

FORMER WAR MINISTER ASSASSINATED

General Sakharoff Shot by Woman of Revolutionary Faction at Saratoff--The News Has Created a Profound Impression at St. Petersburg and Spectre of Military Dictatorship Looms Large on National Horizon.

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—The Tegeblatt's St. Petersburg correspondent in a despatch dated December 6 says: "The situation is visibly growing worse. The critical moment for Count Witte is coming when the liberal elements will demand his resignation. A resolution by the agriculturalists of Moscow demanding the immediate dismissal of the present cabinet denotes the beginning of the movement away from Count Witte, and signs indicate that this movement will gain intensity soon."

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, in a despatch dated December 6, sent by way of Eydikuhnen, East Prussia, says: "Lieut.-Gen. Sakharoff, formerly minister of war, was assassinated today. The government had deputed Gen. Sakharoff to visit the province of Saratoff for the purpose of quelling the agrarian riots there. A woman belonging to the so-called 'agrarian columns' of the revolutionary movement called at the house of the governor-general of Saratoff at noon today and asked to see Gen. Sakharoff. "She fired three revolver shots at the general, killing him instantly. "The tidings reached St. Petersburg tonight. Count Witte charged Lieut-

FURTHER REPORT ON GREAT CAVES

W. S. Ayres, M. E. Gives Results of Explorations in Excavations at Ross Peak.

Following is a portion of the report of the latest explorations by W. S. Ayres, M. E., on the mammoth caves of Ross Peak: On the 26th, 27th and 28th we explored "Gopher Bridge" and the main cave, entering the latter through "The Canyon" and "Entrance No. 2." This exploration consisted of a complete survey of all passages, not heretofore reported by me as surveys and of flashlight photographs of some of the attractive features of the interior. On the 27th we broke camp and returned to the Glacier house on foot.

A very easy trail for riding or walking can be made from the Glacier house to the cave by way of The Loop and Hoop. The water runs down the length of this trail would be about one and one-half miles. It would have not only an easy grade but a location that brings to view in a new light some of the grand scenery of this famous part of the Selkirk. This feature of itself would make it a very popular trail even though there were no caves at the other end of it. The trail should be constructed in a winding course above the cave. It would then connect with an old trail used during the construction of the Canadian Pacific railway, which passes through a very heavily timbered forest lying in the ravine to the right of Cougar mountain. At a point about one-quarter of a mile before reaching the end of the trail should be left and a new trail made up the ravine of Cougar creek to the cave on well selected ground, consistent with any grades.

On arriving at the cave the magnificent assemblage of balsam firs with their spruce-like forms, shown in photograph No. 21, welcome the visitor at steady hostesses. In the winter they deck themselves with the most dainty snow-drapery.

When the visitor turns homeward from the cave the view shown in photograph No. 22 greets him. Ross Peak is in clear view at the right and the Great Glacier at the left. With Cougar Creek ravine in the center, down which the trail leads him with an ever changing panorama of the most beautiful of the Selkirk's continually before him.

THE EXPLORATION
The "Gopher Bridge" was first explored. An entrance was effected by Mr. Deutschman during the summer, first, by crawling through a very narrow passage in the old bed of Cougar creek, marked on the map herewith, submitted as "Old Channel," and secondly, by blasting away some fallen rock at a point noted on the map as "Gopher Bridge Entrance." We entered by the latter opening. This is a very unique cave by itself. The characteristic water-carved walls of white and grey marble, such as are found in "Entrance No. 1," and described in my report of June 8, 1905, are everywhere to be seen. An additional feature, however, is here to be found. In many places the change of the limestone into marble is not complete. The parts of the rocks not fully changed stand out as nodules, while the marble between them has dissolved and eroded to an unusual degree, thus giving the walls a strange pinnaculate appearance.

Just because your disease is deep seated, the best of treatment is required. Only powerful remedies can reach your sore muscles and joints. Ever hear of Nervine? It has been found to be a remedy for nearly fifty years—thousands have been restored by it. Even the King's physician sent him treatment with more power over pain than Nervine. You only have to take the Nervine to be cured. Get it today.
