Divine Right of Kings.

Ever since Emperor William ascended the throne he has periodically directed the limelight of publicity on himself by some extraordinary expression of opinion. Shortly after he came to the throne he outraged the feelings of the world at large by an address he gave to some recruits in the German Army when he advised them it might be their duty in the course of their military career to shoot down their brothers and fathers at his command. At intervals since that time he has given voice to views which have attracted as much attention. But they have all proved harmless. Lately, they have excited considerable condemnation in Germany itself. In the outside world they now excite but passing comment, and are looked upon as mere freak expressions rather than the weighed and thoughtful judgments of a mature statesman. But it is somewhat strange in the Twentieth Century to come across the doctrine of the Divine Right of Kings, a doctrine which was destroyed so far as the British Constitution is concerned in the Seventeenth Century after a comparatively brief and checked existence.

It was alien to our soil and spirit and never thrived in an English atmosphere. The right to elect and depose Kings was one of the most cherished rights of the Witenagemot, and was not infrequently exercised. Bishop Stubbs in his Constitutional History writes: "If the descendants of the Conqueror had succeeded one another by the ordinary rule of inheritance, there can be no doubt but that the form as well as the reality of ancient liberty would have perished. Owing to the necessity, however, under which each of them lay of making for himself a title in default of hereditary right, the ancient framework was not set aside; and her function as to a great extent the forms of election and coronation were, they did not lose such real importance as they had possessed earlier, but furnished an important acknowledgment of the rights of the nation as well as a recognition of the duties of the King."

His Gracious Majesty King George ascended the throne in virtue of an Act of Parliament. His title is parliamentary, and unlike his cousin, the Kaiser, he would never think of asserting a belief that he reigns by virtue of Divine Right and not by parliaments or People's Assemblies. His title is broad based on the will of the people as constituted in Parliament. King George's latest acknowledgment of this fact was his appeal through his ministers to the representatives of the people and to the press to change the words of the Coronation Oath. To this request they assented and the Supreme Legislative authority which made the title under which His Majesty reigns altered one of the conditions of his title. The King appealed to the Legislative Sovereign, viz., the King in Parliament, and thereby acknowledged the parliamentary authority by which he sits on the Throne.

Chapter of Accidents.

By the schr. Maria, Leander Pike, master, lying at Bowring's wharf to-day, and which arrived from Scilly Cove, we get particulars of some accidents which occurred at that place and Labrador recently.

SHARK DROWNS BOY.

She reports that the people of Smith Sound recently had word by schooner of a peculiar happening on the Labrador whereby a little lad named Vardy of the Sound lost his life. It appears that the child was in a boat near his father's vessel and was in the act of thrusting his hands down into the water when a large shark, which was underneath, suddenly rose under the boat and seizing the child by the hands tore him out of the boat and brought him under water, neither the voracious fish nor the boy reappearing. The men on the schooner's deck saw the horrid occurrence but had not time to lift a hand before the child was carried away. The father was disconsolate over the loss of the boy, and when his mother at home learned of it she was in a terrible way.

INJURED BY FALL.

The same vessel also reports that a man named Piercey, at Scilly Cove, was dangerously hurt a few days ago while putting fish in casks on board a lighter to be shipped by the Ethie. He was up on a flake or platform lowering away the casks when a mitten which he wore over one of his hands hitched into a nail in the package and he was thrown into the bottom of the lighter, falling a distance of 15 feet. He was rendered unconscious and for a time it was thought he was fatally injured. For two hours he remained in a state of coma until after great exertion Dr. Anderson revived him. No bones were broken but he was seriously hurt internally, and it will be weeks before he can be about again, if he ever fully recovers from the effects of the accident.

FOUND DEAD IN BOAT.

A man belonging to Scilly Cove, whose name our informants forgot, and who was subject to epilepsy, was found dead in his boat on the fishing ground at Labrador recently. He was in the boat alone and being seized with a fit fell across the gunwale. His head and part of the torso went out over the side of the boat and were immersed, so that while laying over the boat in this position he drowned. Men coming in off the grounds found the body in the position indicated and received a shock on making the discovery. The man was unmarried and his relatives were sorrow stricken over his sad death.

REMOVED DROWNING.

The people of Hant's Harbor received word by a craft from Labrador a few days ago to the effect that a man was current on the part of the Labrador from which the craft arrived that a resident of the place was drowned there recently. They could get no particulars and the report as yet has not been confirmed.

More Larcenies.

To-day a resident of the higher levels, who is a neer-do-well and well known to the police, was arrested by Const. Mercer for stealing a number of pipe stems, &c., from the jewelry store of Mr. Allan, Water Street. Mr. Allan was absent and he succeeded in getting in there. He will come before the court Monday.

A sailor to-day in an uptown boarding house succeeded in obtaining access to the room of another son of Neptune and made free with his belongings. He stole from him a pair of pants, a gold ring and several other articles. The matter was reported to Sergt. Savage who soon had the culprit in the toils and he is now behind prison bars.

POLICE COURT NEWS.

In the police court to-day two drunks were discharged.
A drunk and disorderly was fined $10 or 30 days, and a second charge of refusing to support his wife and children was not proceeded with for the present.

Albert Blackler, brakeman, with the Reid Nfld. Co., summoned a resident of Topsail for obstructing him in the discharge of his duty on board the train on Saturday last. Deft. pleaded guilty through his counsel - Kent, K.C. - and was fined $1 or 6 days. Complaints counsel, Mr. Higgins, stated that the Company did not wish to prosecute the man but to prevent a recurrence of this kind of conduct. Conductors and trainmen are pestered with individuals who bring liquor on the cars and create disturbance and serve out spirits often to other passengers. They intend to invoke the aid of the law in all such cases in future, and will at all hazards stop disorder on the trains. An assault case was withdrawn. A drunk was remanded for eight days.

Another Banker in Port

The banking schr. Cavalier, Capt. R. Hollett, arrived here Thursday night and is at Bowring's premises. She fished down off Quirpon for a week and found cod scarce. She however secured 100 qtls., and has to date 1,700 qtls. for 7 dories - a very good fare. She came here to be docked, cleaned and painted, after which she will continue the voyage on the Grand Banks. She was in company with the Linus A., which got no fish, and three western bankers fishing there were in the same predicament. The shore folk are doing nothing with the fish and squid is scarce.

How He Was Drowned

More particulars as to how the young man James Walsh, of Outer Cove, was drowned, as exclusively reported by the Telegram, came to hand to-day. He was one of the crew of the s.s. Mintauk, of Greenport, Long Island, and was engaged sealing 90 miles off Martha's Vineyard when the fatality occurred. He was washed overboard and drowned while out fishing. The big seine was shot out several times in an effort to recover his body but all attempts proved futile. Deceased was only 21 years of age and belonged to Outer Cove. He used to work on Bell Island every summer at the iron mines till this season. His friends were strongly opposed to his going to the pogie fishery last spring.

Lord Brassy's yacht Sunbeam was towed into port this morning by the tug Ingeborg after a run of 1 day and 21 hours from Canso.
