

brightly coloured varieties, while ordinary plates will answer for those which are of more quiet colour. Almost any lens of moderately long focus will do for this work ; the camera should have a long bellows and have back focus and single swing ; this latter is made necessary by having to place the camera so near the ground.