

RADNOR

EMPEROR OF WATERS.
Wholesale Agent, 177 Broad Street, Toronto.

SIXTEENTH YEAR

THEY'RE RECONCILED.

Such Were the Indications Last Night.

GIVEN AN ASSURED GUARANTEE

Of Remedial Legislation Next Session.

In the Senate and in the Commons the Opposition is Promised Definite Statements When the Two Houses Re-Assemble

As to the Crisis Was About Over for the Present and the Realignments of Messrs. Caron, Oulmet and Angers Will Be Withdrawn.

Ottawa, July 10.—In the Senate this afternoon, at the opening of the sitting, Senator Scott said: "Before the orders of the day are called I should like to ask the Premier if he is able now to relieve the tension of opinion on an important question, the rumors outside, which are somewhat confirmed by an empty chair. I think Parliament is entitled to some explanation under the circumstances. It is the usual practice in a British Parliament and our Parliament, when a crisis arises, that both Houses are taken into the confidence of the Government."

Sir Mackenzie Bowell: The hon. gentleman is quite correct as to the parliamentary and constitutional practice on questions of this kind. I am not, I am sorry to say, in a position to relieve the tension of the hon. gentleman's mind at the present moment, but I promise him that there is no doubt I shall be enabled to relieve him of all anxiety as to the matter to-morrow, at 3 o'clock.

In the Commons, Mr. Laurier said: "I would ask the Minister of Finance whether he can give any information to the House to-day with regard to the resignations of the prominent members of the Administration?"

The Minister of Finance: Mr. Speaker, I think I will have to ask my friend to cultivate the virtue of patience for a little while longer. To-morrow, when the House assembles, I will make a positive statement in reference to the matter.

Mr. Laurier: My hon. friend has asked me so often to cultivate that virtue that I think I have it to perfection now. (Laughter.) As an evidence of this I will wait until to-morrow. (Laughter.)

The foregoing statements summarize all that is official to-day in reference to the political situation. They are the outcome of a series of conferences which have been in progress since yesterday, the most noteworthy of which was one this morning between the Premier and the three dissenting Ministers. Messrs. Oulmet, Caron and Angers have, it is said, so far receded from the position which they took yesterday, when they asked that a Remedial Bill be passed this session, that they will be satisfied to accept the mere introduction of Remedial Legislation as an evidence of the bona fide of their colleagues. This was the offer, request or ultimatum which they made to Sir Mackenzie Bowell this morning. The Premier informed them that he would give an answer to-morrow, whereupon, so it is reported, the Ministers consented to wait.

The nature of the conference which had taken place in the morning was carried to the French-Canadian caucus, which met between 12 and 1 o'clock in Mr. Jones' room in the Parliament buildings, and at which about 25 Quebec Conservatives were present. When the meeting broke up Mr. Jones announced that he had decided to do nothing until to-morrow, thereby showing that they were acting in concert with the three French Ministers.

Had Mr. Laurier moved a motion of want of confidence there would have been a solid Conservative phalanx against them. The Opposition leader, after his fiasco yesterday, did not dare risk another adverse vote.

The opening of the House. The report current during the morning that Messrs. Oulmet and Caron would make an official statement of their position to the House at 3 o'clock to-day had again the effect of crowding the galleries with eager spectators, but they were doomed to disappointment. The seats of the two Ministers in the Commons were vacant, but it seems to be certain that they will be in their places to-morrow, whether they are reconciled to their colleagues or not. Mr. Oulmet was within the precincts transacting business with his deputy, but on leaving the building he never looked the way of the chamber.

The Government's Position. The question which is now on every one's lips is as to what position the Government will take. Can they, in the face of the specific declaration of Monday, recede or are they bent on the English-speaking Conservatives, and is that the Government cannot deviate a iota from the statement of two days ago.

The slightest variation would be hailed as a victory for the Quebec Ministers, while the other provinces would regard it as a sign of weakness on the part of the Government. It is therefore tonight seem to be indications of a reconciliation, due possibly to the negotiations which have been in progress all evening.

Some idea of the supplementary statement which the Premier and Mr. Foster will make to-morrow has not been conveyed to the Quebec Ministers, and it is said to be satisfactory to them. It is reported to be in the nature of an assured guarantee that Remedial Legislation will be introduced next session. This is quite a change from the position of affairs in the morning, when a very uncompromising attitude existed. In the course of an interview, Mr. Oulmet is reported to have said: "Unless the Government before 3 o'clock this afternoon brings in a written pledge, signed by every member of the Government, to introduce Remedial Legislation, I will take my seat as an independent member and move a want of confidence motion. My colleagues and I, too, must stand by the most emphatic character. I demand a complete system of 'thorough Separate Schools.' I hinge every thing upon section 93 of the B.N.A. Act, as follows: 'In and for each province the Legislature may exclusively make laws in relation to education, subject and according to the following provisions: (1) Nothing in any such law shall prejudicially affect any right or privilege with respect to denominational schools which any class of persons have in the province or in the union. (2) All the powers, privileges and immunities of the union by law conferred and imposed in Upper Canada on the Separate Schools and school trustees of the Queen's Roman Catholic subjects shall and the same are hereby extended to the dissenting schools of the Queen's Protestant and Roman Catholic subjects in Quebec. (3) Where in any province a system of separate or dissenting schools exists by law at the union, or is thereafter established by the Legislature of the province, an appeal shall lie to the Governor-General-in-Council from any act or division of any provincial authority affecting the right or privilege of the Protestant and Roman Catholic minority of the Queen's subjects in relation to education. (4) In case any such provincial law from time to time seems to the Governor-General-in-Council requisite for the due execution of the provisions of this section, is not duly executed by the proper authority in that behalf then, and in every such case, as far only as the circumstances of each case require, the Parliament of Canada may make Remedial Laws for the due execution of the provisions of this section, and any decision of the Governor-General-in-Council, under this section.'"

Mr. Oulmet authorized the statement that he and his two French colleagues had resigned.

Mr. Hector Langevin. Early in the day a report was current that Sir Hector Langevin had sent a friend to the Premier, intimating his willingness to take office in the event of the breach with the three dissenting Ministers. The only stipulation that the ex-Minister of Public Works would make was that Remedial Legislation would be introduced as a Government measure. But he was willing to concede that Government supporters should be at liberty to go as they pleased on the bill. Sir Hector later in the day denied that there was any truth in the report.

Although it is known that he is keen to get into the cabinet once more, Mr. Oulmet has, however, stated that he would find a difficulty in carrying a constituency in the Province of Quebec if he sought re-election. There seems to be little doubt that the Government can be reconstructed if Mr. Oulmet and his colleagues finally decide to return.

Bankers at Saratoga. Saratoga, July 10.—The State Bankers' Association met here to-day. The addresses was one by E. E. Walker, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association.

Will Not Recede. One of the English Ministers said tonight that, rather than recede from the stand taken on Monday, the Government would insist on its position and to immediately dissolve Parliament.

So far as the business of the House is concerned, little remains to be done. The report that the Premier would introduce a bill to amend the B.N.A. Act, which would have the effect of introducing Remedial Legislation as an evidence of the bona fide of their colleagues. This was the offer, request or ultimatum which they made to Sir Mackenzie Bowell this morning. The Premier informed them that he would give an answer to-morrow, whereupon, so it is reported, the Ministers consented to wait.

The nature of the conference which had taken place in the morning was carried to the French-Canadian caucus, which met between 12 and 1 o'clock in Mr. Jones' room in the Parliament buildings, and at which about 25 Quebec Conservatives were present. When the meeting broke up Mr. Jones announced that he had decided to do nothing until to-morrow, thereby showing that they were acting in concert with the three French Ministers.

Had Mr. Laurier moved a motion of want of confidence there would have been a solid Conservative phalanx against them. The Opposition leader, after his fiasco yesterday, did not dare risk another adverse vote.

The opening of the House. The report current during the morning that Messrs. Oulmet and Caron would make an official statement of their position to the House at 3 o'clock to-day had again the effect of crowding the galleries with eager spectators, but they were doomed to disappointment. The seats of the two Ministers in the Commons were vacant, but it seems to be certain that they will be in their places to-morrow, whether they are reconciled to their colleagues or not. Mr. Oulmet was within the precincts transacting business with his deputy, but on leaving the building he never looked the way of the chamber.

The Government's Position. The question which is now on every one's lips is as to what position the Government will take. Can they, in the face of the specific declaration of Monday, recede or are they bent on the English-speaking Conservatives, and is that the Government cannot deviate a iota from the statement of two days ago.

The slightest variation would be hailed as a victory for the Quebec Ministers, while the other provinces would regard it as a sign of weakness on the part of the Government. It is therefore tonight seem to be indications of a reconciliation, due possibly to the negotiations which have been in progress all evening.

Some idea of the supplementary statement which the Premier and Mr. Foster will make to-morrow has not been conveyed to the Quebec Ministers, and it is said to be satisfactory to them. It is reported to be in the nature of an assured guarantee that Remedial Legislation will be introduced next session. This is quite a change from the position of affairs in the morning, when a very uncompromising attitude existed. In the course of an interview, Mr. Oulmet is reported to have said: "Unless the Government before 3 o'clock this afternoon brings in a written pledge, signed by every member of the Government, to introduce Remedial Legislation, I will take my seat as an independent member and move a want of confidence motion. My colleagues and I, too, must stand by the most emphatic character. I demand a complete system of 'thorough Separate Schools.' I hinge every thing upon section 93 of the B.N.A. Act, as follows: 'In and for each province the Legislature may exclusively make laws in relation to education, subject and according to the following provisions: (1) Nothing in any such law shall prejudicially affect any right or privilege with respect to denominational schools which any class of persons have in the province or in the union. (2) All the powers, privileges and immunities of the union by law conferred and imposed in Upper Canada on the Separate Schools and school trustees of the Queen's Roman Catholic subjects shall and the same are hereby extended to the dissenting schools of the Queen's Protestant and Roman Catholic subjects in Quebec. (3) Where in any province a system of separate or dissenting schools exists by law at the union, or is thereafter established by the Legislature of the province, an appeal shall lie to the Governor-General-in-Council from any act or division of any provincial authority affecting the right or privilege of the Protestant and Roman Catholic minority of the Queen's subjects in relation to education. (4) In case any such provincial law from time to time seems to the Governor-General-in-Council requisite for the due execution of the provisions of this section, is not duly executed by the proper authority in that behalf then, and in every such case, as far only as the circumstances of each case require, the Parliament of Canada may make Remedial Laws for the due execution of the provisions of this section, and any decision of the Governor-General-in-Council, under this section.'"

Mr. Oulmet authorized the statement that he and his two French colleagues had resigned.

Mr. Hector Langevin. Early in the day a report was current that Sir Hector Langevin had sent a friend to the Premier, intimating his willingness to take office in the event of the breach with the three dissenting Ministers. The only stipulation that the ex-Minister of Public Works would make was that Remedial Legislation would be introduced as a Government measure. But he was willing to concede that Government supporters should be at liberty to go as they pleased on the bill. Sir Hector later in the day denied that there was any truth in the report.

Although it is known that he is keen to get into the cabinet once more, Mr. Oulmet has, however, stated that he would find a difficulty in carrying a constituency in the Province of Quebec if he sought re-election. There seems to be little doubt that the Government can be reconstructed if Mr. Oulmet and his colleagues finally decide to return.

Bankers at Saratoga. Saratoga, July 10.—The State Bankers' Association met here to-day. The addresses was one by E. E. Walker, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association.

Will Not Recede. One of the English Ministers said tonight that, rather than recede from the stand taken on Monday, the Government would insist on its position and to immediately dissolve Parliament.

So far as the business of the House is concerned, little remains to be done. The report that the Premier would introduce a bill to amend the B.N.A. Act, which would have the effect of introducing Remedial Legislation as an evidence of the bona fide of their colleagues. This was the offer, request or ultimatum which they made to Sir Mackenzie Bowell this morning. The Premier informed them that he would give an answer to-morrow, whereupon, so it is reported, the Ministers consented to wait.

The nature of the conference which had taken place in the morning was carried to the French-Canadian caucus, which met between 12 and 1 o'clock in Mr. Jones' room in the Parliament buildings, and at which about 25 Quebec Conservatives were present. When the meeting broke up Mr. Jones announced that he had decided to do nothing until to-morrow, thereby showing that they were acting in concert with the three French Ministers.

Had Mr. Laurier moved a motion of want of confidence there would have been a solid Conservative phalanx against them. The Opposition leader, after his fiasco yesterday, did not dare risk another adverse vote.

The opening of the House. The report current during the morning that Messrs. Oulmet and Caron would make an official statement of their position to the House at 3 o'clock to-day had again the effect of crowding the galleries with eager spectators, but they were doomed to disappointment. The seats of the two Ministers in the Commons were vacant, but it seems to be certain that they will be in their places to-morrow, whether they are reconciled to their colleagues or not. Mr. Oulmet was within the precincts transacting business with his deputy, but on leaving the building he never looked the way of the chamber.

The Government's Position. The question which is now on every one's lips is as to what position the Government will take. Can they, in the face of the specific declaration of Monday, recede or are they bent on the English-speaking Conservatives, and is that the Government cannot deviate a iota from the statement of two days ago.

The slightest variation would be hailed as a victory for the Quebec Ministers, while the other provinces would regard it as a sign of weakness on the part of the Government. It is therefore tonight seem to be indications of a reconciliation, due possibly to the negotiations which have been in progress all evening.

Some idea of the supplementary statement which the Premier and Mr. Foster will make to-morrow has not been conveyed to the Quebec Ministers, and it is said to be satisfactory to them. It

PUT TO DEATH HERE.

The Pitzeel Children Were Killed in Toronto.

DETECTIVE GEYER IS POSITIVE

Thinks They Were Cremated in a Furnace.

Holmes Came Here and Registered at the Palmer House—Mrs. Pitzeel Registered at the Union Hotel—Will Make a Tour of the East Coast of the Bay

Called by the Local Detectives in an Effort to Find Some Trace of the Scene of the Crime—Positive Proof That One Boy Was Killed in Detroit.

Philadelphia, July 10.—A detective from Philadelphia arrived in Toronto yesterday to continue the search for a clue as to the manner in which the Pitzeel children, Benjamin E. Pitzeel, who was Holmes' accomplice in a scheme to defraud the Fidelity Insurance Company of Philadelphia.

Mr. Geyer is a good type of the general American detective, and has had a wide experience as a member of the Quebec City detective department. His visit here has to do with the most sensational story of substitution, murder and fraud.

Insurance companies were brought to light, the full details of which were exclusively published in The World yesterday.

For two weeks Mr. Geyer has been tracing step by step the movements of Holmes.

Tracing Holmes' Movements. The story was given away to a neighbor in his efforts to continue his deception. Mr. Pitzeel, who up to the hour of his arrest, believed her husband to be alive and in charge of her children, was told in yesterday's World. In the first named city Holmes was accompanied by all three children, whom he conspired to hide from the law, and, registering under different names in each stopping place. The children were becoming burdensome to him, and he had a meeting between them and their mother, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

Cremated at Detroit. At Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

On Detroit a boy, Howard Pitzeel, disappeared. Holmes had a house in Forest-avenue, which contained a furnace, but his scheme failed to materialize. The home he rented in Indianapolis was furnished with only a large trunk, but he was unable to get away the day after it had been put in, as Holmes feared the place was too dangerous for the successful consummation of his deed.

&lt;