The Opening of Long Island Church.

The church on Long Island was reopened for public service last Sabbath, after being closed for repairs during a few weeks.

The Rev. W. H. Langille, of Bridgetown, a former pastor, preached an eloquent and impressive sermon to a large audience from Paul's description of the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth, 1. Timothy, 3: 12.

The choir of the Methodist church, Horton, took charge of the music and added greatly to the interest and sacredness of the occasion. The pastor, Rev. W. Weddell, referred briefly to the harmony of the community upon the question of repair and the generous response to the appeal for necessary funds. The church has been painted outside and inside and re-seated with solid oak pews of modern design and finish, with a neat and beautiful reading desk of similar material. The building committee, Messrs. Jas. Allen, A. B. Kilcup and Fred Palmer, were complimented upon the fidelity with which they had carried out the instructions of the congregation, and the congregation was congratulated upon the splendid appearance of the church. The changed appearance of the building is a tribute to the contractor, Mr. T. R. Wallace, of Wolfville, whose excellent judgment and skilled workmanship have contributed so largely to securing for the island one of the most beautiful little churches in the county.
