

tar, Mrs. Lally applied the torch at several points. As the building was three stories and could be seen from the North Market wharf, a watchman there observed flames coming out of the north end. He at once gave the alarm, and the fire was soon extinguished, followed by the arrest of Mrs. Lally, who was found on the premises. She was tried in the Old Court room, Market square, found guilty and sentenced to stand in the Pillory one hour on King square. It is at this stage Dr. Quinn appears upon the scene, for on his certificate as her medical adviser that Mrs. Lally's health was such as to place her life in peril, should the sentence be carried out, the sentence was in consequence postponed, and in the end she was pardoned." 47. The answer to the inquiry as to the expedition to Turk's Islands is fully given in the story of "The cruise of the 'Rechab,'" in this number of THE MAGAZINE.

48. Whatever may be the history of the Alexander Campbell concerning whom Mr. Wilson seeks information, he was not the founder of the Campbellite Baptists. That body owes its existence to a Rev. Alexander Campbell, of Bethany, Virginia, and the movement for the organization of the denomination began in Virginia in the year 1823. L. C. D.

48. Alexander Campbell was the son of Colin Campbell, high sheriff of the county of Charlotte (born in Glasgow, Scotland), and of Amy Campbell, his wife (born in St. Stephen, N. B.) Alexander was born in St. Andrews, N. B., July 31, 1809. In religious belief he was a Presbyterian, and in politics a Conservative. He was married to Susan E. Milliken, at St. Stephen, N.
