

articles of toilet she would wear for the first time on a Saturday, in order to honor her heavenly Mother.

This love of the Blessed Virgin inspired her with many practices of devotion, as her journal testifies : "Daily recitation of the Rosary, daily "visit to my Blessed Mother in one of her sanctuaries, and above all in the chapel of my "Convent ; Oh ! how I love this sanctuary ! "How good God is to me here ! How many "graces has the Blessed Virgin showered upon "me !" Further on, we read : "Offerings to my "dear Mother. Three spiritual roses every day "of my life, these three roses will be three acts "of charity towards my neighbor."

During Lent and Advent, the month consecrated to the dead, and that dedicated to the Sacred Heart, she adds to the three roses, five acts of mortification, and her journal was not interrupted till a few days before her death, bearing testimony of her fidelity to the end in these holy practices of love for Mary.
