CHEAP MEALS, BUT SO GOOD!

Students in Domestic Science Provide Ideal Menus at a Minimum of Cost.

Yesterday was "Exhibit Day" at the Lillian Massey School of Domestic Science in the Fred Victor Mission building. Students had been given problems to supply a meal costing a given price, containing a certain percentage of protein and so many calories.

- Roll-Oats. Marmalade. Milk and Sugar. Cereal Coffee. Sugar. Milk. DINNER. Beef Broth. Potato Balls. Boiled Beans. Canned Corn. Steamed Brown Bread. Mock Maple Syrup. Macaroni and Beef Timbals. Bread and Butter. Stewed Figs. Milk. Tea.

This food contained 2.5 ounces of protein and 2468 calories, and was satisfactory in every way.

Miss M. Brown displayed a 25-cent meal for one person for one day. This is how she managed: BREAKFAST—Half an Orange. Cornmeal Porridge. Fish Balls. Butter. Toast. Cocoa. DINNER—Tomato Soup. Beefsteak. Bread. Boiled Beets. Mashed Potatoes. Lemon Snow. Custard Sauce. Cream and Sugar. Tea.

Miss Kate Black had to construct a six-course meal for six persons, costing not more than $2. The result: Creole Soup. Parkerhouse Rolls. Lobster Cutlets. Roast Loin of Lamb. With Gravy and Mint Sauce. Potatoes. Tomato Salad. Peas. New Sandwiches. Maple Pastry. Rolled Almond Wafers. Cream Mints. Salted Almonds.

A pretty good meal, isn't it? Costing not more than 35 cents each, too. In addition to these, dainty little dishes were constructed purposely for invalids, and any one looking on those concoctions would wish to be sick for once in their lives.

The instructors in the school are: Miss L. Laird, Miss E. Eadie, Miss B. Tamblin, Miss M. Craig and Miss H. Paul.

Apart from the cooking department—pardon the expression—Miss E. Bush instructs a class in making clothes from their own designs, and, moreover, there is a tiny little laundry with a complete equipment. Each student has one taking a help-mate out of the elements, and feel sure that all branches of household work have been covered.

The Late Mrs. Morris

The late Mrs. Alexander Morris was a daughter of Mr. William Clive of Cornwall, and a niece of the Hon. Colonel Philip Van Koughnet. When her husband, the late Hon. Alexander Morris, was in Sir John Macdonald's Ministry at Ottawa, she was of great assistance to him in his political life, and later during his term as Governor of Manitoba and the Territories, shortly after the first Reil Rebellion, did much to reconcile the different elements by her kind and gracious ways.

Of late years she had lived a very retired life, but if anything her Christian influence was still more widely felt, for it might be truly said of her "she stretcheth out her hands to the poor; yea, she reacheth forth her hands to the needy."

She had been good health until the end came suddenly and painlessly on Wednesday evening. She is survived by four sons, William Morris, barrister, Alexander Morris, Captain R. C. Morris, R.A.; Edmund Morris, A.R.C.A., and two daughters, Miss Morris and Mrs. Jane Cochrane.

Woman's Art Exhibition

Like a collection of gay butterflies encouraged by the genial weather, the exhibition of the Women's Art Association yesterday presented the most charming array of moving and harmonious color.

The materials displayed on the ground floor, in generous piles and artistic drapings, offered a pleasant setting for the artist's spring costumes, and airy tints suggested the first freshness of April. The gathering was a most fashionable one, and informal enough to be very enjoyable.

All the exhibits were the work of the women of Canada, made in their own homes by their own hands, and the suggestion of the transportation to the new nation of the delicate and tasteful art of older lands was pleasant to the patriot. Fine warm home-spun for women in beautiful tones, adapted for men, found a substantial basis. The woollens and linsens came chiefly from the east.

Hand embroideries and needlework from the Persian, Russian, Indian and Galician women settled in the Northwest, mingled with these products of the loom and furnish splendor, trimmings and airy tints suggested the first freshness of April. The gathering was a most fashionable one, and informal enough to be very enjoyable.

The special exhibit of about 100 paintings is displayed in the upper gallery, and Miss Drummond's miniatures were much admired. Work from the Bookbinding Club, the Pottery Club, the China Club, the Wood Carving Club, the Lace-making Club, the Cabinet Work Club, and the Sketch Club, is also view.

The exhibit is distinctly a members' one, from the 600 or 700 members in Toronto and others elsewhere. On Thursday and yesterday Miss Weaver, contralto, entertained with songs and a Drummond recitation, Miss Carver, soprano soloist, Miss Mason, piano; J. E. Fiddes, tenor; Mrs. Blight, accompanist. As admission is free during the week, the public are likely to call frequently at 394 Jarvis-street.

THE ART EXHIBITION AN EXCELLENCE ONE

29th Annual Display of the Royal Canadian Academy is Formally Placed on View.

No more charming reception has occurred in artistic circles than the opening of the 29th annual exhibition of the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts at the King-street galleries last night. The exhibition is a most successful one, and the selection committee and the arrangement of the exhibits is a masterpiece of taste and judgment. The quality of the work contributed, when it is well done adds greatly to the attractiveness of the galleries as a popular resort.

The first impression received from the exhibition is the marked artistic individuality and independence of style. The art is of a high order, and the quality of the work contributed, when it is well done adds greatly to the attractiveness of the galleries as a popular resort. The first impression received from the exhibition is the marked artistic individuality and independence of style. The art is of a high order, and the quality of the work contributed, when it is well done adds greatly to the attractiveness of the galleries as a popular resort.

Among the portraits and portrait studies and sketches in which the exhibition is unusually rich there are many that deserve extended notice. A very attractive canvas is that of Robert Harris, C.M.G., R.C.A., of Montreal, No. 57, "The Ship," depicting a ship being towed into a harbor. S. Strickland Tully, R.C.A., is another artist who inclines to Dutch subjects and his "Kuahtsien landscape," is noticeable for the limpidity of the water and its suggestion of motion. F. McGilivray Knowles, R.C.A., is likewise a specialist in landscape, whose "Corn in the Stook," No. 90, is daringly aggressive in vivid coloring. "Evening Light on the Aswan Canal," is the only, but striking contribution of Marmaduke Matthews, R.C.A. Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Reid show several of their characteristic landscape studies, in which some of the more subtle aspects of nature receive appreciative embodiment. Homer Watson, R.C.A., has three of his strongly individualistic transcripts, which seen at the proper distance, are remarkable for their truth and power.

In addition to the paintings, there are a number of architectural drawings of remarkable quality and a small but excellent exhibit of sculptures. Altogether, the exhibition is an excellent one and should prove highly popular. It at least deserves popularity.

AT THE THEATRES

Rossini is usually credited with being a master composer, and last night at the Princess, when the Dunsmore Company put on the premiere of the "Barber of Seville," was not surprised that the audience should have selected. Madame Baldini has been heard here before in "Carmen," but last night was particularly effective in her second act, where she was able to display her powers in coloratura singing and her special gifts in melodrama. Her best foil was Basilio, music-master to Rossini, and Ambrosio, the basso, who was in especially good voice last night. Madame Baldini has gifts in dramatic art, but in voice accomplishments her forte is beyond question; her power was especially displayed in trills. She has the gift of always

Toronto World's Beauty Patterns

An Attractive Design for a One Piece Corset Cover. No 866

To the women who take pleasure in fashioning their own underwear, this design will appeal at once, because of its dainty simplicity. It is most easily and quickly made, being cut in one piece. The neck and armholes are finished by lace, and ribbon-run heading. At the waistline the fullness is held in place by a tape inserted in a casing. If preferred, hand embroidery may take the place of the lace heading. Button-holed scoops with a row of eyelets below, being a very pretty mode of decoration. Lawn, nainsook and handkerchief hem are all good materials for the making. For a 36 inch bust measure 1 1/8 yards of 36 inch material will be needed.
