Unenviable Notoriety.

Since the Morris-Morison combination obtained power three and a half years ago, it has obtained notoriety in many directions. We have already commented on its failure to induce the British public to subscribe for the whole or even a substantial proportion of the last loan issued in spite of the liberal inducements offered. As to the liberality of the offer, the Investors' Review of July 13th last had the following:-

"Nominally the price asked was 93, but the actual cost to the buyer is substantially less, as a full six months interest will be paid on January 1st, although the final instalment of 53 per cent. is not due until November 15th."

As to the failure to induce the public to take up the whole or a substantial portion of it, the Outlook of July 20th calls the issue a complete failure. At home, the notoriety the Morris-Morison combination has earned is unenviable. The Morison episodes stink in the nostrils of the electorate. Morris's pandering to Morison's lapses has disgusted everybody, and the weakness displayed by the Governor has earned contempt for Sir Ralph Champey Williams.

The plucking properties of the party are the scorn of young and old. The givings out are scandals, and the extravaganzas and the piling up of debt have outraged public opinion as much as the lack of financial grasp of the Branch Railway projects has staggered the community.

The pledges to reduce taxation and make it easier to live is callously ignored, and the carnival of wild expenditure continues, the combination careers along under the delusions that givings out in the electoral districts will be a safe panacea to cure all wrong doings and to capture the electorate.

But the day of reckoning is drawing closer every month, when the electorate will bring those to book who promised to put forward the prime necessities of life, on the free list, and have completely ignored their sacred pledge. People will want to know why the promise to cheapen coal has not been carried out. Has Sir Edward forgotten? Does he not remember that nearly four years ago he stated in his Manifesto:-

"The serious situation created by the present price of coal is so far-reaching, touching as it does every freeman in the colony, as well as every industry, that it has become a national grievance."

"A means must be found for effecting a reduction in the price of coal, and, if elected, we shall take steps to bring about such a result."

Is the situation less serious to-day. Does it form less of a national grievance? Why then has he not kept his promise?

In all these directions the Morris-Morison combination has earned for itself a notoriety which is not only unenviable, but will bring about its death-blow at the next General Election.

Obituary.

MRS. BISHOP.

We chronicle with regret the sudden demise of Mrs. Ellinor Florence Bishop, wife of Mr. Ralph Bishop, of Bishop & Sons Ltd., which sad event occurred at 4 o'clock this morning at her residence on Leslie Street, after a very brief illness. Deceased was formerly a Miss Stentford, daughter of Mr. S. S. Stentford, of Heart's Content. She was only 27 years old and the blow is a hard one to the husband of the deceased. The circumstance is all the more sorrowful in view of the health of Mr. Bishop's sister, Miss Stella Bishop, who is now in England with her father, Hon. R. K. Bishop, being greatly impaired.

The deceased lady was well known in the community and leaves a large circle of friends to mourn. The Telegram extends its deepest sympathy to the bereaved husband and two children who are left to survive.

An Open Letter to the Hon. Donald Morison.

Dear Sir,-I recently returned to this city after being absent from the Colony for about five months, and on looking over the daily papers, I saw that you wrote a letter to Sir E. P. Morris on April 20th past, in which you made certain reflections on me. In that letter I find the following statements:-

"His Excellency is correct in assuming that neither the Company nor the Government knew, when the applications were made and dealt with, that a very large proportion of the land applied for was absolutely worthless. The Company relied upon representations made by Mr. Strong, which have turned out to be wholly false."

"When the Company made their applications they relied upon Mr. Strong's representations, and expected, out of the large area applied for, to be able to select one or more eligible sites for pulp mills. Since they have completed the survey of a large portion of the area and will have to reject at least four fifths of the total quantity applied for because of being barren and worthless."

Now, Mr. Morison, I will ask you to answer a few questions, which I expect you to answer in a short time, and please don't forget:-

(1) Who made a written report on the Labrador timber lands applied for by the Anglo-American Development Company, and made it before the Company was incorporated?

(2) Who made subsequent written reports on the prospective yield in pulpwood and timber of all the areas now owned by the Anglo-American Development Company?

(3) Who signed these reports?

(4) What Government official was invited to certify the correctness of these reports?

(5) What Government official did certify the correctness of these reports?

(6) Were those reports certified in the presence of a Notary Public?

(7) Did that Notary attach his seals to the certificates?

(8) Who was that Notary?

Yours truly,
R. W. STRONG.

August 23rd, 1912.

Captain Hackett Starts on Another Expedition in Search of the Famous Cocos Islands Millions.

Lured on by the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, one more expedition has set forth from Victoria for Cocos Island bearing the "only original" map of the burial place of millions of money, jewels and other treasures.

These fortune seekers are on board the barque Hesper, from Aberdeen Wash, Captain Frederick Hackett, a brother of ex-Mayor Hackett, of this town, which cleared last week, ostensibly to carry lumber to Chill. But concealed in one hold is a dredge and in others are picks and shovels, by which the captain and crew will dig the foundations for their castles in Spain.

Two other expeditions are now on their way to the Island, one headed by Miss Genevieve Davis, an English woman, and the other by Mile. Mathilde Durand, of France. They also have "only original" maps.

Ten Year Old Boy Had Deadly Aim.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 15.-Fighting for his father, Henry De Waters, ten-year-old Rudolph De Waters, killed two people and injured a third in La Fayette Annex Park, a noted fashionable residential suburb last night. The dead are Nicholas Bamilieri and Maria Bamilieri, his wife. Mike and Charles Bamilieri, brothers of Nicholas, are in hospital.

De Waters and Bamilieri renewed a quarrel last night and Henry De Waters was shot in the arm. The Bamilieris it is claimed, charged on De Waters at the latter's home.

The boy who had hid behind the front door of his home opened fire on the Bamilieris when they reached his front porch. He fired three shots and all three found their mark.

Nichola and Marina Bamilieri fell dead with bullets in their head. Chas. and Mike Bamilieri were shot in the hip. One of the two wounded men was struck by a shot from the elder De Waters' gun according to the police.

Russian Prince and Wife Wounded.

Warsaw, Poland, Aug. 20.-General Prince Nicholas Tumanoff, the commander of a brigade, in the garrison here, was wounded in the chest to-day, while one of the legs of his wife, Princess Tumanoff, was shattered, by Private Powanski, of the Russian Army, who entered the general's flat and fired a number of shots from his carbine. Several orderly officers who were in the room at the time, were also wounded, but they drew their revolvers and killed Powanski as he was about to leave. The motive for the crime was vengeance for punishment that had been inflicted on Powanski by his superior officer.

Housekeeping.

BY H. L. RANN.

Housekeeping is something which is handed on to the June bride in exchange for the privilege of getting married under a large red wedding bow in the front parlor. It consists of physical culture exercises which if followed properly will develop every muscle in the human body. Some women become so muscular as the result of close contact with "single-handed housekeeping" that their husbands never contradict them except over the long-distance phone.

A woman is said to be a good housekeeper when her husband can bring home two furnished friends without warning and find his wife at the helm of a six-course dinner wreathed in smiles and a pink lip tea crown. Some women object to this habit and try to get even by serving a passe cereal garnished with two fried eggs.

Man is a queer bird. He will work from 9 to 4 and then play golf, but if his wife gets through with the ironing before 10 p.m. he will suggest that it would be a good thing to sit broad and frame up a batch of caraway cookies before retiring.

As a rule, housekeeping begins at 5.30 a.m. and continues without interruption until the roll is called at yonder. This is causing a great many women to wish to live out their existence to forsake the continuous performance and congest the boarding houses and hotels.

Every man likes to come home after taking in the ball game and find peacefully in a Morris chair and a pair of dog-skin slippers, while his wife wrestles with a soup bone and toys nervously with the vacuum cleaner.

When a woman keeps her house so that her neighbours won't think that she have strayed into the henery, she is referred to in terms of deep emotion.
