St. Bride's Notes.

An edirying sight was, witnessed here on St. Patrick's Day when the Statue of Ireland's Patron Saint was carried through the streets, followed by the priest and alter boys in surplices, the choir singing appropriate bymns, and the populace walking in threes, emblamatic of the Shamrock. The scene was one that will long be remembered.

At night our amateur troupe gave us a very enjoyable concert. The programme was interesting and consisted of dialogues and songs. The following ladies and gentlemen took part: Misses M. Lundrigan, J. Do-bey, M. McGrath; Messrs. P. Mahon-ey, J. P. Conway, M. Doyle, W. Lang and M. Foley. Each one performed in a very creditable manner. The proceeds amounted to quite a hand-some sum, and were given to the

The painting of the interior of the Church of the Sacred Heart is com-pleted, and the picture which pre-sents to view is such that when once seen is not easily forgotten. To describe its beauties is beyond my poor humble pen. For beauty of design and uniformity of coloring and empellishments it is second to none in Newfoundland, and it would be very lard to find anything to equal it on this side the Atlantic. To Mr. Duffy, painter, of St. John's, too much praise or credit cannot be given. To our good Pastor, Rev. Father O'Callaghan, we offer our heartfelt thanks, because it was his zeal, energy and devotedness that made the accomplishment of such a work possible. Since the rev. gentleman's advent amongst us, he has worked wonders both spiritually and temporarily, and before another year is out we expect to have a set of ecclesiastical build-ings second to none in the island.

That the Rev. Father O'Callaghan will be spared many, many years to carry of the good work, is the earnest with of his devoted parishioners.

To Mr. and Mrs. Ryall, of St. John's. we also tender our sincere thanks for their magnificent gifts to this church of a beautiful Statue of St. Joseph set of Stations of the Cross, and for splendid lamps. The generosity of those good people we appreciate very much, and once more we heartily and sincerely thank them. To Rev. Mother Perpetua of St. Bride's Acad emy, Littledale, we are also deeply grateful for her interest and solicitude towards this parish OBSERVER.

Ladies' Handkerchieis The Five Missionary

Five children came one to the misdionary box, and they all brought a enny. Now, pennies are certainly all like each other, and yet they may have a very different value. The first child threw a penny carelessly into the box.

or, and then went away. But an angel who stood behind the missionary box said, "That is a thoughtless tin enny; it is not worth much in the scales of God." The second child came, examined his penny, and looked around to see if anyone was watching.

When he saw two eyes directed upon nim he threw the penny into the box. But the angel said, "This is a copper penny; it shines like gold, but it is given from vanity; it is worth nothing in God's scales." The third came and threw his penny in without love or heart, and sighed, "I must certainly give it." And the angel said, "This is an iron penny; it certainly weighs something, but it is not of much value." The fourth came and laid his penny down and said, "The poor people, without Jesus, ah! I pity them."

'That is a silver penny," said the angel; "that it, indeed, worth something."

Now came the fifth child, put his penny in and said, "Oh, my dear Saviour, Thou are mine and will be mine, and all that I can or have shall belong to Thee." And the angel said, "That is

THE IMPORTANCE OF WELL KEPT

HANDS.

A well kept hand is a great asset to sider the hand more indicative of girl or woman, for many people haracter than the face. A reason able amount of self-respet and pride in one's personal appearance should prompt one to give the hands scru-pulous care, that they may always lock well kept. But in giving this care, do not imagine that it is neces cd, almost claw-like in shape, nor is it in good taste to have them fairly glistening with polish. A soft white hand, with nails long and tapering tence of its possessor; in fact, it usually shows a tendency towards idleness and a squandering of much good orn, smooth and firm; the nails are from dirt, cut round and fairly se, and the quicks pushed back.

he nail is designed to act as a re-forcement to the finger and to proteet the top, and it but diminishes the usefulness of the finger when the nail is too long.

With a stiff nail-brush, the hands and nails should be scrubbed at least once a day. It is best to use lukewarm water in cleansing them during the entire year, and they should be well dried to keep them from chapping. In wiping the hands, the motion should be towards the finger tips. If the hands have a tendency to chap or to redness keep ready a tips. If the hands have a tendency to chap or to redness, keep ready a solution composed of equal parts of rose water and glycerine and immediately after washing them, before they are quite dry, rub in a few drops. Glycerine does not agree with every skin. For those with which it does not, a honey solution, mutton tallow or a good skin food cream may be used, rubbing it over the hands while they are still damp. Any excess fat remaining on the skin surface may be wiped off with a towel. After drying the hands, gently push back the cuticle of each nail with the towel. Sometimes skin irritation and chapped hands are caused by the soap used, for the same soap does not agree with all skins.—Voman's World for March.

by them and by the public in this country on their behalf. The campaign in France has been no parade for the Indian soldiers. More than once they have held their section of the line for long periods against very heavy cdds, and they have borne the
