

PK 1718

71657

T24G52

The following poems have been paraphrased in verse from English prose translations of some of the remarkable poems of Rabindranath Tagore, a distinguished poet of the present day in Bengal. The prose translations, from the original Bengali, are by the Indian author himself and are, with one exception, contained in a recent volume entitled "Gitanjali—Song Offerings," where they appear without individual titles and designated by numbers only.