

Family Matters for SERV

With Pre-Posting Courses for Everyone

The Services Centre (SERV) offers a number of workshops and briefings to prepare employees and their families for upcoming postings. The workshops address the many issues and specific problems which may be encountered in the process of preparing employees and family members for assignments.

Administrative information, including the FSDs, mailing privileges and diplomatic and consular immunities and privileges are presented during the mandatory administrative briefings. A two-day briefing is offered to those leaving on a first posting and a one-day briefing for employees who have been on posting before.

Workshops cover the following themes: financial and legal, move-related, family oriented and spousal employment. A variety of other workshops such as protocol, first aid and CPR, staying healthy abroad and working with household staff are also offered.

Spouses/partners are invited to attend the briefings and workshops. A posting confirmation is not needed to register. Details on the program including dates and how to register are available on the SERV homepage. For more information, call 944-7061.
