

They also expressed kind sentiments towards J. A. Foster.

Following the addresses, Messrs. Thomas Wood, Samuel McGraw, and H. E. Church on behalf of the two persons of ill-repute and Mrs. Foster in the name of Mrs. Mansfield, approached with their addresses. They spoke of the ten years of absence, their sorrowful feelings and how they had realized that they had sinned and believed them. Weaving with the aid of the chorists, making very good effect.

At the close of the service the pastor of the Methodist church, and great numbers of his flock, were present and the
