have put themselves on record on the subject, who have resolved that they do not desire or ask for mixed schools, and that as for social relations, they are governed by the laws of nature, which October first, after which date it will be A new Pullman car called Athol has cannot, even if desired, be controlled. almost useless to sue parties for debt arrived at Carleton for the Intercolonial regulated, amended or repealed by any who have no visible property beyond the colored people declare that "they are the colored people declare that the colored people declare the colored people declare that the colored people declare the co
