A PLEASANT EVENING SPENT WITH SHAKESPEARE

Albert College Students Present Scenes From Greatest Plays—Shakespearean Music and Paper on Dramatist's Career and Art.

Educational institutions and the stage have vied with one another in paying tribute to the genius of Shakespeare, the tercentenary of whose death will be celebrated on Easter Sunday, April 23rd, St. George's Day. Colleges have had courses of lectures upon various phases of the great dramatist's work and many a lover of his dramas has yearned to appear in the roles of some of his heroes. Something of the multifarious nature of the "Swan of Avon" was interpreted to a fair-sized audience at Massey Hall, Albert College, on Saturday evening. It was an evening with Shakespeare, the musical department assisting the literary societies and staff in the program. Swallow songs which appear in the plays were sung, the settings being by the world's greatest masters. Scenes from plays which have been studied in college during the present year were staged by the students, and an excellent paper on Shakespeare was read by Miss Gardner.

The program opened with a piano duet by the Misses Grosskurth and Edwards, from Mendelssohn's "Fingertal music" to the "Midsummer Night's Dream." The two young ladies gave an excellent rendition of the fairy and romantic music.

Miss Gardner's paper on the poet was comprehensive covering critical estimates of Shakespeare, descriptions of his birthplace, early life, and marriage, his journey to London, the growth of the English drama and Shakespeare's opportunity of time and place, his debt to his contemporaries, the division of the plays, his later life and retirement, his humor.

purely love of country, toleration, the expanded Baconian theory, his wealth of language, his knowledge of medicine and law and the European languages.

Undoubtedly Shakespeare possessed extraordinary natural gifts with a deep observation. But these endowments he developed with indefatigable industry. He wrote thirty-five plays creating one thousand totally distinct characters of all classes and races.

Excellent recruiting speeches are found in his historical plays and in Coriolanus.

He sat on the world's summit and as one most calculated to make men better and wiser.

Miss Moorhouse sang two Schubert numbers "Where is Sylvia" from "The Two Gentlemen of Verona" and "Hark! Hark the Lark" from "Cymbeline." Misses Moorhouse and Metzler and Messrs. Cameron and Staples rendered Zimmerman's "Faery Song" from "The Midsummer Night's Dream" and Miss LaVoie and Mr. Cameron were heard in "It was a Lover and His Lass" (Waltham) from "As You Like It." These songs are very difficult and are calculated to put to the test all the art of vocalists, but the local artists caught the elusive spirit of these compositions rendering them in an excellent manner.

Shakespeare wrote his plays to be acted and perhaps did not think of their being read. Accordingly the fitness of his art can only be understood when his characters tread the boards. Three plays were utilized to provide scenes for the college students for acting—"The Merchant of Venice," "As You Like It" and "Julius Caesar." Six scenes were played from each drama. The students entered into the spirit of the scenes with a zest and skill which put the stamp of artists upon many of them.

From "The Merchant of Venice" the first scene chosen was that in which Portia (Miss Spargo) and Nerissa (Miss Young) discuss Portia's admirers. Both these young ladies revealed gifts of no mean order. The greatest trial scene in the play was given over to the following cast—Portia—Miss Johnstone

Nerissa—Miss R. Grosskurth
Duke—Mr. Huffman
Shylock—Mr. McMillan
Antonio—Mr. Heeslip
Bassanio—Mr. Nunn
Gratiano—Mr. McNeely.

Mr. McNeely caught the true spirit of Gratiano's lines and was a prime favorite. Mr. McMillan had the most difficult role of the Jew. His excellent voice seemed to fit the part exactly. Antonio and Bassanio were well taken. Nerissa has only a small role to play and Miss R. Grosskurth had little opportunity. Miss Johnstone made a good Portia. The Duke is a role of few words, but requires dignity and a wide experience in the dramatic art. Mr. Huffman's study was creditable. The next two scenes took the audience off to the forest of Arden in "As You Like It." Miss Spargo appeared as Rosalind. Miss Young as Celia and Miss Parks as Frederick in this several fine situations occur as when Rosalind is banished and her cousin, willingly consents to go into exile with her. The humor and pathos of the scene were skilfully interpreted. No more difficult roles were ever given an actress than those of Rosalind (Miss Moorhouse) and Orlando (Miss Griffith) in the scene where the former is in a youth's attire and gets her unwilling lover to woo her so that he might be cured of his love. It was difficult to carry this situation over the footlights but Miss Moorhouse and Miss Griffith succeeded.

Mr. McGinley made a good Antony in his address to the mob after the death of Julius Caesar in the play of that name. His voice and actions were suited to the part. Mr. Cook took the role of Brutus and succeeded. Messrs. Ellis, McNeely, Hinchey and Ramsay were the citizens. They showed careful training as to dramatic values.

The quarrel of the friends Brutus and Cassius is most exacting for amateurs. The slightest flaw is always noticeable, but Mr. Hinchey as the former and Mr. McEwen as the latter gave a great deal of the true feeling of the scene.

The presentation of these scenes showed the students the wealth of Shakespeare and renewed interest in the world's greatest poet will doubtless result.

The instruction in the acting was the work of Miss Gardner, Miss Young and Miss Tuile.

"Potash and Perlmutter" Tomorrow Night

Direct from their second year's stay at the Cohen Theater, New York City, "Abbe" Potash and "Mawruss" Perlmutter came to Griffin's Opera House tomorrow night with the latest designs in cloaks, suits and laughs—"Abbe" and "Mawruss" are the lovable partners about whom Montague Glass wrote such delightful stories in The Saturday Evening Post. He made them famous and they made him famous but Manager A. H. Woods added to the fame of all when he put "Abbe" and "Mawruss" on the stage. Since then the partners have been working overtime.

The firm's name is "Potash and Perlmutter," they've got a designer named Ruth Goldman who has a head like Andrew Carnegie and a shape like Lillian Russell; a rascally lawyer named Feldman—and incidentally they have hearts of gold.

Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon

An all star cast of seasoned players from the speaking stage is featured in "The Sphinx," a five part Universal Red Feather feature filmplay which is being offered at the Palace Theater tonight and Tuesday, matinee and night. The cast is headed by the famous dramatic stars, Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon whose portrayal of intellectual roles is without peer, the supporting cast consists of Miss Helen Wootton one of the most beautiful and accomplished actresses in pictures, Joseph Flores, Hart Hoxie and Mrs. Lyda Yeaman, complete the roster of its sterling cast of character actors and actresses as was ever assembled in one photodrama. A program of amusing comedies will also be exhibited.

The Eternal City

No summary of bare facts can adequately describe the astounding power and charm of "The Eternal City," the Famous Players 8 part photo spectacle, featuring the talented dramatic star, Pauline Frederick, which is to be exhibited at Griffin's opera house next Wednesday and Thursday evening. The pictorial version of Hall Caine's thrilling romance presents the stirring incidents and climaxes, the nobility and tragedy, the elements of love and betrayal and the beautiful ideals and humanities of the original plot, with a wider range, in truer colors and bolder strokes than were possible in the novel or play, and will therefore render the inspiring story its greatest measure of immortality.

Moirs Higher Than for Years

The water in the Moirs is said to be higher than for a number of years past. The main road near the Rock Factory has been flooded to a dangerous height for the past week but there are now signs of the water receding.—Tweed Advocate.

HANDY HUSBAND

Knew How to Get Part of the Breakfast

"I know one dish I can prepare for breakfast as well as any cook on earth," said my husband one morning when the cook was ill and he had volunteered to help get breakfast. He appeared with his dish and I discovered it was Grape-Nuts which, of course, was easy to prepare for it was perfectly cooked at the factory, but it was a good illustration of the convenience of having Grape-Nuts.

"We took up Grape-Nuts immediately after returning from a five years' sojourn in a hot country. Our stomachs were in bad condition and we were in poor health generally.

"In a day or two we liked Grape-Nuts better than any other kind of food on the table. We both gained steadily in health and strength, and this was caused by Grape-Nuts and Postum.

"A friend of ours had a similar experience. She was seriously ill with indigestion and could find nothing to eat that would not give her heartburn and palpitation, especially at night.

"She found that a small dish of Grape-Nuts with cream made her a satisfactory supper and gave her a comfortable night's rest. In a short time she gained several pounds in weight.

"There's a Reason," saying given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

MILITARY NOTES

The Kingston Standard refers to the promotion of Major Watson in the following terms:

"There are many in the city who will be pleased to know that Capt. Watson, the first adjutant of the 80th Battalion has been made senior major of the battalion. Those who know him will agree that the promotion is most deserving one and the new senior major possesses in a pre-eminent degree all the qualities essential of success in his new position.

During the mobilization and training of the 80th Battalion in Barriefield camp, The Standard had the best of opportunities to judge of the ability of Major Watson, and there was no officer in camp who worked harder, was more pleasant to all or more respected by battalion and camp than Major Watson. Lieut.-Col. Ketcheson has an excellent second in command of the 80th Battalion."

Lt.-Col. Ketcheson and Capt. Pile have returned from Kingston after a consultation with Col. Hemming.
