INSPECTION IS NECESSARY IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Will Serve in Detecting Physical Defects and Various Diseases.

Great Educational Waste Is Caused by Decrease in Students' Vitality.

[Canadian Press.]

Buffalo, Aug. 30.—Dr. Ira S. Wile, member of the New York City Board of Education, today read his second paper before the fourth International Congress on School Hygiene. His subject was medical inspection of schools as a community investment, and he spoke in part as follows: 'Originally medical inspection was instituted to detect contagious diseases in order to eliminate their spread by school children Later the belie erose that retardation and deficiencie in studies were due to physical de fects, particularly those of the sense This caused an expansion of medical inspection to medical exam-medical inspection virtually includes the discovery of contagious diseases and the determination of physical defects which interfere with ability to perform school work or the detection of physical abnormalities which if neglected will affect the fuciency of the children. A Double Function.

"Medical inspection extends in two directions: 1. The inspection of the environment, that is the site, the school buildings, and the various factors of health therein contained: 2, the childwith all its defects and diseases. The medical inspector should consider problems of hygiene, such as light, ventilation, heating, toilet facilities, etc., but primarily he must solve educational questions, such as the establishment of time schedules, the arrangement of recesses, the grouping and specialization of classes. Broadly speaking, the work of medical inspec tion covers two general fields of en deavor; the preventive and the remedial. With the existent physical defects, correction is the aim of the medical inspector. The more valuable field of effort is in the realm of prophylaxis. It is within his power to obviate further defects, deformities and diseases during the period of school life so that deterioration may be prevented during the years of compulsory education. This forms the maximum hygienic benefit which most prevalent some lighting from the makes medical inspection a valuable right would seem rather an advantage investment for the community.

Valuable Data. "If medical inspection can establish the number of children suffering from writing paper unless the windows malnutrition and then secure the cooperation necessary to restore the sufterers to a condition of normal vitalty, the educational benefits will be enormous. The economic and educational value of nutrition may be partially understood from the fact that children with defective teeth take eight and a half years to go through eight grades of school, while children With enlarged glands require 9.2 years writing. to go through the same grades. It is hardly necessary to comment upon the rate of illness as it occurs among children in the primary schools.

large factor in the retardation of children in the elementary schools is the absence due to ill health, and a large part of this ill health is due to malnutrition of the child. A starved mind requires physical as well as mental pabulum. Educational Waste.

UNIVERSAL PEACE WAS DREAM OF SIR W. CREMER

Andrew Carnegie Unveils Fine TWO PUBLIC SCHOOLS Memorial Bust at the Hague.

The Hague, Aug. 29 .- The ceremony of the unveiling today by Andrew Carnegie of a bust of the late Sir Wiliam Randall Cremer in the Hall Justice in the new peace palace was the occasion for a great demonstration in favor of the peace movement,

William Randall Cremer was the originator of the inter-parliamentary conferences, a winner of the Nobel peace prize, and for 37 years secretary of the International Arbitration League

War's Horrors. The hall was crowded for the ceremony. Among those in attendance were members of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, the International Arbitration League and the Inter-Parliamentary Union.
