SAILORS PERISH.

Life Boat was Useless to Put in the Water

And the Unfortunate Men are Still Lashed to the Masts Near Point Pelee.

Kingville, Nov. 27.—An unknown schooner is sunk on the midground off Point Pelee, and the sailors are lashed to the rigging, for the masts are above the water.

Since Sunday morning the tug Home Rule, from Amherstburg, has been trying to rescue the men, but there is such a high sea running that her efforts have been fruitless. It is feared that the men will die from exposure before aid can reach them.

The Home Rule came in here last evening, and the crew went to the life saving station at the end of Point Pelee to get the lifeboat. Captain Hackett was informed that the boat had not been in the water for three years and would not float.

The Home Rule draws too much water to go near the midground in the heavy sea that is running on Lake Erie. She will stay here and leave in time to get to the wrecked schooner by daylight, when another effort will be made to save the crew.

The schooner Reuben Doud is also on the same ground, but nothing is known of her condition. About fifty boats were anchored west of Point Pelee. Since the wind has gone to the North-west a number of them have gone out.

CHAPLAIN LANE COMING

And Will Deliver his Lecture, Monday Evening, December 10th.

In the First Presbyterian Church, on Dec. 10, Chaplain Lane will present a picture of the awful game of war as played on the veldt and kopjes of South Africa, as Chaplain of our own Canadian Dragoons to which Major Turner and the late Lieut. Borden were attached.

Chaplain Lane stands over six feet in height, straight as a rush, with shoulders like a giant, his face still showing the effects of a battle from another source. He is a commanding African and with his official khaki uniform, he is truly good to look upon. In a short conversation with Mr. Lane in October when I had the good fortune to meet him, he told me that Chaplain Lane's company from Quebec to Springfield, N. S., I learned more about the war in South Africa, than I have from all other sources.

Chaplain Lane witnessed the swimming of the Vet River by Lieut. Borden at the time Borden's hat and coat were pierced by bullets in the hands of a Boer who was then sheltered in a tree on the opposite side of the Vet river. Thanks of the British Empire are due to the gallant Lieut. Borden on that occasion. Get your tickets! Don't miss the opportunity of your life to learn the true treachery of the South African war, the treachery of the Boers in using the white flag to lure the British to death. Until you have heard Chaplain Lane's lecture, you will not understand the horror of the Boer war, bloodshed and treachery our Canadian boys with others experienced in South Africa.

THOSE C. C. E. BOOKS.

To the Planet—The difficulty in the matter of the old and the New English grammar text books, referred to by "Parent" in last Friday's Planet, was occasioned by the force of circumstances, in the following way: Last year the Entrance pupils were asked to buy copies of the new and much improved edition, the other forms using the old books which they already had. This fall, after the promotions and classification had been made, it was found that in one room the majority had copies of the old edition, while the minority had the new books. As the majority rules in this democratic country, this book is used in this country. Any pupil wishing to dispose of his new book, can readily do so to some other pupil needing a copy. If "Parent" in the public prints, would communicate his grievances personally or by letter to the staff, they would receive prompt and courteous attention.
