

The ADVERTISER'S PICTORIAL PAGE

Some of the Indians present at the dedication of the David Thompson memorial by Lake Windermere in the Canadian Rockies.

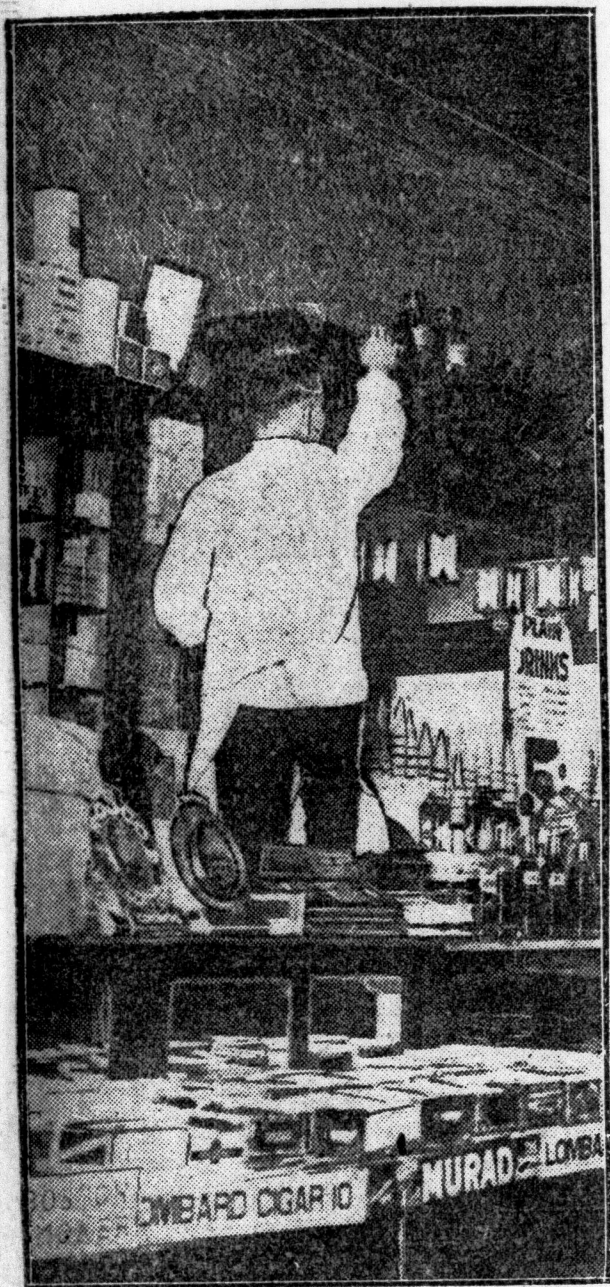

John I. Nolan, a Labor-Progressive congressman from California, is dead. His wife, shown here with their little girl, will contest the seat made vacant by his death.

Wal Hannington, leader of the unemployed army that is now active in London, England.

It was his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frank Couzens (nee Margaret Lang of Kitchener, Ontario), who read to James Couzens, mayor of Detroit, the telegram announcing his appointment to the United States Senate.

Arthur Panagiotopoulos, a candy shop proprietor of Jamaica Plain, near Boston, hid his savings, said to be $5,000, on top of the wall case, thinking they would be safe there. Now his money has been stolen. He is here showing the police where he had put it.

This black satin afternoon dress has wide insertions of handwork on the front of the wide girdle and on the ends of the wide flowing sleeves.

There is more toy-making in England now than there used to be. Photo shows two men busy on toy engines for Christmas.

Lady Cynthia Mosley trying her hand at hoop-la at a London, England, bazaar.

Dr. W. W. Campbell (centre), director of the Lick Observatory at Mount Hamilton, California, with Mrs. Campbell and Dr. J. H. Moore, who went to Australia during the recent eclipse to make tests of the Einstein theory. Prof. Chant of Toronto and a Canadian party were also in Australia on a similar mission.

Lieut.-Col. E. J. Brown of the Salvation Army in New York, who has retired after 40 years' service and is sailing for England to visit relatives there.

A human bridge over a fence. Snow Shoeing in Montreal.

J. W. Bailey, winner of the English inter-schools boxing tournament for boys weighing 70 pounds or less.

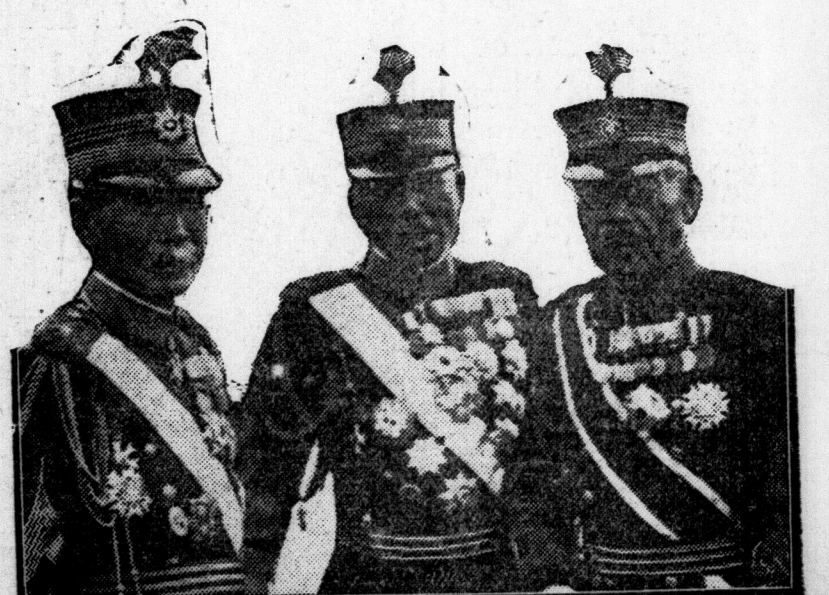

Lieut. Takahasi piloted Japan's first mail aeroplane from Tokyo to Osaka, 300 miles. Insert shows his plane in flight.

Dr. Everett Field, director of the radium institute in New York, and Miss Anna Casey, head nurse, working with radium. Field says that radium will increase the span of life.

New Scottish labor members arriving for opening of parliament.

Generals Yamanashi, Tanaka and Uyebara at the recent army manoeuvres in Tokio.