

The Ontario Legislature Declares in its Favor—An Interesting Debate.

After routine yesterday the assembly took up the question of co-education in University college on a motion of Mr. Gibson, of Hamilton, who supported it by a speech of marked ability. He informed the house that the ladies who desire admission to the college are undergraduates of the provincial university who cannot obtain anywhere, but in university college, the tuition necessary to enable them to complete their course. He mentioned his fellow members that co-education is not a novelty in Ontario, as it is in constant practice in high schools and colleges. The provincial institution being almost the only one that refuses to admit women. The faculty of the college, he showed, are divided in their views, and he quoted Prof. Young's published opinion to show the extent to which they are so. The only safe testimony on the subject is that of experience and that Mr. Gibson produced in profuse abundance and variety. He cited the example of University college, London, of Cornell, of Michigan university, of Boston university, and many others outside of Ontario, and of Queen's, Albert and Victoria colleges within it, and quoted the evidence of teachers in the institutions to show that co-education had been invariably a success, so much so that it had never been abandoned in any college in which it had been tried.

After Mr. McLeod had stated briefly his opinion in favor of the resolution, Mr. Harcourt, in a well-reasoned speech, ably supported Mr. Gibson's argument. He protested against women being employed more extensively than men to do the laborious work of public school teaching without receiving from the higher positions in the private schools which could not do without being permitted to obtain a collegiate education. He showed that co-education is the rule in our system of education, and that there is no good reason for making the Provincial college an exception.

Mr. Broder favored co-education, but it was liable to make the education of the two sexes run on the same line, whereas there ought to be considerable difference between them.

Mr. Ross, minister of education, summed up the arguments for and against the resolution, and found them strongly in favor of co-education under the present circumstances. He thought Prof. Wilson had not caught the ear of public opinion when he said co-education would militate against due order and discipline, and he was convinced when the professor learned the sentiment of the country he would not let his own views stand in the way. On all grounds he was in favor of letting women have the benefit of all the educational facilities the province could afford.

Mr. Fraser believed in higher education of women, but not co-education in university.

Several other members made short speeches and the motion carried on division.

On the second reading of the bill to enfranchise unmarried women and widows in municipal elections, a discussion of lively nature sprang up and occupied the house for an hour or two. The bill was finally carried on a vote of 42 to 26. The ministers, Mr. Pardee and Fraser voted against the bill, and the others, with the exception of Mr. Harby, who was out, voted for it. The house adjourned at midnight.

Judges to Differ.

Chancellor Boyd and Judge Cameron delivered judgment yesterday at Osgoode hall in the East Simcoe provincial election case. The learned judges disagreed, and the result therefore is that Mr. Drury, the reform M.P., retains his seat, and his petition is dismissed with costs. The chancellor held that corrupt acts were proven, but they were not sufficient to affect the result of the election. Judge Cameron, on the other hand, held that he should be unseated, on the ground that the nomination was held in too late a manner, and also on the ground of corrupt practices. Judgment was also delivered in the East Middlesex election case, where again the learned judges disagreed, so that Dr. Mackenzie, the reform member, retains his seat. The chancellor held that only one corrupt act was proven, although it was not sufficient to affect the result, and he should be unseated. The court of appeal will now probably have to determine both cases.

George Mills Wasn't Drunk.

At 7:40 o'clock on the evening of Nov. 3 last, George Mills, a coal carrier, was arrested in Parliament street by Policeman McLellan, on a charge of drunkenness and locked up. Next morning Magistrate Cameron fined George $100 for the alleged offence. Mills strongly maintained that he was not drunk, and appealed against the magistrate's fine. The appeal was heard at the December criminal court and lasted a whole day. The jury failed to agree. The appeal came up again in Judge Boyd's court yesterday before a jury. It lasted nearly the whole day. The defense was that Mills had only drunk three "ponies" of beer from the time he quit work, at 4:30, until his arrest at 7:40. The judge believed the version of Mills' justification and decided that he could not get drunk on that amount of beer. The appeal was accordingly sustained.

Policer Court Pointers.

After the petty offenders had been disposed of yesterday Phillip Sullivan, suspected of stealing a gold watch from Mr. Stewart, was remanded for a week. Eliza Wallace was committed as a lunatic. Jane Clark, assaulting Mary Hodge, remanded till today. Jno. Jacobs, W. Lawdon and Geo. Tolson, accused of stealing silk handkerchiefs from J. W. Gale & Co., were remanded for trial; the former, Jacobs, pleaded guilty to stealing three silver watches from A. L. Stewart, 648 Queen street west and was remanded for sentence. Matt. Carpenter, housebreaking, discharged. Wm. Hirtz, suspected of being insane, remanded. John Perry and Dennis O'Brien, larceny, ten days in jail. Edward Flynn, 99 King street west, charged with keeping an unlicensed billiard table, was remanded till Friday.

Straw Ball Always Goes.

Mr. Feont yesterday afternoon gave Judge Boyd the benefit of his knowledge on the straw ball business. A man named Mulachy was committed for trial at Riverside for assault. John Taylor, who is said to be a producer dealer, went his bail. When Mulachy's name was called yesterday in court he was remanded for the next day. Mr. Feont was cleared out. Mr. Feont wanted to have the ball bonds extracted. Taylor put in the plea that he was a poor man, and won the sympathy of the court. Mr. Feont said this was an old dodge. He thought he should be sent to jail, as the offence was becoming, altogether too common. Judge Boyd believed the story of the man's poverty, and told him to go. There were those in court who said Taylor was well off.

Functuary Police Stations.

Inspector Stuart of police headquarters is confined to his house with illness, presumably contracted in the Court street station. This is one of the worst barns in the city, and is a net-work of drafts and cold winds. The city property committee have had "under their serious consideration" the renovation of this station for some months, but have done absolutely nothing. It was found too unhealthily for prisoners, but a detachment of the force connected therewith are compelled to inhabit it. The St. Andrew's market police station is also in a bad state, and the men are continually complaining.

Mrs. T. R. Ferguson recently, on the eve of her departure to reside in the city of Toronto, was entertained at the manse, Clover Hill, by her friends of South Simcoe, and presented with an address and pieces of silver at a cost of $100. David Dunn, warden of the county of Simcoe, occupied the chair. Rev. Wm. McKee, B.A., read the address, and her son-in-law, Rev. Stewart Acheson, M.A., responded. One of the pieces of silver bore the inscription, "A pledge of affection from South Simcoe to the faithful comrade of our late member, Lieut. Col. T. R. Ferguson."

A meeting of this society was held at Toronto university on Tuesday evening. Prof. Young and W. J. London, B.A., were elected honorary members of the society. Owing to illness, Prof. Young was unable to read his paper on "Imaginary Quaternities." Mr. Height read a paper on problems. The examples were well chosen, and the solutions clear and concise. W. J. London, B.A., delivered an interesting lecture on the "Radiometer," giving a number of physical experiments in illustration. J. W. Reid, B.A., gave a neat solution of a mathematical problem.

Blackstock and John Leys. In the private bills committee the bill validating the union of the Methodist church of Canada was passed without amendment.

Wood of Cobourg, have been engaged since Tuesday in examining the students at the school. This is the close of the college year. There are thirteen in the primary class and eleven in the final. The results will be made known to-morrow.

Held Up for His Watch.

Edward Lucas, a glove cutter of 151 Front street east, was walking past St. James' cathedral at ten minutes before 12 last night. He was under the influence of liquor. A man walked quickly up to him, and with a dexterous movement snatched Lucas' silver watch from his pocket. The thief then bolted up Church street. Police- man Davis then came up and took Lucas to No. 1 station on a charge of drunkenness.

Tennant, E.J. Clark, of the firm of E. Clark & Co., S. J. S. Mutton and J. B. Essery. The directors, at a subsequent meeting, elected Jas. Tennant president and E. J. Clark vice-president.

Tree Bills by the Grand Jury.

The grand jury came into the court of sessions yesterday afternoon with true bills against John Cobb, feloniously wounded; John Bell, larceny; John and Thomas Bay, robbery; and Levi Raynards and Schinberger, receiving stolen furs. Judge Boyd then informed the grand jury which they could visit the public charities and corrections if they saw fit, which they proceeded to do.
