

The pronunciation has not been added to the Latin, because every letter is sounded,—a final being like y in army.

1. A long or short over a vowel denotes both the accented syllable and the quantity of the vowel in English. 2. T̄, ei or si, before a vowel sounds she. 3. Words of two syllables have the accent on the first.

- Ab initio, from the beginning.
 Ab urbe cōdita, from the building of the city—A. U. C.
 Ad captandum vulgus, to ensnare the vulgar. [out end.
 Ad infinitum, to infinity, without end.
 Ad libitum, at pleasure. [tion.
 Ad referendum, for consideration.
 Ad valōrem, according to value.
 A fortiōri, with stronger reason, much more.
 Alias (ā-le-as), otherwise.
 Alibi (al-i-bi), elsewhere.
 Alma māter, the university.
 Anglice (ang-li-cy) in English.
 Anno Dōmini, in the year of our Lord—A. D.
 Anno Mundi, in the year of the world—A. M.
 A posteriori, from the effect, from the latter, from behind.
 A priori, from the former, from before, from the nature or cause.
 Arcānum, a secret.
 Arcāna impērii, state secrets.
 Argumentum ad hominem, an appeal to the professed principles or practices of the adversary.
 Argumentum ad iudicium, an appeal to the common sense of mankind.
 Argumentum ad fidem, an appeal to our faith.
 Argumentum ad pōpulum, an appeal to the people.
 Argumentum ad passiōnes, an appeal to the passions. [sides.
 Audi alteram partem, hear both sides.
 Bona fide, in reality, in good faith.
 Contra, against.
 Cacōethes scribendi, an itch for writing.
 Cæteris pāribus, other circumstances being equal.
 Caput mōrtuum, the worthless remains, dead head.
 Compos mentis, in one's senses.
 Cum privilegio, with privilege.
 Dāta, things granted.
 De facto, in fact, in reality.
 De jure, in right, in law.
 Dei Grātia, by the grace or favour of God.
 Deo volente, God willing.
 Dōmine dirige nos, O Lord direct us. [wanting.
 Desunt cætera, the rest are wanting.
 Desiderātum, something desirable, or much wanted.
 Dramatis personæ, characters represented.
 Durante vita, during life.
 Durante placito, during pleas-
 Ergo, therefore. [ure.
 Errāta, errors—Erratum, an
 Excerpta, extracts. [error.
 Esto perpētua, let it be perpetual.
 Et cætera, (&c.) and the rest.
 Exempli grātia, (e. g.) as for example. [of office.
 Ex officio, officially, by virtue.
 Ex parte, on one side. [tation.
 Ex tempore, without premeditation.
 Fac simile, exact copy or resemblance.
 Fiat, let it be done or made.
 Flagrante bello, during hostilities.
 Gratis, for nothing. [ties.
 Horā fugit, the hour or time flies.
 Humanum est errāre, to err is human.
 Ibidem, (ib.) in the same place.
 Id est, (i. e.) that is.
 Ignorāmus, a vain uninformed pretender.
 In loco, in this place.
 Imprimis, in the first place.
 In terrōrem, as a warning.
 In p̄pria p̄sona, in his own person.
 In statu quo, in the former state.
 Ipse dixit, on his sole assertion.
 Ipse facto, by the act itself.